U. S. LOSES 621 MILLIONAIRES IN SINGLE YEAR

Income Tax Figures Give Secret.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—There were 29,897 millionaires in the United States in 1926 compared with 30,513, the high water mark in 1925, according to the statistics of the income tax for 1926 issued today by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair.
Multimillionaires, however, were more numerous in 1926 than ever before. There were 228 persons with incomes of $1,000,000 or more and fortunes of $20,000,000 or more compared with 207 in 1925.
The number of multimillionaires rose from 40 in 1914 to 206 in 1916 and then fell steadily until 1921 when they numbered 21, then rose to 75 in 1924 and leaped to 207 the next year.
Change in Investments.
This does not mean, however, the making, unmaking and remaking of multimillionaires. It means that when war taxes were high multimillionaires reduced their taxable incomes by investing in tax exempt securities but that after the reduction of taxes on large incomes, the very rich reinvested in productive enterprises and returned larger taxable incomes.
Probably there are considerably more than 20,000 persons in the country with fortunes of $1,000,000 or more, for the incomes of the treasury statistics are not incomes after the deductions allowed by the income tax law. If you class as millionaires persons with incomes of $50,000 or more, there were 7,509 in 1914; 19,103 in 1917; 11,069 in 1921, and 21,534 in 1924.
The number of persons in each of the various classes of incomes in 1925 and 1926 is shown in the following table:

FIVE MARINES DIE IN NICARAGUAN BANDIT AMBUSH

23 Are Wounded, 6 Seriously.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 1.—[AP.]—Five officers and 150 marine enlisted men have been ordered to Nicaragua on the army transport Chateau Thierry, which will sail from New York within a few days.

BY LOUIS ROSENTHAL.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 1.—[Official reports received here today by the commandant of the United States marines in Nicaragua, Col. Louis Mason Gulick, confirm the report that the main column of United States marines and the national guard advancing toward the base of Gen. Sandino, the rebel leader, at Quilali, was ambushed Friday by a force estimated at 500 bandits. A severe engagement lasting one hour and twenty minutes occurred.
The bandits were driven to the mountains, but the marines and national guard suffered the most severe losses since the beginning of the drive. The casualties were five killed and twenty-three wounded, six seriously.

The Casualties.

The dead: First Sgt. Johnny E. Hemphill, whose uncle lives in Chicago; Corp. Adolph Theilhaber, Middle Village, N. Y.; Privates George E. Goldsmith, Deer Park, Wis.; W. Grady, Watson Point, La.; Estler Grossman, Pleasant Plains, O.
Seriously wounded: Capt. Richard Livingston, Philadelphia; Gunner Sgt. Fred Corryell, Anacostia, Mont.; and Privates Robert H. Collins, Cobb, Ga.; Charles E. Turner, Terre Haute, Ind.; Bernard W. Coyne, Framingham, Mass.; Leonard J. Smith, New York City.
Among the slightly wounded: Lieut. William T. Minnick, Medical Corps, U. S. N., South Hills, Pittsburgh; Field Lieut. Morton J. Gould, Paterson, N. J.

Marines 200 Strong.

The column ambushed, which was commanded by Capt. Livingston, left Matagalpa, about fifteen days ago to reinforce the marines and national guardmen stationed in the Ocotol district. It was about 200 strong. It carried a well equipped and large pack train.

Quilali for some time has been the base for Gen. Sandino. It is believed that 700 bandits, well armed and well equipped, have been concentrated there, supplying themselves by looting.

The losses of the bandits are not known, but it is believed that they were severe. They removed their dead from the field of battle.

Airplanes Go to Aid Marines.

Airplanes were not used in the major engagement, as the attack was a surprise. The marine officials believe that the rebel leader's men are receiving training in discipline from foreigners. The bandits are constantly improving in the ways of warfare. They also are wearing uniforms and using machine guns, indicating foreign aid. The marine forces are being reinforced by patrols from Telpacanea and Ocotol and airplanes from Managua, which are keeping in close contact with the main force.

Gen. Sandino has retreated eighteen miles from Quilali to El Chipote, which the marines now are marching to attack.

Most of the wounded marines were hit by fragments of grenades. There have been 1,400 men and 80 officers on duty in Nicaragua since a reduction of the marine force in August. It is believed Gen. Sandino is getting thirteen thousand rifles were taken out of circulation in Nicaragua under the Stimson disarmament agreement.

Battle Among Forests.

MANAGUA, Jan. 1.—[U. P.]—Quilali has been one of Sandino's strongholds since the arrival of troops from the United States. A determined effort was made to take this town, which would reduce Sandino's prestige and take from him one of his strategic points.

Fighting in the Ocotol region is by no means a simple matter. The mountains are covered with forests, making it easy for the rebels to ambush an attacking force.

Until the Quilali battle only seven marines had been killed in skirmishes with the rebels. At no time previously were more than two marines killed in one engagement.

ENLISTED IN CHICAGO.

According to his uncle William P. Hemphill of 6933 Oglesby avenue, Chicago, First Sgt. John E. Hemphill, one of the dead.

SEASONING FOR THE 1928 POLITICAL POT

Beer Runner Is Slain; Body Found in Snow

Frank D. Carpenter, 25 years old, 1435 West Taylor street, west side hoodlum and beer runner, was found dumped into a pile of snow at Ogden avenue and Polk street early yesterday, starting the new year with a fatality in Chicago's gangland warfare. Police asserted the belief that he was shot while in the Radio inn, 1840 West Madison street, after having incautiously displayed $1,000 while in the company of a woman companion.

In a raid on the Radio inn, Sgt. Thomas Harrison and William Burns arrested seven men besides the manager, Joseph Burkhardt, 4250 West Monroe street. All denied knowledge of the killing of Carpenter.

Among the men arrested in the cabaret was Eugene Marshall, 29, 1812 West Washington boulevard, who was held as a suspect in the murder of policeman Byron Porter, killed when he interrupted a robbery in La Grange in 1923. He is a son of a former chief of police of La Grange.

Bullet holes in ceiling. Two bullet holes in the ceiling and a partition near the rear door, could not be explained by Burkhardt and George Stellas, 18 South Leavitt street, a bartender found in the cabaret. Outside in the snow the police found tracks left by an automobile which had been backed up against the back entrance.

It is thought that Carpenter's body was carried outside after being shot in a robbery, placed in the machine, and carted to the place of disposal.

From a phone number found in the dead man's clothes police located Peggie Brown of 2841 West Madison street. She said she had been on a New Year's party with Carpenter and had accompanied him to the cabaret. Both had been drinking, she admitted, and she recalled that Carpenter had displayed a large roll of bills. But she couldn't remember anything about a shooting or what became of her escort.

Owner of 'Moon Joint.'

Carpenter was described in the official police records as proprietor of a "moon joint" and his history was to be found in the chronicles of the Bureau of Identification. His associate also called him Dutch. A few years ago he operated a saloon at 1809 West Madison street and occasionally there was a murder committed there, but Dutch always told the police he didn't know anything about it.

John Capone Arrested.

Another of the most important incidents of the beginning of the new year by the gangster element was the arrest of John Capone, whose only apparent offense was that he is a brother of Scarface Al, who changed his name to Brown. Capone just happened to be in the way of a few men who had their orders from Chief of Detectives William O'Connor to throw all hoodlums and racketeers in jail whenever and wherever sighted.

Capone was in the company of Arnold Warner, 6485 Harper avenue; Fred Weald, 2145 South Michigan avenue; and Fred Barry, who said he lived at the Southern hotel.

WEST SIDE HOTEL BOMBED IN NEW GANGSTERS' WAR

Renewal of the vice and gambling war of the gangsters was seen early this morning when a bomb was exploded in the Newport hotel, 3247 West Madison street, owned by the Bertsch-Skidmore syndicate, causing damage estimated at $25,000. The entire front of the building was blown out and the interior wrecked. A dozen women residents in the place fled out the rear stairway in scanty attire.

Joseph Rubin, the clerk on duty, said three men rushed in shortly after five o'clock and pushed the bomb on the stairway, which leads up from the office, then fled. He threw a bucket of water on the fuse, but as it continued to sputter, he ran to the rear of the hotel and escaped injury.

Windows in surrounding buildings were shattered, and residents all over the west side were aroused by the explosion.

LOIE FULLER, DANCER FRIEND OF QUEEN, DIES

PARIS, Jan. 2.—[AP.]—Loie Fuller, dancer who became a center of controversy during Queen Marie's tour of the United States in 1926, died today of pneumonia.

Loie Fuller made her stage debut in Chicago when she was 2 years old, dodging on the stage to recite "Mary Had a Little Lamb." She later appeared in a stock company here, and in the 90's was in Paris, where she attracted wide attention as the creator of color dancing. Later she appeared in Bucharest, where she won the friendship of Queen Marie, then Princess Marie. This friendship endured until the queen's visit to America, when Loie was a member of the royal entourage. She ceased to be a member of the party before the trip was over and returned to Paris.

BRIGGS HOUSE CLOSSES DOORS AFTER 75 YEARS

The Briggs house, historic hotel at Randolph and Wells street, ended its 75 years' existence yesterday. The doors were nailed shut shortly after midnight with the expiration of the hotel's lease on the building. Wreckers will start work Jan. 18 clearing the site for the forty story Steuben club building.

Another Randolph street landmark passed yesterday when Joe Grein, "millionaire newsboy" and one time city sealer, vacated his store across the street from the city hall. He has been in business at Randolph and Le Salle street for fifty years, first as a newsboy and in the last few years as a merchant of novelties, bottling supplies and beverages. His store is to be wrecked to make way for a new office building facing the widened Le Salle street.

Hurt Christmas by Auto, Dies as First 1928 Victim

The first death in 1928 from an automobile accident in Cook county was reported yesterday. The victim was Anthony Flasciora, 52 years old, 2332 West 26th street. He died on New Year's day from injuries received Christmas when he was struck by an automobile at West 26th street and Marshall boulevard.

28 Injured, 1 Killed as Cars Crash

Speeding southward at 60 miles an hour, a South Shore limited train, filled with passengers returning to Indiana after a holiday in Chicago, crashed into yesterday afternoon into a stalled local train at 130th street.

There was a rending of iron and wood as the collision occurred. So great was the force that the smaller local train, also well filled with passengers, was hurled for more than 250 feet down the track. The accident caused the death of one man and the injury of 28 others. Four hundred others were shaken and shocked.

Passengers in Panic.

The first coach of the limited train bore the full force of the crash. As its front end was splintered, the structure burst into flames and the steam pipes of the heating system gave way, spraying the occupants with scalding vapors.
The cries of frightened children and of injured men and women rose above the screech of the brakes. There was a mad rush for the open air and a number were trampled underfoot. In the other limited coaches, which were derailed, there were similar scenes.
Like the wreck of the Chicago and Alton railroad on Saturday, this collision was blamed on the weather conditions that prevailed. The local train had been moving slowly along to the south until at 15th street its brakes became jammed, presumably because of the zero temperature. An Illinois Central train then pushed it on its way.

Motorman Is Killed.

At 130th street its two coaches were hooked onto the single car of an express train. Still the crew was unable to make it move, and a flagman had been sent back to halt the limited. Witnesses said that apparently he had given his signals, but that Edward Stafford, 183 East 113th street, the motorman of the second train, was unable to see them because of a sharp curve in the tracks.

Stafford was the man killed. His arm and leg were crushed when his compartment was flattened by the impact and he was scalded when the pipes burst. He died occurred at the Pullman emergency hospital.

As the passengers of the two trains left their seats and fought their way outside they were met by icy blasts sweeping over the open prairies. With many of them incapacitated and unable to care for themselves, the immediate problem was to find a shelter.

Ice House Used as Hospital.

Those who escaped injuries assisted the crews in carrying the others into an ice house belonging to Swift & Co. near the scene of the wreck and on the shores of Lake Calumet. The structure was converted into an emergency first aid station. Ambulances and physicians were summoned and the injured were later removed to the Roseland Community hospital.

All available policemen in the nearby districts were sent to aid in the transportation. Practically all of the passengers and residents of Hammond, Gary and South Bend.

Manufacturer Is Hurt.

Edmund Johnson, 400 Deering place, president of the Schaft Piano String company, 2011 Clybourn avenue, was among the more severely injured. Physicians at Pullman hospital said that he had sustained burns from a burst steam pipe.
Capt. John Prendergast of Kensington police, immediately launched an inquiry into the cause of the wreck. Officials generally conceded that the presence of a sharp curve just north

MRS. LINDBERGH IS FORCED DOWN AGAIN BY SNOW

Plane Lands Safely in Michigan.

Edwardsburg, Mich., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, who left Chicago this morning on the last lap of her flight from Mexico City, where she visited her famous son, Charles, over Christmas, was forced down near here at 11 o'clock this morning.

Blinded by a snowstorm, Pilot Harry Brooks was unable to find his way and circled low over the town seeking a landing place. The plane was not high and inhabitants of the town could hear the motors, but were unable to see the plane because of the snow. After circling twice the pilot made a good landing in a field on the Walter Curtis farm at Pleasant Lake. Mrs. Lindbergh went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Allen on the outskirts of Edwardsburg, while the other members of the party were cared for at the E. S. Clark farm.

Lands in Snow Drifts.

Pilot Brooks maneuvered the plane carefully before landing in the snow drifted field. Mrs. Lindbergh was undismayed by the forced landing, displaying the same calm as when her plane descended at Lansing, Ill., early Saturday evening.

Late in the afternoon the Lincoln Motor company of Sturgis, Mich., learned of Mrs. Lindbergh's plight and immediately dispatched two automobiles to Edwardsburg. The cars could get no farther than Adamsville, about ten miles from Edwardsburg, and preparations were made to take Mrs. Lindbergh to Adamsville in a bobbed. This plan was abandoned, however, on account of the heavily drifted roads and Mrs. Lindbergh spent the night at the Allen home.

Spend Night in Plane.

Pilot Brooks and his assistant, Harry Russell, spent the night in the plane, keeping the motors running to prevent freezing.

Mrs. Lindbergh and her party plan to leave Edwardsburg by motor for Sturgis tomorrow morning. Pilot Brooks and his assistant will try to take off "light"—with no load—from the field here. They will talk about in an attempt to pound down the snow to form a runway, then hop off for the Ford airport at Sturgis. There, it is hoped, they will be able to pick up the rest of the party. If this proves impossible, Mrs. Lindbergh will probably go to Detroit by rail or motor.

LEAVES LANSING FIELD.

After an automobile ride through snowdrifts, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh and her party reached the plane at the Lansing air field in the south end of Cook county early yesterday morning. The cabin of the plane was heated up and everything was ready for the takeoff.

Mrs. Lindbergh, after protesting, finally consented to have her photograph taken with Mr. and Mrs. William B. Stout, Mrs. John Collins and Pilot Harry Brooks. Then she stepped into the heated cabin and at 8:10 o'clock the plane took off. Pilot Brooks said he planned to reach an altitude of 1,500 feet and continue at that height to Detroit.

"The forced landing last night does not dampen my desire to finish this flight," Mrs. Lindbergh said when she reached the field. "This is a safe way to make a journey and I have no fear."

Several of the cars following the Lindbergh party to the air field had difficulty in reaching the destination because of the snowdrifts on the open roads.

LINDY IN SAN SALVADOR

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, Jan. 1.—[AP.]—Col. Charles Lindbergh today added another national capital to the list of those which he has visited, seen and conquered.

Today it was San Salvador, diminutive mountain city of this Central American republic to which the "lop-eagle" winged his way, arriving at Hlopang field near here at 9:15 this morning. He left Belize, British Honduras, at 5:30, traversing the 260 miles of mountains in 2 hours and 45 minutes flying time.

A crowd that included most of San Salvador's population and thousands from miles around—from over a whole of the republic—met the American flyer at the aviation field, and gave him such an ovation as Salvador has rarely seen, and certainly one such as the republic never before accorded a foreigner.

From the moment a little speck appeared in the sky and minutes later was recognized as the "Spirit of St. Louis," there were shouts of "There he comes," "He did it again," and "Viva Lindy." Shouts turned to wild acclaim as the flyer settled his plane over the field, circling it two or three times, and getting, as he says, "the feel of it," before attempting the landing.

Once the plane had stopped, the multitude jammed around it and it was with difficulty the flyer was taken from his "ship" and escorted to the spot where the president waited to greet him and then off the field to where an automobile was waiting to take him into San Salvador. With the din of his admirers' shouts in his ears, he was started into the city, where he was given an opportunity to change his clothes before beginning the round of entertainment and receptions in his honor.

Guest of President.
At 4 o'clock this afternoon he was the guest of the president, Señor Romero Boscque, at a reception at the presidential mansion to which members of the cabinet, the diplomatic corps, military officials and those prominent in Salvadorean life had been invited. The reception was only the first of a lavish program of entertainment which has been arranged for the visiting aviator during his two days here.

The crowd that welcomed Col. Lindbergh had been gathering since early morning. At 6:30 when three cannon shots boomed their message that the aviator had left Belize, the field at Ilopango already was crowded, and when more than an hour later three more shots gave notice he was expected within an hour the road from the city to the landing field was teeming with taxis, automobiles, and pedestrians, all eager to be on hand when he should arrive.

There were many among those whose eyes were sleepy from last night's New Year's celebration—the welcome to Lindbergh was a fitting end to the New Year's fete, some were heard to say. Taxi drivers took advantage of the occasion to double and treble their charges to Ilopango, but nobody grumbled.

Railroads Run Excursions.
All shops and business places were closed today beyond even the usual on the New Year holiday, a government proclamation having made this

LARGEST LIGHTHOUSE IN WORLD IS PLANNED TO HONOR COLUMBUS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—(AP)—A permanent memorial to Christopher Columbus in the form of the largest lighthouse in the world will guide future pilots to Santo Domingo under plans announced today by the governing board of the Pan-American union.

Architects of all nations will compete for the honor of designing the proposed $4,000,000 structure. Fifty thousand dollars will be distributed in prizes.

Secretary of State Kellogg, as chairman of the governing board, said that Albert Kelsey of Philadelphia, one of the architects of the Pan-American building, had been authorized to proceed to Santo Domingo, select the site and plan the competition.

The lighthouse will be erected in a park near Santo Domingo and is expected to serve as a beacon not only to mariners but to aerial navigators. A monument built by the Dominican government to house the remains of the explorer will be placed in the memorial.

The Dominican government already has subscribed $100,000 to the fund, and other governments have indicated their willingness to participate.

an occasion extraordinary. Visitors are in this city from even the farthest hamlets of this nation, the railroads having greatly reduced their rates to allow everyone an opportunity to view the famous flyer.

Col. Lindbergh, shortly after reaching the city, expressed satisfaction with the reception that had been accorded him at the flying field and the facilities provided there for the care of his plane. He expressed himself as very happy at the honor which has been accorded him by the "Salvador society" which has elected him to membership. He said he was enchanted with the beauty and grace of Salvador's señoritas—but almost everyone noticed that none of them gained a second look from him.

Hops Off from Belize.

BELIZE, British Honduras, Jan. 1.—(AP)—Just as the sun peered over the eastern horizon this morning, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took leave of this little colony which he "put on the map" with the mighty shouts of New Year good wishes from a vast throng and the perfect rhythm of the motor of the Spirit of St. Louis ringing in his ears.

Fully an hour before the take-off for San Salvador, which was made at 6:30, an enthusiastic crowd as large as that which greeted him on his arrival Friday, assembled on the tiny polo field which the "viking of the air" has made famous.

As Col. Lindbergh approached the field, accompanied by Sir John Burdon, the governor general, and Lady Burdon, the police had great difficulty in holding back the good natured crowd, which had been kept quiet so far with popular songs and music, rendered by the two principal bands of the colony.

Appreciates Hearty Reception.
After Col. Lindbergh had made an inspection of the Spirit of St. Louis and donned his flying clothes he said good-by to Sir John and Lady Burdon, who left a sickbed in order to see him off, and then granted a brief interview to newspaper men.

"I am more than pleased with my visit to Belize," said the ambassador of good will from the north. "I deeply appreciate the hearty reception that has been given me and I hope some day to return for a longer visit."

This important event concluded, Col. Lindbergh singled out Assistant Superintendent of Police MacDonald and especially thanked him for the good care he had taken of him while here. Then, waving his hand to the cheering throng in a farewell salute, Col. Lindbergh entered the cabin of the monoplane and made a beautiful take-off, quite in contrast to the perilous landing he made on the 50 feet wide runway Friday. The weather was ideal with a light westerly wind blowing.

"Hero of Whole World."
After circling St. John's college, where yesterday he was guest of honor at a big reception, Col. Lindbergh headed directly south and was soon lost in the blue horizon.

This "hero of the whole world," in the words of Sir John Burdon, had left the little possession of the British empire which he was told he "put on the map," but every citizen will retain of him a picture as bright as the early morning sunshine that painted the whole world in beautiful colors as the Spirit of St. Louis disappeared in the sky.

Father Dies, but Son Weds as He Wished

The dying wish of John Rex of Decatur, Ill., that his son, Paul, be married to Miss Mildred Allard, was carried out New Year's eve and a prearranged banquet and dance followed the wedding. He was 70 years old. Mr. Rex died shortly after being seized with a heart attack while inspecting the decorations in the hall where the dance was held. He asked that the marriage plans be carried out in detail.

Youth Admits 75 Cab Robberies with Fake Gun

At ten minutes before midnight New Year's eve Richard La Bree, 19, of 2229 Augusta street, held up Jesse Bachman, 238 South Wood street, the driver of the cab in which he was riding, and took $10. An hour later La Bree was arrested by Lieut. Tommy Mangan and his detective bureau squad. Police said La Bree confessed to 75 cab robberies within the last six months. For a weapon he used a cigar case shaped like a pistol.

Funeral services for Hugh M. S. Montgomery, a former vice president and member of the Board of Trade, will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., at his late residence, 5515 Hyde Park boulevard. Burial will be at Oakwoods cemetery. Mr. Montgomery was 67 years old when he died early yesterday at his home. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Julia Montgomery and daughter, Mrs. Brewster Loud of Detroit.

Dr. Edwin S. Antisdale, Nerve Specialist, Is Dead

Dr. Edwin Sawyer Antisdale, 66, died at his home, 5403 Woodlawn avenue, yesterday from an acute heart attack. He had been ill for 10 days. Dr. Antisdale specialized in the treatment of mental and nervous diseases and had an office in the Marshall Field Annex building. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock and interment will be at Notaw, Mich. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Kernochan Babcock.

WIFE OF MISSING HUNTER IS SAD ON ANNIVERSARY

Heartbroken and lonely, Mrs. Marjorie Case Maitland, wife of Alexander Maitland, missing north shore duck hunter, yesterday spent the first anniversary of his marriage at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Smith, in Glencoe. Mrs. Maitland and her missing husband were married on Jan. 1, 1926.

Maitland and his brother-in-law, Robert Case, 14, went out at 7 o'clock last Monday morning to hunt ducks, saying they would be back by 9. They never returned, and since then the lake has been searched and the marshes west of the suburbs combed for some trace of their fate.

Mrs. Maitland yesterday was still refusing to give up hope, firm in the belief that her husband and brother will return.

"I'm praying for them to come back," she said brokenly.

Admits Woman's Smoking Caused Date Cancellation

New York, Jan. 1.—(Special.)—William B. Perkins, tour manager for Maude Boyden, England's most distinguished woman preacher, admitted today that a Chicago lecture date has been canceled, presumably because Miss Boyden occasionally smokes. He said that Mrs. Dan B. Brummitt of Evanston, Ill., had made plain in canceling the date that the only reason was the fact that she sometimes uses cigarettes. Miss Boyden had been scheduled to deliver a religious message to members of the Women's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church in Chicago on Feb. 12.

Los Angeles Girl Missing; Another Kidnaping Feared

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 1.—(Special.)—The disappearance of Florence Ellison, 14, aroused fears of another kidnaping tonight. The girl disappeared last night after visiting her father, Deputy Sheriff Charles Ellison. She was on her way home to her mother, who is estranged from Ellison. The girl was last seen leaving a street car with an older woman.

32 GALESBURG STORES ROBBED IN SINGLE NIGHT

Galesburg, Ill., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Thirty-two stores in the main business district of Galesburg were robbed today with a loss in cash and merchandise estimated at several thousand dollars, yet known.

In several places attempts were made to open the safes, but none was successful, the robbers contenting themselves with merchandise and cash on sight.

Every type of store was entered, the thieves starting at one end of Main street and working systematically up the street, branching out to a few stores on side streets. Drug stores, pool halls, confectionery stores, meat and grocery stores, a tire store, several bakeries, and a laundry were included in the wholesale looting. Entrance was gained in most cases by breaking the glass in either the front or rear door. A week ago 12 stores were robbed and the following night four more were entered.

GLEWSPURS BANK BANDIT HUNT IN $80,000 ROBBERY

Auto License Trailed to Suspect.

One crew was being followed vigorously yesterday by Lieut. John L. Sullivan and his assistants seeking the seven men who on Saturday robbed the Ravenswood National bank of $80, 000. The police had an automobile license number and a name—William Evans, 503 South Lawndale avenue.

Two squads of police waited in vain for more than twenty-four hours for Evans to come home. Two brothers, Albert and Isadore Evans, were held for questioning at the North Robey street police station, but they insisted they did not know where William Evans would be found. Lieut. Sullivan said the brothers were above suspicion, and all he wanted from them was information about William.

Two Held Prisoners.

The robbers had held George A. Anderson, 2447 Cullum avenue, paying him at his home and in the morning forced him to open the bank wall as soon as the time lock on it was released. They had taken Anderson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Algot P.
Anderson, with them when they started for the bank, but the parents were left under guard in a garage while the job was taken to the bank.

The license number obtained by the police came as a result of questioning business men whose stores are near the bank.

License Issued to Evans.

Lieut. Sullivan learned that one car had been seen there frequently during the time the robbers were observing the routine of the bank employees.
He learned that this license number had been issued to Evans, and a check revealed that Evans had a police record.

It was a robust and resonant bass voice and filled with exultation and pride. Time, 10:45 p. m.

"Is it too late for a news item?" the voice asked.

"No, sir," said the rewrite man.

"Fine!" said the voice. "You know,
I got to thinking. My wife had twins tonight. Yes, SIR! One born at 4:05
p. m., the other at 4:20. Both girls.
Probably the first twins of 1928. Hope so, anyway. Mother and babies doing fine."

"Me? O, I'm twenty-nine. Dr. Louis Faulkner delivered 'em. Says they're wonderful babies. What's that? Gordon B. Gregory—that's yours truly—1046 Washington boulevard, Oak Park.
Where? In the West Suburban hospital."

"One—the first—weighed five pounds four ounces. That's the one we're going to name Josephine, after the misus. The other was five pounds ten ounces. My first? No, I've a little girl, Dolly, three and a half."

HIT BY DISEASE ON WHICH HE IS NOTED EXPERT

(Copyright: 1928: By the New York Times.)
LONDON, Jan. 1.—The famous neurologist, Sir Henry Head, has fallen a victim to the mysterious incurable disease on which possibly he is the greatest living authority—a form of creeping paralysis known as Parkinson's disease.

Sir Henry, who has made some of the most important contributions to the knowledge of nervous disorders, deliberately risked contracting paralysis nearly 20 years ago by submitting to a dangerous experiment on himself.
He had the nerve of his left arm severed near the elbow for the purpose of studying by personal experience the problem of "deep sensibility," an action which has been described in medical circles as worthy to rank with the noblest ever recorded in the annals of science and enabling more effective treatments in accidents where those nerves are severed.

BISHOP ASSAILS STRESSING WEAK POINTS OF GREAT

Modern biographers of great men who stress the small weaknesses of their subjects were criticized last night by Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of the Methodist Episcopal church in a talk before the Sunday Evening club.

"Man should not only guard his spoken words, but must realize that there is value in words preserved in silence," the bishop asserted. "There is little merit in bringing out the minor weaknesses of a great American, and thus obscuring in part his tremendous service to his country and his God, as in the case of a recent biography of George Washington."

GIRL PAYS WITH LIFE FOR TRYING RESCUE AT FIRE

When her home caught fire early yesterday Miss Emily Konopack, 23, of 2307 Clifton Park avenue, could have escaped the flames by fleeing directly to the street. Instead she remained with her sister, Helen, 15, to attempt the rescue of Miss Alice Pendleton and her mother, Mrs. Anna Pendleton, and paid for her heroism with her life. An explosion of a cleansing fluid started the blaze in the Pendleton apartment.
All four were burned before the arrival of firemen, who carried them down ladders erected in the snow.
Emily died a few hours after the fire at St. Anthony's hospital.

U. S. TO DEFEND 3 DRY SLAYERS OF AGED FARMER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—(Special.)—Five months will have elapsed when the three prohibition agents accused of slaying Charles V. Gundlach, aged Maryland farmer, during an unauthorized raid on the Gundlach home, are finally brought to trial for murder in a Baltimore (Md.) federal district court on Jan. 30.

The Gundlach case, involving Agents Joseph B. Brewer, Dano M. Jackley, and John T. Fisher Jr., is the latest of the 126 killings charged against federal dry sleuths. It is cited as a notable example of the extreme to which the government goes in protecting its "hair trigger" Volstead killers against state court prosecution.

U. S. Pitted Against State.

As has happened in a score or more of cases throughout the country during the last seven years, writs of habeas corpus issued by Federal Judge Morris A. Soper in Baltimore snatched Brewer, Jackley, and Fisher out of state court jurisdiction. This action frustrated the plans of St. Mary's county authorities to bring them to immediate trial under state grand jury murder indictments.

When Brewer, Jackley, and Fisher appear for trial on Jan. 30, they will be defended by United States District Attorney W. W. Woodstock and his aids, with all of the power, influence, and prestige of the government behind them. Against this array, Philip H. Dorsey Jr., state's attorney for St. Mary's county, and Robert H. Archer, assistant attorney general of the state, will seek to convict the killers.

It is this and many similar situations in the past which have aroused a determined group in both houses of congress to demand a sweeping investigation of all the cases where murder or manslaughter charges against dry agents have been arbitrarily transferred from state courts into federal courts.

The group which plans to insist upon an inquiry to determine how many murderers have escaped punishment because they found protection in federal courts assert that the mere fact that the United States attorney appears to defend an alleged murderer is bound to have a profound effect on the average jury. They point to the practical uniformity with which dry killers, indicted in state courts for murder or manslaughter, have been absolved in subsequent federal court trials.

Slain Defending Home.

No other killing in recent years so stirred Maryland as did that of Gundlach, who was riddled with bullets when he dared to resent an unauthorized search of his premises. Bad blood was known to exist between the 77-year-old farmer and Brewer, chief of the dry squad, who had already led one raid on the farmhouse, resulting in the seizure of a few bottles of home brew beer.

On Sept. 16 Brewer, Jackley, Fisher, and a fourth agent, Robert F. Cornett Jr., swooped down on the Gundlach farm a second time. This time, however, the old farmer was waiting for them and as they advanced through his gate he fired a shot.

There are conflicting reports of who fired the first shot, but it is not denied that the old man died in a hall of bullets directed at him from the dry agents' guns after he had fallen to his knees pleading for help and mercy. Mrs. Gundlach, the only eyewitness to the killing aside from the agents involved, testified in the preliminary hearing before a Leonardtown, Md., justice of the peace. She declared that Brewer stepped boldly over the dead man's body into the house and demanded the shot gun with which Gundlach had sought to repel the invasion.

A few hours after the justice had ordered the slayers held without bail pending action by the grand jury, the government went into action to protect them and petitions for writs of habeas corpus were prepared in anticipation of murder indictments. The indictments were voted and a few hours later, Judge Soper in Baltimore had issued the writs under which he assumed jurisdiction.

In a subsequent hearing, the pleas of State's Attorney Dorsey that the state of Maryland was entitled to try the alleged murderers in its own courts under its own laws and in the district in which the killing occurred, were overruled and the agents were released under nominal bonds, pending trial. The charges against Cornett were dropped when it was shown that he had not left the dry squad car and had not participated in the shooting.

Mob Action Threatened.

The intense feeling which pervaded the entire southern Maryland district after the agents were released on bond rose to fever heat and mob action was threatened when it became known that, released on bail, Brewer immediately resumed leadership of a dry enforcement squad and was leading new raids in the neighborhood.

A storm of protests from all over the state flooded the prohibition headquarters at Washington and culminated in the emphatic demand of Senator W. C. Bruce (Dem., Md.) that Brewer be completely separated from the dry service pending the outcome of the murder charges against him.

The last attempt of State's Attorney Dorsey in December to have the case against Brewer, Jackley and Fisher brought to early trial was met with the response that the Baltimore federal court docket was so congested that it was improbable that the case would be tried before the middle of January. Saturday, Judge Soper announced that he had fixed Jan. 30 as the date for the trial.

The available records of the prohibition bureau disclose that there are thirteen cases involving federal prohibition agents charged with murder or manslaughter which have been pending from three months to two and one-half years.

Shrewd Investors Buy PEARLS

For These Six Interesting Reasons

1—Pearls are safe. Their value is intrinsic. Strikes, wars or business depressions cannot affect their worth. Unlike bonds, their value lies in what they are, not in what they represent.

2—The demand increasing. supply decreasing. This is an outstanding factor of why Pearls increase in value so rapidly—and the rapid advance in price will continue indefinitely.

3—Pearls pay big dividends. The price on Pearls during the past century showed a steady increase. This increase alone is equal to a handsome dividend on the original investment.

4—Pleasure in wearing. All the while that Pearls are increasing in value, the owner has the pleasure of wearing them. They are not a luxury, although they may be enjoyed as such.

5—Pride in collecting. Pearls have greater individuality than any other gem, and are as fascinating to collect as are pieces of art.

6—LEBOLT'S prices below market average. Being the largest Pearl importers in Chicago, and selling direct at retail, LEBOLT'S are enabled to offer Pearls at less than wholesale prices.

DEATH TAKES ITS TOLL IN WAKE OF NEW YEAR'S EVE

Rum, Guns and Accidents
Add Tragedy to Gayety.

Chicago awoke late yesterday, after a night of New Year's eve parties, and the day's aftermath was in sharp contrast to the evening's gaieties. The records of the police and coroner told the grim side of the festivities. There were shootings, suicides, deaths from prohibition booze, and fatal accidents attributed to the celebration.

Coroner Oscar Wolf received reports of five deaths over the week-end due to alcoholism.

Shortly before the bells rung in the new year, John Karlen, 58 years old, a former taxicab driver, retired to his room at 2955 Indiana avenue.

"This happy and prosperous new year stuff is the bunk," he remarked to a fellow roomer, John Bukow. "I'm going to bed."

Shoots Self to Death.
A minute or so after whistles and shouts announced the birth of 1928, a shot was heard in Karlen's room. His body was found sprawled across his bed, a revolver in his hand and a fatal bullet wound in his temple.

John Burns, 127 Sedgwick street, staggered into the hallway of an apartment building at 5109 Sedgwick street at 2:30 a. m., according to the police, and started breaking light bulbs. Luth McWilliams, manager of the building, tried to put him out and in the light that ensued Burns was shot in the ankle.

George J. Dunn, 56, of 5500 South Halsted street, collapsed and died in the midst of a gay New Year's party at the home of Mrs. May Fewcsek.

One Killed, Five Wounded.
Two Negroes exchanged shots in front of the Speedway inn, 125 East 31st street. William Fields, 26, of 114 East 31st street, was killed, and Mel Hopkins, 31, of 3025 South State street, was seriously wounded.

Philip Cleary, 19, of 1113 Newberry avenue, was shot in the neck by Policemen Leo Loesch and John Ryan as he fled after he and Fred Gresco, 1116 Newberry avenue, had accosted Michael Money, 223 North Halsted street, in front of Money's home at 1:30 a. m.

Andrew Perry of 3554 Indiana avenue and James Smith of 3226 South Dearborn street, both colored, were Both being shot by a man known only as "Harris," following an argument at 31st and South State streets. The assailant escaped.

Dies on Way Home.
Mrs. Etta Brandeis, 39, of 7757 Phillips avenue, died a few hours after she collapsed in an automobile en route home from a Masonic New Year's party at 2462 Kedzie boulevard.

Frank Swanson, 55, of 4209 Emerald avenue, slipped and fell down twelve steps at his home. His skull was fractured and he died soon afterward.

Daughter of Impersonator of Roosevelt Takes Poison

Apparently despondent because of an unrequited love, Elizabeth Hopper, 20 years old, identified as the daughter of Frank Hopper, who recently impersonated Theodore Roosevelt in the motion picture play, "Rough Riders," attempted suicide by drinking poison shortly after the New Year was ushered in yesterday. At the Presbyterian hospital it was said her condition is serious. Two letters were left in her room at the Girls' Friendly Society lodge, 54 Scott street, disclosing the fact that an affair brought only grief to her. In one she wrote that she was sorry she had not listened to her father's counsel.

Blame Bootleggers for Bombing of Scranton Sun

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 1.—[U.P.]—Bootleggers, who are believed to have struck back at the Scranton Sun's editorial expose of crime in the anthracite region of northeastern Pennsylvania, were sought by police tonight as perpetrators of the bomb outrage which nearly wrecked the Sun's plant with a damage of $100,000.

SUICIDE, 1 DEATH IN NEW YORK'S MERRYMAKING

New York, Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Deaths, accidents, and fights that had aftermaths in hospitals, courts, and jails, accompanied the New Year's eve celebration which was as unrestrained as ever, according to the popular estimate registered today.

There were two deaths from acute alcoholism, only one of which, however, was due to New Year merrymaking. There was one suicide after an all-night party, and there were scores of cases of alcoholism. Police headquarters in Manhattan reported only 15, and Brooklyn only had 6, but Bellevue hospital alone admitted 34 such cases in the twenty-four hours ended at 4 p. m.

Whether the quality of the liquor or the amount accounted for the demand for hospital treatment, physicians could not say. It was admitted on all sides, however, that alcoholic liquors flowed as freely as in any previous year.

CHICAGO STARTS 1928 WITH DECREASE IN RATE REDUCED

Kegel Report Shows
in Better Health

Chicago started 1928 slightly better as a city than on New Year's day, it was shown by the annual report of the Department of Health, Mayor's Commissioner Arnold H. Kegel. For the year just closed, the rate per 1,000 population was compared to 11.61 the previous year, or, approximately, a decrease of one-tenth of one percent. In other words, approximately 100,000 more people are living today who would not have been born had the rate ten years ago been set at a new record, the rate being 12.1.

Record for 25 Years
How the gage of battle between disease and health in Chicago has shifted during the past 25 years, with the latter slowly but steadily conquering, is shown by the following table:

Year	Rate per 1,000
1903	15.67
1904	15.43
1905	15.06
1906	14.54
1907	14.75
1908	14.49
1909	14.58
1910	14.13
1911	14.42
1912	14.73
1913	14.90
1914	13.90
1915	14.16

Diphtheria, infantile paralysis and rabies cut down the human life during the year, while typhoid fever, and all other communicable diseases ground before superior treatment and better health. Venereal diseases slightly.

"Diphtheria was over 4 times prevalent than in 1914, which more fatal," Dr. Kegel said. The death rate for this disease mounted from 7.3 in 1926 to 12.7 in 1927.

115 Infantile Paralysis

Chicago was caught with the country in moderate cases of infantile paralysis, a disease being reported and there were six deaths from the first in the city since 1926. The death rate for this disease for 1927 was 1.1, as compared to 1.0 for 1926. This reduction was entirely monetary type of the disease known as consumption from other forms of disease showed an upward trend, as compared to 2.7 and 2.74 in 1925.

On the other side of the reduction of typhoid to .08 population was the benefit. There were 24 deaths. Distributed the decrease to water, sewage disposal, and sanitation of cases.

Fall in Pneumonia

Pneumonia reached the lowest point since 1920 with 6,841 cases, or 1.1 per 1,000 population. There were 25,939 cases reported during the year of 1927 as compared to 26,000 cases in 1926. Dr. Kegel said this increase, however, was a larger number of cases rather than an actual increase.

The optimistic feature of the year was the continued decrease in mortality, a problem on which the department has been working since 1914.

A total of 61,000 babies were born in the city during the year of 1927, as compared to 59,000 in 1926.

Dr. Kegel expresses satisfaction over the work of the department in the year of 1927. No milk borne communicable disease has been reported since 1916, when a city ordinance was passed. Passage of the ordinance on May 1, 1916, has been a great benefit to the city, he adds, with milk as the infant mortality rate. Purification of the water supply has also been a great benefit to the city, he adds, with milk as the infant mortality rate. Purification of the water supply has also been a great benefit to the city, he adds, with milk as the infant mortality rate.

CHICAGO STARTS 1928 WITH DEATH RATE REDUCED

Kegel Report Shows City
in Better Health.

Chicago started 1928 slightly healthier as a city than on New Year's day last year, it was shown yesterday in the annual report of the health department, made to Mayor Thompson by Commissioner Arnold H. Kegel.

For the year just closed, the death rate per 1,000 population was 11.48, compared to 11.68 the year before. In other words, approximately 300 persons are living today who under the last rate would not have survived. This shows a marked improvement over the rate ten years ago, but does not set a new record, the healthiest year being 1921.

Record for 25 Years.

How the gage of battle between disease and health in Chicago has swung back and forth during the last 25 years, with the latter slowly but definitely conquering, is shown by the following table:

1903	15.67	1916	15.42
1904	15.83	1917	14.29
1905	15.96	1918	14.29
1906	15.54	1919	12.53
1907	15.73	1920	12.77
1908	14.49	1921	11.08
1909	14.58	1922	11.18
1910	15.13	1923	11.17
1911	14.48	1924	11.26
1912	14.78	1925	11.46
1913	14.90	1926	11.08
1914	13.95	1927	11.48
1915	14.16

Diphtheria, infantile paralysis, tuberculosis and rabies cut the widest swaths in human life during the last year, while typhoid fever, pneumonia and all other communicable diseases lay ground before superior medical treatment and better health conditions. Venereal diseases gained slightly.

Diphtheria was over 40 per cent more prevalent than in 1926 and much more fatal," Dr. Kegel said. "The death rate for this disease alone mounted from 7.3 in 1926 to 14.4 in 1927."

113 Infantile Paralysis Deaths.

Chicago was caught with the rest of the country in moderate epidemics of infantile paralysis, a total of 219 cases being reported and 113 deaths. There were six deaths from rabies, the first in the city since 1919. The tuberculosis death rate dropped from 11.68 for 1926 population to 11.08, but this reduction was entirely in the pulmonary type of the disease, commonly known as consumption. Deaths from other forms of tuberculosis showed an upward trend, with 353 deaths, as compared to 292 in 1926 and 274 in 1925.

On the other side of the picture, the reduction of typhoid to .77 per 100,000 population was the brightest spot. There were 24 deaths. Dr. Kegel attributed the decrease to better milk, water, sewage disposal, and quick immunization of cases.

Fall in Pneumonia Cases.

Pneumonia reached the lowest point since 1910 with 6,841 cases and 2,562 deaths up to Dec. 31, a death rate of 11.48 per 100,000 population. There were 25,993 cases of venereal disease reported during the first 11 months of 1927 as compared with approximately 28,000 cases for the entire year of 1926. Dr. Kegel explained that this increase, however, indicates a larger number of cases reported rather than an actual increase in the disease.

The optimistic feature of the report was the continued decrease in infant mortality, a problem on which the health department has concentrated. 61,000 Babies Born.

A total of 61,000 babies were born in the city during the year, an increase of 500 over 1926. The birth rate was 19.7.

Dr. Kegel expresses the greatest satisfaction over the work of the department in purifying the city's milk supply. No milk borne outbreak of communicable disease has occurred in Chicago since 1916, when the pasteurization ordinance was passed, he reports. Passage of the tuberculosis testing ordinance on May 1, 1926, made Chicago's milk as pure as any in the world, he adds, with marked results on the infant mortality rate.

Purification of the water supply, he also ascribes the biggest problem to be attacked by the department during 1928, in particular the elimination of pollution by sewage and industrial wastes dumped into the lake by southern Indiana towns and factories.

ARMY AVIATORS 'DESTROY' BRIDGE IN BOMBING TEST

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Army aviators faced the job of hitting what looked like "a piece of white shoe string six inches in length" when they started the experimental aerial bombardment of the Peedee river bridge, near Albemarle, N. C., recently, and finally destroyed it with 1,100 pound projectiles.

"The speed of the plane from which the bomb was released is such that it crossed the bridge in one-tenth of a second," a narrative of the bombardment prepared by the army air corps and made public today, said. "This meant that there was only one spot in the air at which a bomb could be released to hit this bridge, and that an error of one-tenth of a second in the release of the bomb would result in a complete miss."

"Considering this, it can be easily realized that the army air corps had a difficult mission. As a matter of fact, it could do exceptionally marvelous bombing from an accuracy point of view and still not make a direct hit with a single bomb."

The outstanding lesson drawn by air corps experts from the bombardment was that it required bombs of around 1,100 pounds weight and containing 550 pounds of explosives, equipped with delayed fuses, to accomplish demolition of re-enforced steel and concrete structures such as the Peedee bridge. The salvoes of 300 and 600 pound bombs dropped previously proved "no serious menace to constructions of this type," even with direct hits, the report said.

The final bombardment was undertaken with 18 of the 1,100 pound bombs and direct hits were scored in almost 25 per cent of the attacks. The first big bomb destroyed two approach spans of the bridge, the second demolished two more, and the last two hits landing close to a pier, wrecked three large spans over the river. In preparing for the test army ships flew a distance of 25,000 miles all told. "This amount of flying and this amount of explosives carried was all accomplished without injury or casualty and without any motor failure or airplane trouble," the report said.

"America's Finest Men's Wear Stores"

"The New Capper & Capper Plan"

-CALLS FOR DRASTIC ACTION!

Yes, we're discontinuing the sale of STRATFORD CLOTHES
Beginning Tuesday, January 3rd

We offer our entire stock of Stratford Suits and Overcoats at reductions so radical as to assure an avalanche of buyers.

by GEO. H. CAPPER

AS FINE as they are, we shall no longer sell Stratford Clothes. Upon that we have definitely decided.

The sale begins Tuesday, January 3rd—at each of our Chicago stores, with the exception of La Salle Street—as well as our stores in other cities.

The date is fixed—a date worth remembering—and a date that will be long remembered.

It will linger in memory as the starting-date of the most important sale of high grade merchandise ever inaugurated by any clothing institution in America.

For Stratford clothes are fine clothes—tailored for gentlemen of discrimination—as thousands of Capper & Capper patrons will attest.

Indeed, memory reverts to the days when our "new order of things" stirred the clothing industry of this country.

Determined effort is recalled—lavish expenditure of ingenuity—brilliant cooperation of the manufacturer, and Capper & Capper Clothes—our kind of clothes—became a reality.

And so, it is Capper & Capper Stratford clothes

we offer you in this unprecedented selling event —not a mere handful of odds and ends, not a few broken lines of "questionable origin", but literally thousands of fine suits and overcoats—every garment made according to Capper & Capper specifications.

There will be no let-up—this is a sweeping clearance of fine Stratford clothes. Every Stratford suit and overcoat in all of our stores is included.

And so, a new, a broader, and a greater clothing plan—. But of that—more anon.

OUR FIRST JOB is to effect an absolute Clearance of our entire stock of fine Stratford Suits and Overcoats, without regard to cost, profit or former selling price.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE AND A NEW PAN-AMERICANISM

When President Coolidge goes to the Pan-American congress in Havana Jan. 16, it is with the opportunity for a historic effort.

Since its pronouncement, one hundred and four years ago, the Monroe Doctrine has maintained a reasonable degree of peace and has built up trade, commerce, and prosperity in the western hemisphere. It has preserved this side of the world from European encroachment and from entanglement in the political intrigues and wars of the old world. It has guarded the United States and the other American nations equally well.

But the subjective corollaries of peace and prosperity—international trust and good will among the peoples of the two Americas—have languished, partly through lack of cultivation, partly through the existence of difficult natural barriers, and largely because of the very policy on the part of the United States which maintained the material welfare. The creation of trust and good will was not comprehended in the historic political expression of John Quincy Adams and James Monroe, and the endeavors of many subsequent Presidents and secretaries of state have failed to establish a basis of cordiality in keeping with the Monroe Doctrine's history of material success.

With the opening of the Pan-American congress President Coolidge, making the first official visit of an American President to a Latin-American country, will try his hand at the establishment of an amicable understanding between the United States and its neighbors to the south. He hopes for better fortune than his predecessors.

The recent period of tension, caused by the American intervention in Nicaragua and the controversy over the Mexican agrarian laws, has suddenly been transformed into the present period of unwelcome friendliness. The time is auspicious. It is the opportunity for a redefinition of the Monroe Doctrine, for a restatement of American policy which will reaffirm a doctrine as necessary today as it was a century ago, but in a manner to recognize that others besides the United States may have an interest in maintaining the integrity of the western hemisphere.

Until such action is undertaken by the United States the Latin-American republics should be expected to regard our professed good intentions with skepticism. They have shared the benefits of the Monroe Doctrine, and these have been many and tangible; but they have been denied participation in its promulgation. We have compelled other nations to accept our protection without regard to their sovereignty or their desires. We have arrogated to ourselves the right to ascertain a crisis, to diagnose it, and to prescribe for it, without any consent on the part of the patient.

In addition we have expanded the Monroe Doctrine from time to time and we have acted under it so deceptively that the Latin-American nations have been taught to regard it not so much as a shield for their protection as a cloak to American aspirations of imperialism.

During the century of the doctrine's existence Latin America has seen the hands of the United States reaching and stretching outward. It has laid these expansive and exploratory movements to the influence of the Monroe Doctrine. The annexation of Texas, the acquisition of territory by conquest in the Mexican war, the mobilization which forced the withdrawal of French support from Maximilian's government, the Venezuelan incidents of 1895 and 1902, the espousal of the Cuban revolt, the Spanish-American war, the acquisition of Porto Rico, the recognition of Panama and the construction of the Panama canal, the intervention in Colombia, Guatemala, Honduras, Santo Domingo, Haiti, and Nicaragua, the invasions and occupations of Mexican territory, and the Magdalena bay incident and the Lodge resolution—all these are looked on south of the Rio Grande as steps in the realization of a policy of aggrandizement.

Our relations with Latin America have grown more important. Our trade with it constitutes approximately a fifth of our total world trade. It has nearly tripled since pre-war days. Our Latin-American investments run to some five billion dollars. We are the principal exporter to every Latin-American country except Paraguay. And our commerce grows in this competitive market at a time when we are actually furnishing European countries the capital on which to become our rivals.

Balanced against this unifying power of trade are the disuniting factors of race, temperament, and political and social systems. And working against Pan-American unity are European influences seeking an accord of Latin races on both sides of the Atlantic and the campaign of bolshevism with its agents.

It must be the task of the United States to lead the way in establishing understanding. The chance is offered of making the Monroe Doctrine something more than an ex parte expression, of making it sincerely Pan-American. Though the doctrine remain the same, it may be expressed in the terms of all the nationalities of the western hemisphere.

The opportunity is offered of creating a mutual principle to which all the sovereign republics may voluntarily adhere in concert, a principle supported by the will and protecting the requirements of all, and thus productive of a new self-respect and new mutual respect among the American powers.

BUILDING BOULEVARDS TO LAST

Mr. Faherty, head of the board of local improvements, is asking bond issues totaling $44,000,000 for street widenings and other improvements. The thoroughfares on which the money will be spent are: Ashland, Western, Ogden, Peterson, Ridge, and Milwaukee avenues; La Salle, 95th, and Halsted streets, and Wacker drive. Most of these projects are under way.

The business-men of the west side announce that they will demand and work for more improvements. They want to take their section of the city out of the back yard class. Boulevards, streets are among the things they need. By far the largest portion of the money requested by Mr. Faherty is to be spent on the west side.

We are glad to see the west side get so much. It has been forgotten a good part of the time. But even with these new and contemplated improvements it will not be getting all it ought to, unless it gets grade separations such as have been instituted on north side boulevards.

A boulevard with level crossings is going to be out of date in a short time. There can be no safety without crossing separations, nor can there be any speed, and the demand for speed is going to increase instead of let down. The west side has gone without for a good many years. Now it is looking up, with a chance of receiving what it requires. The job ahead of it is so big that it is virtually starting from scratch. Is the west side going to build for the future with boulevards with grade separations, or will it find itself within a few years at the tail end of the procession once more?

SNOBBERY.

Now the British Lawn Tennis association is making rules like ours, restricting the activities of amateurs. They may not write for the papers or make radio talks for money.

There is some sense in these regulations so far as the English are concerned. In England the best people do not earn their own livings. They inherit them. In addition, Englishmen are bred to know their place in society. The best people do not wish to mingle on terms of equality with the lower orders, who must work to support themselves, and the lower orders are acquiescent. Amateurs are known as gentlemen and professionals are known as players, and when, occasionally, they do meet in competition, the social demarcation is never forgotten. In the box score the amateur will be Lord Smith, while the professional is just Smith.

In America an earned income is not a social disqualification. We rate men who do not care to associate with those who work for a living as snobs. Any one who cut Richards off his list of friends when Richards turned professional was a snob. There is no doubt that turning professional was a tonic to Suzanne's character. Those who know her say that when she became a professional she became a more likable human being than she had been before. Rules of amateurism which are intended to preserve social ratings are less than meaningless in America; they deny a fundamental concept in American life.

There is only one other excuse for emphasizing the distinction between amateur and professional, and that is that the professional is too good a player for the amateur to compete against. That distinction may have a meaning in some sports, but certainly not in tennis. Tennis, if it is played well, must be played constantly. The greatest players, amateur as well as professional, can spare little time from their game. They follow it to Florida, California, and the Riviera in the cold months, and if they remain in the north they play it constantly indoors. They are like the pianist who said if he failed to practice one day he knew it; if he failed to practice two days, his manager knew it; and if he failed to practice for three days running, his public knew it. In tennis the amateurs are generally better players than the professionals.

We do not believe the distinction between amateur and professional need be abolished, but it ought not to be accentuated by arbitrary regulations. The tennis authorities have much to learn from the golfers. Bobby Jones is not contaminated through having played against Hagen and other professionals in open tournaments. To pretend that he is, as the tennis authorities do, is to revive a false and invidious distinction between men which is offensive to American ideals of sport and of mankind.

Editorial of the Day

MUSOLINI AGAIN.

[The Christian (W. Va.) Gazette.]
Once more Signor Benito Mussolini comes to the fore with an interesting-if far stretched-proposition. The Italian premier would have France and Italy cease their bickering and quarrelling and unite on a scheme of world aggrandizement for the Latin race. He would make the nations along the Mediterranean the home of their world-wide influence.

One of the amusing things about Il Duce's program is the fact that he would do away with the Monroe Doctrine and extend his paternal influence over the Latin countries of South and Central America. This fearsome proposition might cause some awe if there were any prospect that it might become a reality. But proclaiming a world-wide Latin empire is one thing and accomplishing it is entirely different. Moreover, although the countries of Central America and South America look upon our dollar diplomacy with a fishy eye, as in the butchering in Nicaragua, nevertheless there is no evidence that they hanker for European guidance and protection. Our guess is that they would much prefer to be let alone.

In spite of the fact that this dream of Mussolini is fantastic, there are aspects to it that will appeal to the Latin temperament. However, it happens that the Latin racial feeling throughout the world is now largely nonexistent. Spain at one time had the leadership of the Latin race, but Spain fell by the wayside. Since that time the Latin countries have not drifted closer-in fact, they have probably drifted apart. And it is doubtful if other countries would tolerate the stern measures that Mussolini has forced down the throats of the Italians. But there is no harm in dreaming and at times it is interesting to have a peek at the grandiose schemes that occupy the thoughts of Mussolini.

GIVING HIM A CHANCE.

Landlord of a country inn-Mr. Blinks is coming down tomorrow for a day's fishing, Thomas; where shall you take him?
Keeper-Well, sir, that depends. Do you want him to land fish, or only hook one, or just catch sight of 'em, like?
Landlord (considering)-Well, I don't think he's much account. Just let him see one; that'll do, and he can add the rest himself when he gets back to London.-Montreal Star.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

OUT OF FASHION TO HAVE SMALLPOX NOW.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN was the only President to have smallpox while in the White House. In the times for a ruler to have smallpox was quite the fashion. The fashion ended with Lincoln and that was more than a half-century ago.

There are one or two incidents about Lincoln's attack that are of interest from the public health standpoint. The following facts were given me by Dr. W. L. Barton:
"Lincoln delivered his Gettysburg speech on Nov. 19. When he returned to Washington he was ill with smallpox, probably in the preliminary or fever stage. He probably did not know that he had smallpox at that date. On the next cabinet meeting day, Nov. 23, the eruption had appeared, and an entry in Welles' diary stated that a diagnosis of smallpox had been made. He had a light attack and was up and around by Dec. 8. During this two or three weeks he worked on the amnesty proclamation and the message to congress, and prepared a draft of the Gettysburg speech, but he did not sign it. He did not see the members of his cabinet, but had them submit communications to him in writing."

Dr. Barton added: "The disease did not keep office workers away. 'Come on in,' Lincoln said encouragingly; 'I have something new I can give to everybody.'"

This last must have been one of the jokes by Lincoln, or compounded by some one and credited to Lincoln. It is not probable that the cabinet members and other officials were excluded from the sickroom and all others were allowed in. However, we wonder how it happened that so few people were infected. It is generally known that at least one of the Lincoln boys had smallpox while in the White House. But why was no one infected at Gettysburg?

It is recorded that Lincoln while at Gettysburg stayed in a private home. He stayed in his room, presumably working much of the time. But during the epidemic he must have exposed many people. Smallpox is supposed to be highly infective during the fever stage which precedes the eruption, and for a day or two prior thereto. It is possible that though his doctor diagnosed the case as smallpox, he attended at least one meeting of the cabinet. Thereafter, the probability is that he was about as much isolated as he would have been in a hospital.

Of course, smallpox was so much a matter of course in that day that a small epidemic caused by exposure to the President may have been overlooked.

YEAST GOOD FOR YOU.

M. W. C. writes: 1. Are there any benefits from eating yeast?
2. Any bad effects?

REPLY.
1. Yeast is a valuable food. Eating it will prevent pellagra. It will cure the disease also.
Most people find that it has a laxative tendency.
Perhaps it is of service in other conditions.
2. It is eating yeast does harm in any way. I do not know it.

CANKER SORES IN MOUTH.

H. S. writes: Every once in a while I have trouble with canker sores in my mouth. They come and go, and are very painful when I have them. Is there any cure?

W. H. Y. sends reply to above:
Whether my experience will be of any advantage to others, I do not know, but I wish to relate it to you, hoping it may be of some service to others.
For a good many years I have had times when my mouth was unbearably sore with canker sores. By accident I discovered that a moderately salty mouth wash seemed to relieve them. I have used it three times a day for nearly a year, and have not been bothered once. The insurance company paid the bill. I would begin to form on my tongue or inside of my lips, but they never developed to the sore stage.

DEER IN FOREST PRESERVE.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—(Friend of the People.)—The other Sunday while walking in the forest preserve I saw a young deer running about. Where did they come from? Do they belong to the county?
There are two deer roaming at large in the forest preserve. This information has been given us at various times. How they arrived no one seems to know. They have been seen at various locations, sometimes in the south of our preserves and sometimes in the north.

We have a deer preserve at Del-Grove, located north and west of Palau, and an elk preserve at Elk Grove, which is located on the Higgins road, west of the Arlington Heights road. We have no reports of these deer getting out of the enclosure and so it is reasonable to believe that the deer roaming at large on the forest preserve came there through other sources.

L. W. MACLEAN,
Asst. General Supr., Cook County Forest Preserve District.

INJURED AT HIS WORK.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—(To the Legal Friend of the People.)—A friend of mine had his leg broken in an industrial accident. The insurance company paid the bill. I would begin to form on my tongue or inside of my lips, but they never developed to the sore stage.

For partial loss of use of a leg 50 per cent of the average wage during such portion of 170 weeks as partial loss of use bears to total loss of use.

TIED.

Fort Logan, Colo., Dec. 22.—(To the Legal Friend of the People.)—A boy of twenty married a girl of eighteen in Chicago without his parents' consent. In securing the license he gave his age as twenty-three. Is this marriage legal?

In our opinion the marriage is valid, but the parties are possibly subject to prosecution for perjury.

WATER WAGON TRIP ENDS IN RIOT

Passengers Desert Ancient Bus, Which Is Now Buried Under Drifting Snow

The long anticipated trip of the Water Wagon ended disastrously soon after it began yesterday morning. The wagon had not proceeded more than three blocks from its starting point at the Chicago Water Tower before trouble started. At first it seemed that the trip would be a most successful one. As the Water Wagon, loaded with passengers, began its journey, everybody on board gave three rousing cheers for water and then burst harmoniously into the singing of "Little Drops of Water, Little Grains of Sand." Two men who were suspected of carrying hip flasks full of gin were thrown through the windows.

A sad faced man with long whiskers stood up and proposed a toast: "Let us pledge the New Year in water," he said, "pure cold water which leaves happiness and not misery behind."
"What about the Mississippi flood?" shouted a bootlegger, disguised as a water lily. He was promptly thrown off the wagon and the sad faced man tried again. "Let us drink a toast in water," he shouted; "the beverage that Mother Nature gives us and not the druggists."

"What about chlorine?" shouted another bootlegger, disguised as an old water mill. He took a bottle of chlorinated city water out of his pocket. "Look out, everybody!" he shouted, "I am going to pull the cork!"
A rush for the fresh air immediately ensued and in less than half a minute the Water Wagon was deserted. It will probably not be dug out of the snow until spring and no effort will be made to run it again until next New Year.

WINTER MIDNIGHT

Open your window, my lover,
Wild wings are awhirl in the cold.
Open your window and guide them
With your lamp's light's far-flung gold.
Quickly! For black are the lanes of the night
And sharply the stars look down
At the heart that intrepidly flies to you Past the doors of the muted town.

ABELADEL P. LOVY.

HOW SWIFTLY THEY PASS

Christmas had just passed whizzing into the limbo of oblivion. Some of its radiance still lingered, like the dull embers of a winter sunset, across the twilight hours of the dying year. An air of chastened festivity lurked in the desecrated wreaths and glistening decorations of our cozy but disorderly living room. The denuded tree stood at a rakish if not slightly irritated angle—and when you come to think of it, why not? But, after all, the vast territory of the floor, with its heavy rug and gorgeously illustrated edition of Robinson Crusoe, disclosed that intrinsically adventurous in the act of recollecting, with justifiable horror, from the solitary imprint of one Cyclops foot on the otherwise inviolate sand. The children were packed off to bed hours ago—or were they only my Dream Children? And what has become of the Tree, the litter, the wretched soldier? Were they also but dreams of the long ago? "Why dandy, dear," exclaims grown up Felice, bending fondly over her stodgy parent and aiming a fragrant kiss in the general direction of his left ear, "you've been smoking frightfully and your cigarette has burned a big hole in the rug! Shush! Cover it up—here comes mother!"

JANUARY 2, 1863.

(Because of New Year's holiday no paper was issued by The Tribune on the morning of Jan. 2.)

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 2, 1903.

WASHINGTON.—Exactly 6,800 persons shook hands with President Roosevelt at his New Year's reception, and it required three and one-half hours for the President to greet them. Leaving out fractions, the President shook hands with an average of thirty-two persons a minute, and was not at all fatigued at the end of the reception.

HONOLULU.—The Pacific cable was spliced to the shore end at 8 o'clock this afternoon. Signals were exchanged with San Francisco at 11:33 tonight. San Francisco time, and a few minutes later President Dole sent the first formal message under the ocean. It was directed to President Roosevelt.

DELHI.—Edward VII. of England was proclaimed emperor of India amid scenes of unprecedented oriental magnificence. The ceremony was attended by 15,000 persons assembled in a vast amphitheater, erected on the spot where the late Queen Victoria was proclaimed the first empress of India by the then viceroy, Earl Lytton.

CHICAGO.—The most brilliant society event of New Year's day was the wedding of Miss Helen Pullman Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stewart, to Dr. Philip Schuyler Doane in St. James Episcopal church. The ushers were John Allen Haines, Fletcher Dobyns, Huntington Blatchford, Edward Stabley, Philip Rand, and Dr. Edwin W. Ryerson. The bridesmaids were Miss Elsie Vilas, Miss Edith Haakell, Miss Hadassah Felton, and Miss Edith Dexter.

A CLUB FOR GIRLS.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—I can suggest an excellent way for some Chicago philanthropist to spend his millions. Why not build a club for business girls in the heart of the loop? A fine big building with comfortable, moderately priced rooms, a reasonably priced cafeteria or restaurant on the lower floors, reading rooms, music room, rooms to entertain your guests, and, above all, what is very badly needed—a fine big gymnasium and pool. I know countless girls who are looking for such a place and dreaming of it. Girls who could pay a fair price for a room, and who would even be willing to pay a fee, say, $25 to $50 a year for the privileges of gymnasium, swimming pools, lockers and showers.

I should think such a club would be a paying proposition, and, if not, then let the philanthropist come to the rescue in times of stress.

Chicago business girls would welcome such a haven in the heart of the loop. The present Y. W. C. A. is certainly inadequate and far behind the times for girls who can afford to pay for modern comforts, conveniences and privileges.

SAVING THE SCHOOLS.

Chicago, Dec. 25.—I saw in THE TRIBUNE this morning that the public schools are to be closed this time by the public school emergency committee. A few months ago, with much ado and a few complimentary luncheons at the Union League club, the public education commission was formed, with an imposing list of names, business men, lawyers, ministers, reformers, clubwomen, also to save the schools. In the meantime the schools are running along with greater efficiency, efficiency and satisfaction than they have in four years, if we are to believe the testimony of teachers, principals, and district superintendents, and no newspapers have not reported a single case of strife between the parents and the school system, a very common occurrence in the past.

The public education commission faded away before it presented any of the evidence it promised as the result of its investigations, that were to include the school system from stem to stern. Now we have the new committee, composed more largely of ministers, clubwomen and reformers. The Rev. Charles Gilkey, chairman, in his published statement, shows that he is not at all familiar with the public school system, nor has he correct information regarding recent changes in school policies.

Would it not be a good idea for these self-appointed committees to gather their facts and information from reliable sources first, before making such extravagant and unreliable assertions? Think of the time, money, and energy they spend fanning the air!

January's Important Month-Long Sales and Sellings Begin Tomorrow

The Annual January Sale of Household Linens

Although linen prices have increased considerably during the past twelve months, we offer you linens during this month-long sale at prices virtually no higher than prevailed during our January sale a year ago. Because we anticipated our needs, and bought our merchandise for this event months ago, you can save many dollars by buying linens here during this great sale.

Choose From Hundreds of White And Colored Damask Table Cloths

Our patrons are more interested in a cloth's style than in any other of its characteristics. In this Sale many new style tendencies are shown for the first time. . . . Among the many splendid values is this fine Irish double satin damask table cloth (sketched above) in Louis XVI, La Fayette and Antoinette patterns at these prices:

The 2x2-yard size, $10 each.
The 2x2½-yard size, $12.50 each.
The 2x3-yard size, $15 each.
The 2x3½-yard size, $17.50 each.
The 2x4-yard size, $20 each.
Napkins to match: 22x22, $10.50 doz.; 24x24, $13.50.

Colored damasks have never been more popular, and their popularity is constantly increasing. We have many new designs and two-tone effects in many fascinating colors. Outstanding values are the Iris design and Venetian Scroll (sketched, left) patterns in pastel shades of primula, heliotrope, sea green and ivory, priced:

2x2 yards and six 22x22 napkins, $30 a set.
2x2½ yards and six 22x22 napkins, $35 a set.
2x3 yards, twelve 25x25 napkins, $55 a set.
2x3½ yards, twelve 25x25 napkins, $60 a set.
2x4 yards, twelve 25x25 napkins, $65 a set.

Bedspread Prices Reduced

All Bedspreads, white and colored, are included in this sale. There are dozens of styles and colors to choose from, and the prices are much lower than regular. . . . One of the outstanding values is the spread shown in the sketch at the left. It is of Italian moire, 72x108, with plain edges, and it may be had in blue, rose, lavender, gold or green for $13.50. Another is rayon and cotton crinkled fabric with scalloped edges and may be had in many colors. In the single bed size, 72x108 inches, it is $4.95. In the double bed size, 90x108 inches, it is $6.45.

All Blankets and Comforters Are Reduced in Price for This Month

Every blanket and comforter in this large and varied stock is reduced in price for the entire month of January. This is an annual event, and timely, coming just when Winter's coldest weeks are beginning. This year we offer a great many unusually attractive values. A special purchase of odd and broken lines of blankets and comforters has made it possible for us to cut prices sharply on merchandise of excellent quality. And our regular stocks bear prices that mean great savings for January buyers.

Gray blankets, 66x84 inches, which contain a large percentage of wool, mixed with cotton, are offered at $2.95 each. There is a limited quantity.
Holland Blankets, 60x80, good-looking and warm, are $7.95 each.
Plaid Blankets, 70x82, wool and cotton, are $7.95 a pair.
Extra large Holland Blankets may be had at $16.85, $19.50 and up to $28.50.
Wool-filled Comforters, 72x84, are covered with sateen; now $9.75.
Down Comforters, 72x84, filled with the finest quality of goose down and covered with a figured sateen, have a plain color sateen border to match. They may be had at $13.75, $17.50 and $19.50.

The Linen Talks

Beginning tomorrow (Wednesday) morning, the Linen Talks, an annual feature of the January Linen Sale, will be given each Monday, Wednesday and Friday of the month. Tomorrow, at 11:30 o'clock, in the Picture Galleries, Mrs. Charles W. Hubbard will talk on "Flower Arrangements for Formal and Informal Tables."

Many Excellent Towel Values

Hemstitched linen huck towels, with damask borders, 19x36 inches, are $6 a dozen; a splendid quality.
"Old Bleach" hemstitched linen huck towels, 18x30, $7.50.
"Old Bleach" linen huck towels, with damask borders, 18x32-inch size, $9 dozen, 22x38-inch size, $12 dozen.
Heavy Turkish bath towels, with borders of blue, pink, gold, lavender or green, are 23x45 inches and $6 a dozen.
Heavy, double thread Turkish bath towels, 24x48 and all white, wear very well and are only $6 a dozen.

Colored Breakfast Sets, Too

The set illustrated may be had in two-tone effects of green, gold and salmon.
The cloth, 63x63, and six 16x16 napkins, for $12.50; a 63x90 cloth and twelve napkins are now $20.

A set of hemstitched linen with a colored border has a 52x52 cloth and six napkins for $4.75. You may have it in blue, gold or green.

The Sale of Sheets and Cases

Sheets and Pillowcases are an everyday necessity, and a year's needs can easily be purchased in advance. Hundreds of economical women buy a twelve months' supply during this month-long sale, and take advantage of the great reductions in prices. . . . This is just one of the numerous splendid values:

HINTS HICKMAN WROTE DRISKELL SUICIDE LETTERS

Detective Says Numerals Resemble Kidnapers's.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Indications that the same person may not have written all of the five purported suicide notes taken from the body of A. R. Driskell, grandfather of young Welby Hunt, confessed accomplice of William E. Hickman in the holdup and fatal shooting of a druggist, has intensified the investigation of Driskell's death.

George Contreras, chief investigator of the district attorney's office, placed the five notes in the hands of a handwriting expert for inspection. Contreras said his own hasty inspection of the notes indicated that all were not written by Driskell, whose body was found below a Pasadena bridge. Contreras said that numerals in the suicide notes were similar to those made by the hand of Hickman, the confessed kidnaper and slayer of little Marian Parker. The report of the handwriting expert will be available by Tuesday, the officer said, when the grand jury opens its investigation of the Driskell case as well as the holdup in which the youths have confessed Ivy Thomas, a druggist, was shot down by one of them.

Mrs. Carrie Driskell, Hunt's step-grandmother, was found in a state of collapse yesterday by deputy sheriffs, who attempted to question her regarding a Bible and religious tract, which were sent to the young prisoner. Hunt identified the Bible as Mrs. Driskell's. The full officers said they believed there might have been some significance in underlined quotations. One marked quotation reads: "He was oppressed and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth. He is brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so he openeth not his mouth."

of the marines killed in Saturday's battle in Nicaragua, had been in the service for ten or twelve years, having enlisted in Chicago when quite young, and was now about 25 years of age. He is unmarried, and is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Hemphill of Ferguson, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis.

Shock to Washington.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—[U.P.]—Official reports of the killing of American marines in Nicaraguan fighting had not reached Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and Maj. Gen. Le Jeune, commander of the marine corps, tonight. The death of the American marines may revive criticisms in the senate and house which were heard against American intervention last winter.

The news came as a shock to Washington because it had been generally assumed that the pacification arranged by Col. Henry Stimson, now governor general of the Philippines, would put an end to guerrilla warfare and would relieve the American marine guards in Nicaragua from all fighting except any that might be necessary to protect the American legation or other American property.

News by New Means.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 1.—[U.P.]—Ingenuous methods of communication had brought meager details to night of the battle Friday at Quilali, in a mountainous timbered region so remote and wild that pack trains take two or three weeks to reach it. There is no landing field at Quilali. Airplanes must pick up messages signalled by white panels laid upon the ground, by hand semaphore, or other crude methods, or even by catching messages "on the fly." The last method is carried out by suspending a message upon a wire between two poles, in readiness for an airplane to pick it up by means of a line suspended from its fuselage. Quilali is 195 miles distant from Managua.

5 MARINES DIE

Cardinal Announces Plan for Boys' School

Cardinal Mundelein, in an address last night to the Holy Name society at Holy Name cathedral, announced plans for a residential school for neglected boys to be erected at Lockport, Ill. Catholics in this archdiocese will be asked to contribute $1 each towards construction of the school, Bishop Hoban, spiritual director of the Holy Name society, explained.

LONDON OPENS LUXURIOUS AND MODERN AIRPORT

CROYDON, England, Jan. 1.—[U.P.]—Croydon's new airport, officially opened today with new buildings, making Croydon, it is claimed, the most luxurious and up to date station in the world. Two gigantic concrete hangars, each covering about three acres, have already been completed and other similar structures are to be built later in the year. The aerodrome is now more than four times the size of the wooden, boothlike huts which have served since March, 1919, as the air station for London.

In addition to the hangars there are administration offices, an air ministry bureau, customs offices, quarters for the various airplane company officials and waiting rooms for passengers. A modern hotel is a feature of the new arrangement. This has a flat roof for use as a tea garden in the summer. There are terraces and balconies from which the flying may be viewed. Surmounting the building arrangements is a hundred foot control tower. Here three men—the traffic control officer, the wireless operator, and the weather expert—surrounded by every mechanical device invented for air traffic control, will be constantly on duty and enabled to keep in touch with all the air liners flying to and from London.

Man and His Wife Killed, Baby Found Alive in Oven

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 1.—[U.P.]—A. R. Leach, trucking contractor, and his wife, Louise, 23, were found dead in their South Philadelphia home today. Leach was shot in the head and Mrs. Leach's head was crushed by a hatchet. Authorities expressed the belief that Leach had killed his wife and then shot himself. In an oven the 2 year old child of the couple was found. The child was weak from hunger, but will recover.

ROBERT OGLESBY, SON OF GOVERNOR, DIES AT TULSA

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 1.—[U.P.]—Robert Oglesby, son of former Gov. Richard Oglesby of Illinois and the man accredited with opening the Cushing oil fields of Oklahoma, died unexpectedly here today. Oglesby was graduated from Harvard university and was a member of the Harvard club, the Lotus club, the New York Yacht club, and the Larchmont Yacht club, all of New York. He was an extensive traveler and except for ten years' residence here, had spent much of his time in Europe, Canada, or cruising, in his yacht in Florida waters.

WOMAN, 80, DIES IN STREET. Mrs. Margaret Loez, 80, of 3448 Fulton street, dropped dead on the sidewalk in front of 3234 Fulton street yesterday morning.

WOMAN'S JEWELS FOUND IN HOME OF DR. M'MILLAN

Seize Diary in Hunt for Mrs. Appleby's Slayer.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 1.—(Special.)
—Woman's jewelry valued at $50,000 was found today in the apartment of Dr. Charles A. McMillan, 57-year-old physician who is held in county jail on a charge of suspicion of murdering Mrs. Amelia Appleby.
The gems were found by deputy sheriffs who were searching for $40, 000 worth of Mrs. Appleby's jewelry, which has been missing since her body was found sewn in a sack on Dec. 24.
The searchers also found a collection of women's underclothes, a hypo-dermic needle, and narcotics.
They also found a newspaper which told the story of finding the woman's body, printed on a date several days before the body, sewn in the canvas sack, had been identified as that of Mrs. Appleby.

Find a Diary.
Another discovery was a diary, which was confiscated as evidence to be used when the information against Dr. McMillan is presented to the council grand jury on Tuesday. The entries in the diary were intermittent and included many bits of verse and telephone numbers.
The officers attach the highest importance to the diary's findings. Dr.
McMillan's apartment was named by the accused man, as the place where he spent the period fixed as the time of Mrs. Appleby's death.

Dr. McMillan issued his first statement elaborating his denial that "I did not kill her."
"The mass of circumstantial evidence I admit, may look bad. But when the matter is all ironed out, I will be found innocent," he said.

Never Introduced as Wife.
"I never introduced any one to Mrs.
Appleby as my wife. She just engaged me to keep her in health and to manage her affairs and was to give me $150 a month. She frequently made trips to San Diego and Tia Juana. She had been going around with some pretty sporty characters. But I haven't the slightest idea who may have killed her. All I know is that I didn't."
The coroner's inquest over Mrs. Ap-pleby's body will be held tomorrow.
Some of the exhibits will be the morphine found today and a small bottle of strychnine.
J. J. Mayo and former Judge Ray Chesbro were retained as counsel by McMillan today.

SEVERE FIGHTING FIER, DIES.
John Cole, 55 years old, colored, died yesterday at the Butler sanitarium in Evanston of typhoid fever he received Saturday in attempting to escape from a detective who found him in his room at 3235 Prairie avenue, Chicago.

BRITAIN TURNS WASTE AREA INTO SINGAPORE BASE

Pushes Vast Sea Fortress to Completion.

BY FRANK STARLING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
SINGAPORE, Jan. 1.—In late 1925 the naval base site at Seletar (name of location on Singapore Island) was still much as it had been since the China tea clippers warped their way through the Johore straits—a wilderness of swamps, with no evidence of human occupation other than a native village and the ubiquitous Chinese shopkeeper. People were afraid to venture into the swamp except those who made a specialty of hunting crocodiles. For them the site was a veritable paradise because the swamps on that side of Singapore Island are full of the hideous monsters.

Survey and preliminary work generally had been in progress some time, but up to the end of 1925 there were no visible signs of activity by the naval authorities. It required an effort of imagination to conjure up mental pictures of battle cruisers anchored in those mangrove fringed solitudes. About the end of 1925 actual construction work began on the naval base.

Today in place of the mangrove swamps lies one of the most healthy townships of the east. Buildings of all kinds have sprung up—there are no more swamps—they have all been drained. Numerous offices exist. Work shops of many description are in full operation. A branch line of the Federated Malay States railway has been constructed on the site. The foreground for a mile is thickly covered with activities of many descriptions. Immense dredges are busily at work along the shore preparing the docks. The same machine that was used in building the South Hampton docks has been brought out for the naval authorities to use in building the naval base. At the naval base site 600 acres have been set aside for an aerodrome. The work of putting the place in shape is rapidly being completed. In the midst of all this construction work on the naval base the news from New Zealand advising the New Zealand house of representatives approved the government's proposal to contribute $5,000,000 gold towards the cost of the base is most welcomed by the naval authorities and Singapore. It is expected that this month the 50,000 ton pontoon dock which is being constructed in England will be launched and by May of next year the dock will be completed ready to start for Singapore under tow. The dock will be a tremendous affair, containing about 20,000 tons of steel and close to 4,000,000 rivets. When assembled in Singapore, it will be capable of lifting ships of 50,000 tons. The dock will be towed out to Singapore in sections by a Dutch tug company. Eight seagoing tugs have been engaged for this purpose. They will be the largest in use in Holland now.

Doctor, Weakened by Gas of Auto, Staggered to Safety

Dr. Rolfe B. Sarginson, 2847 North Central Park avenue, was nearly overcome by carbon monoxide gas yesterday while in the garage at the rear of his home. He had presence of mind to stagger from the garage when he started to become dizzy and was carried into the house by his relatives. Dr. George E. Dudenbostel, 6422 North Claremont avenue, was called to attend him.

MASHIE VS. GUN FIGHT BARED IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Gilbert Wells, son of the late Charles W. Wells, Milwaukee lumber millionaire, and said to be a grandnephew of the founder of the Wells-Fargo Express company, is defendant in a suit for divorce on file in Chicago. It was discovered yesterday. The plaintiff is his estranged wife, who is known on the stage as Florence Brady. Rumors that a divorce suit was imminent were circulated last spring when Miss Brady, playing in London, quit Lew Leslie's review, "White Birds," without notice and sailed for America.

The complaint, to be heard soon, charges the defendant with threatening his wife with a revolver while they were on the golf links in January of 1925 at San Antonio. She defended herself with a masher, the bill recites. Subsequently he made other threats with a pistol, it is charged, in New York, London, Detroit, and Chicago. Attorney Benjamin B. Ehrlich, representing Miss Brady, said the Wells domestic trouble began when she received a gown as a gift from her husband and discovered that it had been worn by some one before she got it.

"CHIVALRY" OF YANKEE KILLER CUTS JAIL TERM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
PARIS, Jan. 1.—Because he "chivalrously" shot his landlady's obstreperous former sweetheart, Harry Goswicz, 33 years old, longshoreman from Seattle, Wash., was sentenced to seven years in prison by a jury in Antwerp. His landlady, Julie Dornen, got ten years for exhorting Goswicz to slay the sailor, Jean Geenen. The American's term was made shorter because of "extenuating circumstances."

Goswicz at one time was a student at the University of Berlin and in recent years became a wanderer, working his way around the world. He became a dock worker in Antwerp, lodging quietly above Mme. Dornen's at the Kempen dock. The landlady's dramatic fights with the sailor, Geenen, whom she had thrown over, aroused Goswicz's chivalrous nature, and when the sailor broke into the house in November a year ago Goswicz leaped to the aid of the landlady, who put a revolver in his hand and implored him to shoot, which he did, killing Geenen with two shots. After serving a third of his term, if his conduct is good, Goswicz may appear for a pardon.

22 SCOUTS TELL OF RESCUE FROM SNOW MADE JAIL

Tractor Plows 10 Miles to Reach Them.

Modesto, Cal., Jan. 1.—(AP)—The party of 22 Boy Scouts marooned in the Sierras by snow since last Thursday, when they left their camp at Pine Crest to avoid being blockaded, arrived here early today, bringing with them the three automobiles which experienced mountaineers had said must unquestionably remain snowbound through the winter.

Proud of their adventure and success in saving their machines, the boys scattered to their homes to tell the story to playmates who had missed the sport. Vernon Baird, Scout executive, reported all the boys in good condition.

The boys went to their camp at Pine Crest, in the Sierras, 35 miles above Sonora, more than a week ago. Snow started falling last Monday and continued through Tuesday and Wednesday.

Escape Snow Prison. The party decided that it was time to leave, especially since the increasing cold threatened to put a layer of solid ice across Strawberry lake, over which the boys wanted to ferry their supplies. They struck out early Thursday, crossing the lake, and staying that night in a cabin near the lake shore.

The party included 19 boys from 13 to 16 years old and three Scout leaders, and the cabin was only 10x18 feet in size. The boys were laid side by side along the wall, and contrived to spend a comfortable night despite the cramped quarters. They had plenty of food and fuel.

Friday the boys completed the march

WOMAN, 85, HAS NOT MISSED SEEING MOVIE ONE NIGHT IN 8 YEARS

Cherokee, Ia., Jan. 1.—(Special.)—Mrs. Wilhelmina Alf of this place has established a record as a movie fan. Although she is past eighty-five, Mrs. Alf has not missed attending a picture show one night in eight years. During that time she has seen 2,920 pictures. No night has been too cold or stormy to discourage her.

She has become a familiar figure as she sits in the same seat, night after night, with her black silk lace kerchief over her head. There she stays for the entire show, enjoying the pictures without using glasses, as her eyesight is remarkable.

to the Pickering Lumber company's camp No. 1, where they found plenty of cabins and food enough to last the party several days.

Save Automobiles, Too. From the lumber camp Baird got in touch with the outside world by telephone. It was arranged that the boys should start early yesterday from the camp, marching toward Long Barn, while a party with a caterpillar tractor started from Long Barn toward the lumber camp.

The tractor succeeded in cutting and crushing 10 miles of drifts, and crawled into the lumber camp early last night. The boys, however, had found the snow so hard that they were unable to break a path for their automobiles, and remained at the camp.

Thieves Robbing Summer Homes Spar Vigilantes

Menasha, Wis., Jan. 1.—(Special.)—Owners of cottages bordering the north shore of Lake Winnebago consider organizing a vigilante group. Summer homes of Menasha and Appleton people recently have been ransacked by thieves who took furnishings, pictures, articles of furniture and other articles of value. In one instance a big moving van was used by the thieves.

Punchboard Purchase Debt Not Collectible at Law

Pond du Lac, Wis., Jan. 1.—(Special.)—A debt contracted in the purchase of merchandise which is to be used in connection with a punchboard or other gambling device is not collectible under the Wisconsin statutes.

Judge C. A. Fowler ruled in dismissing an action brought against Thomas Francy, Elmore. The plaintiff was the K. & S. Sales company, Chicago.

BOY'S EYES CUT WITH FAKING KNIFE. Kokomo, Ia., Jan. 1.—(Special.)—Bobby Stone, 5, of Alexandria, Mo., is at a local hospital for treatment for an eye which was penetrated with the blade of a faking knife. The doctors give little encouragement of saving the eye.

CRY OF DOUBLE CROSS HEATS UP PANAMA BALLOT

Row May Force U. S. to Guard Polls.

BY GERALD MARTIN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
(Copyright 1928 By The Chicago Tribune.)
PANAMA CITY, Panama, Jan. 1.—There is every possibility that long before Panama's presidential election in October next there will be disturbances in the interior towns and possibly in the capital as well. Feeling already is running high and Secretary Frank B. Kellogg's action in turning down Dr. Belisario Porras' request for United States supervision has created a situation in which many of the Porras party leaders believe that if disturbances are forced the American authorities will be compelled according to the treaty to intervene.

The situation is an unusual one from American standards, but is running quite according to the spirit of the Central American tradition. Porras' Appointment Successor.
Dr. Porras, the former president, retired in 1924. He could not accept a term succeeding himself, so he placed Don Rodolfo Chiari in power and then made a trip to Europe as Panamanian minister to London and Paris. With Dr. Porras out of the way the followers of Chiari immediately discarded all his friends and relatives from office, proceeded to see that his party was destroyed, and determined that Porras would never be president again. Dr. Porras then returned to Panama and although not a word of his expected arrival was mentioned in the government controlled newspapers, Porras was received at the Panama station by a crowd of many thousands of enthusiastic followers. Moving pictures of this reception were shown throughout the country excepting when the government stopped them.

Both Sides "Double Crossed."
Long resident Americans in Panama feel that Dr. Porras has not had the best of deals. In plain United States they feel that he has been "double crossed." They know that every member of the government from president down has been made by Porras and to see them turning against him has made them feel that somebody is not playing ball.

President Chiari and his party repeat that Dr. Porras has made an act of double crossing himself, and probably both sides are right. Politics in Panama is not by political party, but by personal party and the two groups are known today as Porrasistas and Chiariistas.
Dr. Porras, now in Washington.

BUSINESS FAILURES IN 1927 INCREASE 1.2 PCT. OVER 1926

New York, Jan. 1.—(AP)—Breadstreet's Journal today made public a compilation of business failures in the United States during 1927, showing a total of 20,265 failures with liabilities of $454,282,367.
The figures represent, the report said, an increase of 1.2 per cent over failures in 1926 and a decrease of one-tenth of one per cent in liabilities, as compared with that year.
The total of failures is the second largest ever recorded, the report showed, being 9.6 per cent lower than the 22,415 failures in the peak year of 1922. Liabilities in 1927 were the fourth largest ever recorded, being 13.3 per cent lower than the peak year of 1921, when $755,700,000 was involved.

made a mistake if he expected the state department to accede to his wish for an announcement on intervention at this hour when in a week or so the Pan-American gathering opens in Havana, but it is becoming more apparent daily that supervision of the elections or intervention may be forced upon the country following battles royal in the interior between the two groups.
Porras' Status Puffed Down.
At Las Tablas, the home town of Dr. Porras, located in the interior, trouble has already begun. Practically the entire populace is for Dr. Porras, but the mayor, police and other officials, appointed by the government, are against him. The status of Porras in the market place was pulled down, broken in two and then stuck up again upside down, and the next morning a riot ensued and the local jail was filled with Porras supporters for many days to come.

The government has called together the leaders of the Porras party in the capital and requested them to sign a statement placing responsibility upon their shoulders in the event of any further outbreak, but this they refused to do, claiming that it would be an admission of their guilt and adding that they knew nothing of any revolutionary movements, and if they occur the responsibility would not be theirs.
Nomination in January.
Dr. Porras was president of Panama in 1912, 1918 and 1920. He has been twice minister to Washington and at other times minister to Brussels and London and Paris. The government candidate for the presidency has not yet been declared, but will be nominated at the coming convention of the liberal party in January in Panama City. All claim to be Liberals but the Porras Liberals have been expelled from the National Liberal party and have formed one of their own called the National Porras Liberal party.
Don Florencio H. Rosemea, an engineer, and Don Francisco Arias, scion of Panama's most wealthy family, are favorites for the coming government organized convention.

BRITAIN THAWS OUT; ISOLATED TOWNS GET AID

Snow Drifts Stir Ire of London Sufferers.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Copyright, 1928, By The Chicago Tribune.)
LONDON, Jan. 1. — Although a small area of the city of London proper now has caught up with the quick weather pranks of the last few days by carting away snow and sleet almost before it falls, greater London, as well as the countryside still is left pretty much to dip itself out as best it can.

The early hours of the new year found London dripping beneath snow and sleet, attractive until it struck the ground, when it became seas of slush and lakes of dirty water.

A gentle thaw set in today in the midland and north counties as well as Wales. While motor traffic was still badly hampered, relief began to reach isolated towns, some of which have been without food supplies for several days.

Clear Path for Worshipers.

An army of London workers was busy at Ludgate Hill, surrounding St. Paul's cathedral, early this morning, cleaning up the bedraggled square before church services began. The thousands of New Year's visitors who jammed the vicinity of the cathedral throughout the night in accordance with the old custom had transformed the falling snow and sleet into a sea of mud.

Meanwhile the snowdrifts in the outlying districts bring loud complaints from the sufferers, who bitterly revile the authorities for their ineptitude at handling the comparatively light snowfall. An irate London newspaper reader writes to declare that all the fuss over the snow has got her goat. She wants to know when the authorities will stop gasping with surprise over the relatively small problem and get down to the business of cleaning up the mess with the same quiet efficiency as shown in Chicago.

VON HINDENBURG URGES UNITY FOR STRONG GERMANY

Appeals on New Year's to Warring Factions.

BERLIN, Jan. 1.—(AP)—President von Hindenburg held a New Year's reception at the presidential mansion today for the diplomatic corps and the German government executives.

the elections as the keynote of the coming year, which, he said, he hoped would not lead to further intensification of party strife and personal attacks and animosity.

He urged the unity of all factions in the interest of the fatherland's welfare which, he said, should be paramount over all political considerations.

"Only in this spirit," he declared, "will it be possible to solve the difficult problems still before us."

German Conditions Improve.

Gen. von Hindenburg said he welcomed the marked improvement in German economies which he hoped would be further consolidated during the new year. He expressed deep regret that the last year had not brought freedom to the Rhineland.

"The thoughts of the entire German people dwell with their brethren in the occupied territory with full expectation and hope, however, for their speedy deliverance," he said. "The foreign military domination in the Rhineland is incompatible with ultimate pacification. In our mind reconciliation is only realizable on soil of freedom between free people."

Urges Universal Peace.

Gen. von Hindenburg, responding to congratulations from the papal nuncio, Mgr. Eugene Pacelli, in behalf of the diplomatic corps, addressed greetings to the governments of all nations and declared Germany was ready to cooperate energetically and sincerely with all endeavors to establish universal peace.

After the exchange of greetings with the diplomat, Gen. von Hindenburg, whose extreme physical fitness was generally remarked, conversed with each of the 44 foreign representatives.

Poincare Ill; Misses Reception.

PARIS, Jan. 1.—(AP)—Premier Poincare was ill and unable to be present at the presidential palace to assist President Doumergue at the New Year's reception of officials and dignitaries in the senate chambers, one of the most important functions of the day.

circulation is only realizable on soil of freedom between free people."

Circles close to the premier insist that his condition is not serious, claiming that he is merely overworked and needs a complete rest for a few days.

Italian King Holds Reception.

ROME, Jan. 1.—(AP)—Warm sunshine brought out huge crowds to St. Peter's and other churches and monuments for the annual New Year pilgrimage and promenade. There were no official functions except a reception at the Quirinal palace by the king for Premier Mussolini and members of parliament.

King Victor Emmanuel, Queen Elena, and Princess Giovanna arrived at the ancient Quirinal from the Savoy palace shortly before ten o'clock, the king wearing his uniform of commander-in-chief of the army. The queen was dressed in gold lace with a long train. The court ladies wore court dresses of Savoy blue.

Callers of whom 11 Duce was the first were received in the throne room by the three members of the royal family, surrounded by dignitaries of the court. Cabinet ministers followed the premier, then the heads of the senate, chamber of deputies, and other notables bearing their good wishes to the royal family.

The reception lasted an hour. Later, at noon, 11 Duce received the president of the chamber and 200 deputies at the Chigi palace. Afterward he received officials of the Fascist party, including Augusto Turati, secretary general, and several others. The premier's visitors congratulated him on achievements of the last year.

$15,000 FIRE IN WAREHOUSE.
Damage amounting to about $15,000 was caused by a fire last evening in a warehouse of the Automotive Utilities corporation at 144 W. 18th-st. The fire was confined to a small part of the warehouse.

Yellow Cab

Has a New Year's Message for You

Yellow Cab will signalize the beginning of the New Year with development and improvement which will still further enhance the comfort, convenience and safety of its patrons and prove a whole lot more satisfying than a mere New Year's wish.

Since 1926 many of our cabs have been equipped with safety glass behind the driver where automobile shocks are usually felt first. And now all Yellow Cabs will be similarly equipped with a glass that may crack, but will not injure.

This is only part of the story. We propose to go on and on improving our equipment as fast as the automobile art progresses.

Within the next few days all our old cabs will disappear from the streets and their places taken by the highest development of modern taxi-cab vehicles which combine many progressive features for your benefit.

Upholstering changed to soft velour which insures the acme of ease and comfort in motor cars.

Extra seats facing forward with plenty of leg and elbow room.

Uniformity in cabs and equipment so that invariably you will get a modern cab rather than a good one today and a poor one tomorrow.

We can think of nothing more practical and fitting for a New Year's greeting than this information. You all need this form of local transportation and you are necessarily interested in knowing what Yellow Cab is doing to please you.

Accept our assurance that we will constantly make this cab service better as rapidly as our means and knowledge show the way. But we've got to have your help. If we get it, this will be another banner year in our history.

Silver Fox and Sable Scarfs

Our very large collection of choice neckpieces—fine Silver Foxes and Sables—has been drastically reduced, offering really extraordinary values to the woman who knows.

IT IS the Uhlemann tradition—held to through over half a century—never to carry the fur creations of one season over into the next. For this reason we are offering our entire stock of Fur Coats at reductions ranging from 35% to 50% for this annual value event. Discriminating, style-wise women know what this means. It is an opportunity to purchase furs that represent the utmost in exclusiveness of mode, elegance of workmanship, luxuriousness of pelts, at such generous price concessions that they actually cost less than a mediocre model would. Your satisfaction is assured by our fifty-two year reputation for service.

Sweeping Reductions of 35% to 50%

These reductions are offered to insure quick disposal, and, while our selection is large, we urge you to come without delay.

be two months before actual figures are available, and perhaps even longer, owing to the general state of warfare and interrupted communications, the fact stands out that America really is financing China through its trade, while Great Britain and Japan, on the other hand, draw increasingly in cash from China.

Figures for British trade are difficult to obtain, owing to transshipments from Hongkong, but the trade balance in favor of Britain is believed to be well over $9 per cent.

As to Japan, statistics for eleven months of 1927 show exports to China of $207,306,000 and imports from China of $193,281,000, a net return to Japan of $14,025,000.

The estimated trade balance of American commerce with China for the full year is estimated to be $67,600,000 in gold dollars, in favor of China.

U. S. is China's Best Customer.

A glance over the situation from a commercial standpoint at the year's end reveals not only that the United States is the best customer of China, but its most favored customer, in that she buys so much more than she sells to the war torn republic. As for both Britain and Japan, the reverse is exactly true, both getting back in trade balances a large part of the cost of maintaining military and naval forces.

Another important change is revealed by a study of the statistics, that Great Britain and the United States

both are losing their grip on the piece-goods trade with China, which Japan now dominates. But Japan is going even further. Taking advantage of the cheaper labor in China, Japan is erecting cotton mills in rapidly increasing numbers, notably in the Shanghai,

Tientsin and Tientsin industrial areas.

U. S. Imports $124,000,000.

America's total exports to China (including Hongkong and the Japanese leased port of Dairen) for the first nine months of the year amounted in value to $74,000,000 gold, compared with $50,000,000 last year and $119,000,000 in 1924, the best year of America's trade with China. For the same eight months China's exports to the United States amounted to $124,000,000, the record for China's exports to the United States. Taking the average of the first three quarters as an estimate for the final quarter it will be seen that China's exports to the United States reached a total of $185,000,000 in 1927 and her imports from the United States a total of $193,281,000, a net profit to China of $67,600,000 gold for the year.

Shanghai is the chief seaport of China, but transshipments there are so great that it is better for comparative purposes to use the statistics of other ports where interruptions of coastwise and interior traffic are not so frequent as at Shanghai.

Trade at Tientsin.

The total value of the foreign trade of Tientsin, the largest seaport in northern China, for the first ten months of 1927, with reference solely to imports from or exports to the United States, and the comparative figures for 1926 are as follows, expressed in gold dollars:

1927. 1926.

Imports from U. S. $64,500,000 $65,800,000

Exports to U. S. $65,700,000 $5,800,000

Total volume of trade $130,200,000 $119,200,000

The increased taxation chiefly affects imports and is borne by the importer, although various charges on exports are collected by the local authorities and are not calculated in these returns, which do not record the mar-time customs duties; these have been increased through the application of the Washington surtaxes. The point is that China's imports of American goods have increased, while the United States has purchased $12,100,000 more goods from north China than in the corresponding ten months of last year, when the taxation also was lower.

One might wonder at a 300 per cent increase in raw cotton from China when we grow the best cotton in the world. The answer is that this particular cotton goes wholly into our wool blankets!

JAPAN'S CENSORS TAKE NO CHANCES ON DARK STAGE

BY RODERICK MATHESON.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

TOKIO, Jan. 1.—The difficulties connected with attempting something new in Japan were well illustrated before a large audience when an intercollegiate English speaking contest was recently staged in Tokyo. It was a competition in one act plays between the students of four universities, Waseda, Keio, Rikkyo, and the Japan Women's college.

Such a contest had never been staged before and the novelty immediately excited police attention, especially as it was announced that Waseda would produce a play called "Freedom," and Keio intended to counter with a one act piece styled "National Secrets."

Everything in the entertainment line is under strict police supervision and must be conducted under the eyes and ears of one or more uniformed censors. However, at least a dozen appeared to observe the dramatic contest, to each of whom certified translations into Japanese of the texts of the four plays were supplied and explained. Then, just as the curtain was about to rise on "Freedom," one of the censors observed from his script that at one period of the play the stage would be darkened.

Halts Darkening of Stage.
Immediately he called the promoters of the contest and notified them that under no circumstances must the lights be turned out. Any such trick, as that played upon him and his brother censors would result in the prohibition of the whole affair.

In vain arguments were presented that the whole plot of the play depended upon that few seconds of darkness. There was nothing doing, but he finally consented to the despatch of a messenger with a hasty call to a police judge of the neighborhood, before whom the point might be again argued.

"Must Imagine Darkness."
The judge arrived and gravely listened to the police and to the promoters, then solemnly mounted to the stage and gave his judgment to the audience:

"The lights cannot be turned off, but it is permitted that you should imagine that when the proper time comes the stage shall be in darkness." Thus the audience was treated to the sight of student players on a brilliantly lighted stage groping about in imaginary darkness and doing in plain sight what was supposed to supply the mystery for the rest of the play.

FIVE YEAR OLD'S GUN KILLS.
Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 1.—(AP)—The accidental discharge of a shotgun in the hands of her 5 year old brother today resulted in the death of Violet Alexander, 15 years old. She was shot in the head and died within a few minutes.

PROFESSOR ASKS EXPERIMENTS IN DIET ON FELONS

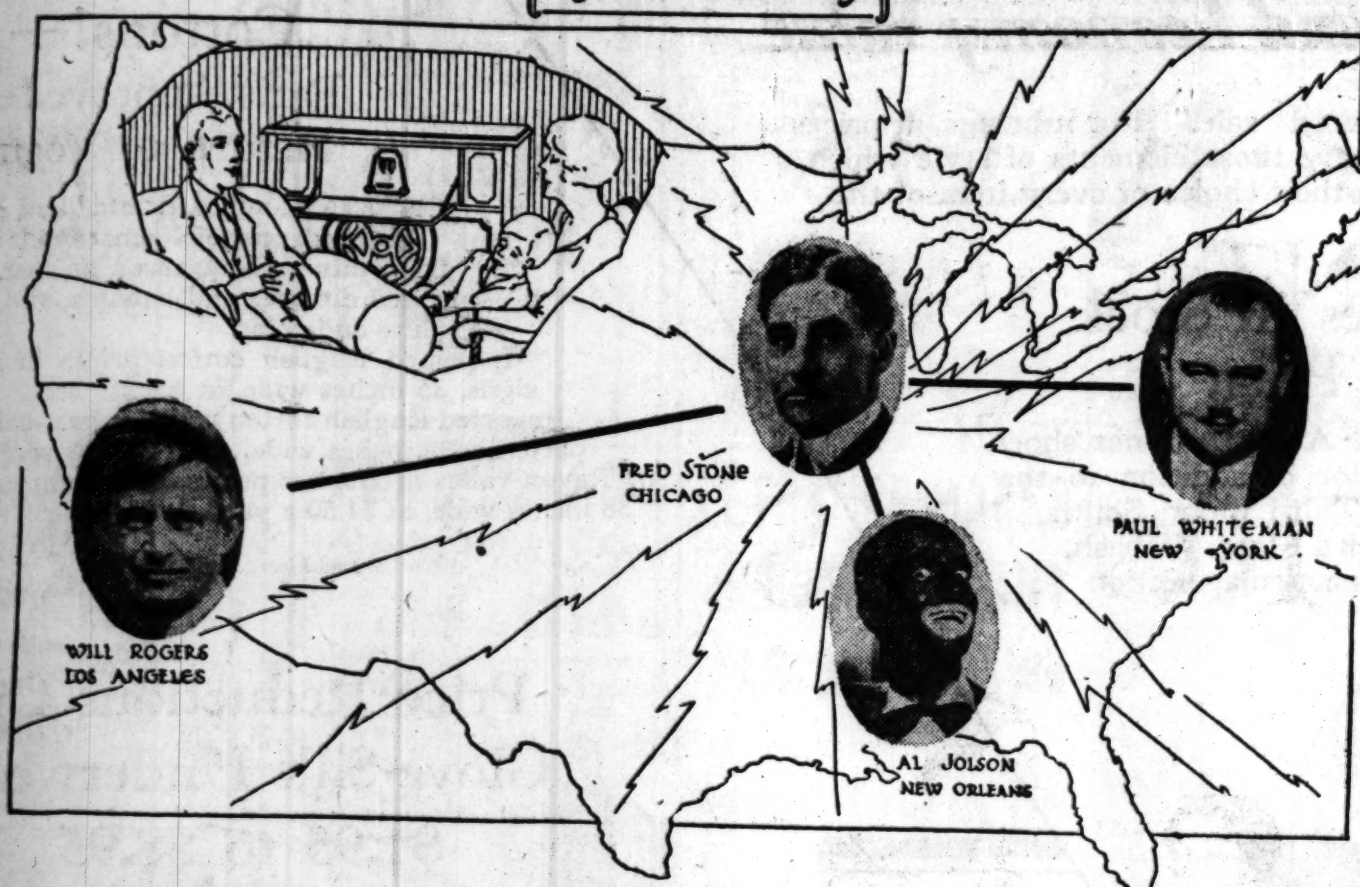

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Experiments in diet on prisoners is advocated by Dr. Albert P. Sy, professor of chemistry in the University of Buffalo.

The experiments, which would be comparable to those on animals in health laboratories, would carry a promise of pardon if convicts submitting to them survived.

"By such experiments," Dr. Sy declared, "we could make great advances in ascertaining what is beneficial and what is harmful in the diet of the human being, with far greater certainty than we now can in our experiments with animals."

"It would be far better to give prisoners a chance to volunteer for such experiments, and thus do something for the benefit of humanity, with a promise of pardon on conclusion of the experiment, than to keep them locked up for years, utterly useless to themselves or to the world."

Go on the Air Wednesday Night

Jolson, Whiteman, the Stones, Rogers! Names to launch a million laughs... headliners in an all-star show right in your own home. Never has Radio promised greater enjoyment. No longer a luxury: it has moved into the class of necessities... You'll want it NOW!

About the Big Event

From The Chicago Evening Post

All of the United States will serve as a stage for a program sponsored by an automobile manufacturer, to be broadcast nation-wide, thru forty-three stations of the NBC Red and Pacific coast networks next Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. The program will be presented locally thru WESH, Will Rogers, Fred and Dorothy Stone, Al Jolson and Paul Whiteman will appear on this program, arranged at a cost said to be over $1,000 a minute. Stories on Air from Chicago.

Will Rogers, acting as master of ceremonies, from his home on the Pacific coast, will be heard first, contributing some of his celebrated "concoctions" and shrewd observations on world affairs. Then he will introduce Paul Whiteman and his orchestra, and from New York city will be heard this famous musical organization playing George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." Following this from California again, Will Rogers will introduce Fred and Dorothy Stone, playing in the Brinsford theater in Chicago. From there Miss Stone will sing "True Blue," assisted by the Chorus Four (quartet) and then her father will sing the "Chinatown Song" from "Chinatown." A duet by father and daughter, "Down on the Farm," from "Tip Top," one of Fred Stone's musical comedy successes, with Mary Cooke at the piano, will conclude their part of the program.

Away from Lake Michigan to the Pacific coast again and Will Rogers will announce Al Jolson singing "Mammy" from the logical place to sing it, New Orleans. With Dave Dreyer at the piano, Jolson will also sing "California, Here I Come," "Rock-a-bye, My Baby," "Tee-Dee-Dee, Good-Bye," "Golden Gate," and "Back in Your Own Back Yard." A switch to the east again and Paul Whiteman's orchestra, in New York, will close the program with "Among My Souvenirs," with a vocal arrangement by Edgar Leslie and Horatio Nicholls, and "Changes," with vocal arrangement by Walter Donaldson. During the hour, Will Rogers, from California, will introduce Edward G. Wither, president of the Dodge Brothers Motor Car company, sponsor of the program, who from his home in Detroit, Mich., will greet the radio audience.

BARRY BOWLERS TAKE 4TH PLACE IN LEAGUE PLAY

Mineralites Add to Lead in Randolph Loop.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

One lone shift in the standings of the Randolph league resulted from last week's series of matches. They also told the story of the Mineralites increasing their lead, which is becoming a bit more than a lead. The Mineralites swept their three games with Black's Victors, while their nearest pursuers, the Krem Koe, could win only two from Black's Amers, and the Boyle Valves, in third place, dropped one to the Mid City bank. The one shift was the Commodore Barrys, who displaced Black's Amers from fourth place by winning three from Old Henry while the Amers were losing three. Standing:

Team	W	L	Av.
Mineralites	10	2	80.42
Boyle Valves	8	4	78.18
Commodore Barrys	7	5	77.40
Black's Amers	6	6	77.18

MOON MULLINS—THE MORNING AFTER THE NIGHT BEFORE

In the Wake of the News

DO YOU REMEMBER WAY BACK WHEN:

KNUTE ROCKNE, Notre Dame football coach, was suspended from Tulay, then Northwest Division, High school for fighting with his Latin teacher—Bullus. [Ed. Note: Rockne made up his credits the following year at night school.]

We had to pull the door bell instead of push it—Katie.
We strung long strings of odd buttons and called them "charm strings"—C. A. R., Oak Park, Ill.

We took sleigh rides on the boulevard in the '70s in the cold month of December, and beneath the buffalo robes the boys and girls would gaily squeeze each other's hands—Alex W. Goegegan and Revell were at the corner of Fifth avenue and Randolph and their advertising catchphrase was, "Goegegan and Revell"—M. J. G.

Nobody but railroad laborers were belted to hold up their trousers—Ann.

We greased our red-topped copper-toed boots with tallow to make them "turn water"—O. C. S., Quincy, Ill.

Our mother left as kids while she went shopping and told us to get our lunch, and how we fought! And when she returned and found us tranquil she lifted her veil, kissed us, and told us what nice children we were—Doug, Jackson, Mich.

Mother bought jeans by the yard at the dry goods store and made up our trousers, jeans for every day and, molehairs for Sunday—A. H. F., Clinton, Ill.

Mother let our hair "hang" and we wore our "second best" dress on the "last day" of school—Mrs. C. B., Sac City, Ia.

THIS WAKE IS CONDUCTED BY HARVEY T. WOODRUFF. HELP! HELP!

Your girl used to take a wicked little puff at your cigar and nearly cough her head off—Marguerite of Hollywood, Cal.

We wore black velvet bands around our necks, decorated with dried cucumber seeds attached to fancy designs—Mrs. Roseanne R.

Women wore "bouquets" with the long stems sticking up under the left ear—J. I. M., Cairo, Ill.

Burcky & Milton's restaurant on Clark street had white burly napkins and gave a full meal, including pie, for 25 cents—B. L. G.

You sent 10 cents in stamps to the Faber Brewing company in Milwaukee and received a calendar for the current year, and on one side was printed an advertisement for "Pabst Extract, the Best Tonic, Brings Roses to Your Cheeks," and on the other side was the lithographed picture of some prominent actress—C. H. R.

In front of the Swedish grocery store you saw big bundles of dried fish, called line fish, so hard you needed a saw to cut them, but later years they came prepared, a Christmas meal from Swedish people in the old country—C. H. R.

Our mother sent us to the grocery with a dollar to buy 10 pounds of granulated sugar, a pound of butter, and a dozen eggs, and told us not to lose the change—D. F. S., Kankakee, Ill.

We sat two at a school desk, the desks of pine and hand carved (with jack-knives), and they had a shelf for books and state under the top—H. D. W., Rockford, Ill.

We used to save a pile of "wild cucumber" for the unpopular grocery boy, line up behind the fence along the (unpaved) alley and give him a half block of misery—Nassau '22.

Bob Clears Up Mystery of Mr. Beaver

BY BOB BECKER.

A few weeks ago when we were hunting near Metagama, Ont., we snowshoed through country filled with signs of beaver. In nearly every valley where a stream wound its way through the timber the "flat tails" had taken charge of affairs with the result that tall dams (some of them many yards in length) stretched across the valley and big ponds covered acres of ground.

Along the shores the beaver had cut down poplars of all sizes which made our snowshoeing an acrobatic performance, as stopping over fallen logs with snowshoes is not an easy trick. We also could see the big houses of the beaver on top of ice as the beaver excels the muskrat when it comes to building.

How the beaver transports the material used in the construction of his home, how long they can remain under water, their mode of swimming and many other questions relating to the natural history of these interesting fur-bearingers has been discussed for years and in these discussions much romance and fiction has been mixed with science. Facts have recently been brought forward to supplant the romance, as two Minnesota investigators kept five pairs of beaver in captivity in order to study them. They had to watch them by night as well as by day, as the flat tails are mostly nocturnal in their habits.

One interesting item discovered was that the beaver could stay under water for seven minutes. When it came to swimming the animals were observed using their hind feet only for motive power. An answer to the question of how the beaver transports sticks, stones and mud for dams was found when the investigators watched the animals carry the material against their breasts, held by the front feet.

Bankers to Hold Annual Track Meet on March 30

The ninth annual Bankers' track and field meet will be held March 30 at the Riding club. In addition to the closed events for the bank athletes, there will be races and field competition bringing together many of the nation's outstanding performers. The Bankers' Mile, feature of the meet, should be more hotly contested than ever, as Lloyd Hahn, winner of the race last year, Ray Watson, Ray Dodge, Alva Martin, Ray Conger and Spike Rue are some of the outstanding milers who have signified their intention of competing.

Among the features will be the following games: Damen vs. Hennepin, Madonna vs. De La Salle, Ridge vs. Santa Maria, McHale vs. Loyola-Hyde Park, and Marquette vs. Columbus. The schedule:

Petri and Hill Team Up for 6 Day Grind

Otto Petri of Germany and Norman Hill of San Jose, Cal., will form the German-American team in Chicago's nineteenth international six day bicycle race which starts in the Coliseum Sunday night. Petri and Hill rode as a team in the last grind and were leading practically all week long. On Saturday night just a few hours before the finish, Hill went down in a tumble and broke his collar bone putting him out of the race. Thousands of fans figured Hill and Petri would have won the grind had not Hill fell.

Rode Together in New York.
Petri and Hill also rode as a team in the recent New York six day race and finished in third place. They are a mighty evenly balanced team and are sure to give the teams of Walthour and Spencer, McNamara and Winter, Goossens and Delgates lots of trouble before the week is out. Just a little over a year ago, Petri won the Chicago race with Dave Lands as his partner and they won the grind by a margin of four laps.

Petri is the outstanding German rider in the world today. Promoters Harmon and Chapman have made all sorts of efforts to get another German rider as a partner for Petri, but there is no rider in Germany at the present time who can match the little rugged "Dutchman."

Opposes Walthour Saturday.
Petri will also ride in the sprint meet Saturday night when he will oppose Bobby Walthour in a five mile motor-paced race. Petri is a brilliant rider behind the "motors" and certain to give Walthour a battle.

Looking Forward

The beginning of a new year finds the railroads of the country functioning smoothly and efficiently, providing the American people with the speediest, the most reliable and, considering the relative value of the dollar, the cheapest railway service they have ever known. That condition has an important bearing upon the forward look with which it is customary and appropriate to start the new year.

At this period of inventory-taking and planning, when sober second thought comes natural to all, no one needs to be reminded how largely modern civilization depends upon the railroads. Few could live through the coming year in any degree of comfort without them. All who benefit from production, manufacturing and distribution—whether as workers or as employees, as producers or as consumers—are beneficiaries of railway service. When that service is good and cheap—as it now is—their benefits are greatest.

It is therefore important to everyone that the railroads are able to provide the kind of service with which we are entering 1928. But will they always be able to maintain it at this standard?

In order to keep on providing indefinitely the kind of service which we now enjoy, the railroads must have the assurance of an adequate and stabilized earning power. Their receipts must consistently be large enough to pay running expenses and taxes, with enough left over to assure improvement and expansion through the investment of earnings and through the payment of interest and dividends that will attract new capital.

Both the gross and the net earnings of the railroads as a whole in 1927 were less than in 1926. This condition was due to three principal reasons—a decrease in traffic, a further decline in the level of rates and the award of wage increases to large groups of employees. It is unfortunate that these developments had to be simultaneous. Their combined result should arrest attention and engage serious thought. A weakening of railway earning power, whether or not it is immediately reflected in the character of the service, ultimately affects every business in every part of the country and all our people, however occupied.

The continued patronage and good will of those whom it serves are always an inspiration to the Illinois Central System organization, but never more so than in the face of temporarily adverse conditions. In a spirit of gratitude for these and all its other blessings, this railroad starts the new year with a resolve to render during 1928 a service with which every patron may be satisfied and of which every employee may be proud.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. DOWNS,
President, Illinois Central System.

CHICAGO, January 2, 1928.

GOVERNMENT OF SOUTH CHINA NOW RUNNING ITSELF

Chiang Rules with Aid of Single Minister.

BY JOHN POWELL.
(Copyright 1928: By The Chicago Tribune.)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 1.—The national government of China is beginning the new year with a clean slate. Only one official is functioning and he is Quo Tai-chi, commissioner of foreign affairs, who has been appointed foreign minister following the resignation of Dr. C. C. Wu.

Owing to the fact that most of the cabinet members resigned last week, and the Kuomintang central executive committee will not meet until Jan. 5, the nationalists practically are without a government, although Gen.

Chiang Kai-shek unofficially is functioning at generalissimo.

In a New Year's message published today, Mr. Qu declared the nationalists have been successful in conquering three-fourths of China's provinces and eliminating the military dictators, although sufficient time has not elapsed to consolidate the conquered territories and establish civilian government. He declared the Kuomintang now has been cleared of the communist elements which threatened to disrupt the government and the prospects for unification are bright.

May Increase Customs.

The chief problem facing the new government is financial and the first move of the new cabinet will probably be an attempt at a further increase in the customs duties, with a minimum of 12 1/2 per cent in order to enable the nation of a new domestic loan.

Local foreign officials reviewing the last year as regards the foreign trade situation, paint a gloomy picture, with uncertain prospects for 1928.

The British commercial attaché, J. Brett, said, "Until some means have been found to restore an orderly government in the Yangtze valley it is unreasonable to expect a real improvement in trade conditions."

Mr. Brett added that China's customs returns in Shanghai dropped $7,000,000 from last year's figures.

Exports to U. S. Drop.

Edwin S. Cunningham, United States consul general, reviewing American trade in the Yangtze valley, said China's exports to America dropped more than $14,000,000, the chief decrease being in silk shipments, which Mr. Cunningham attributed to the increasing use of artificial silk in America.

With reference to China's purchases of American goods, Mr. Cunningham said there was a considerable decrease in most lines. Cigarettes decreased 45 per cent, leaf tobacco, 30 per cent, and motor cars more than 20 per cent, while lumber imports also showed a considerable decrease from last year.

The Japanese consul, Yada, the only optimist, claims trade gradually is recovering.

Chicagoan, Ill., Leaps to Death at Fiancee's Home

New York, Jan. 1.—Faced by the prospect of returning to a hospital from which he had been released to attend a New Year's party, Jackson Eddy dashed his throat and wrists today and leaped from a window of his fiancée's sixth story apartment in Riverside drive, dying instantly. Eddy, 27, had recently come from Chicago, where he was manager of an automobile company.

BORAH ASKS U. S. AND MEXICO TO BE GOOD FRIENDS

Oil Peace Paves Way for It, He Declares.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Belief that the American oil and land controversy with Mexico is in process of permanent and satisfactory adjustment was expressed today by Senator William E. Borah (Rep., Idaho), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee.

The senator is of the opinion that the action of President Calles and the Mexican congress in repealing the confiscatory provision of the Mexican oil law indicates that Mexico is now prepared to cooperate with the United States in working out a settlement of the dispute over the confiscatory features of the oil law and other subjects of controversy between the two nations.

In the senator's opinion every effort should be made by this government in 1928 to place American relations with Mexico and the Central American countries upon a friendly and neighborly basis.

"In my opinion," the senator said today in a statement outlining his views, "there can be nothing more important to the American people to be accomplished in the year 1928 than to get upon a friendly and proper basis with Mexico and with the Central American countries."

"They are our neighbors. They have their great problems, wholly different from our problems, many of them. Every effort ought to be made to cooperate with them in the adjustment of their problems in so far as they come in contact with American interests."

Senator Borah did not touch on the question of whether he favors the early opening of negotiations for the conclusion of a commercial treaty with Mexico which would automatically arrange for the settlement of many of the sources of trouble with Mexico. It is known, however, that administration officials would welcome overtures for the negotiation of such a treaty.

With Law and Justice.
Senator Borah in his statement reviews the oil controversy and draws the conclusion that if the United States is patient and tolerant "it is probable that Mexico will continue to work out these problems in accordance with law and justice."

The decision of the Supreme court holding that articles XIV and XV of the law passed by the Mexican congress were unconstitutional was not unexpected by those who had accredited Mexico with good faith in working out her oil and land problem," he said. "Oregon, while president, and Calles, since becoming president, have both declared repeatedly that it was not the purpose of the Mexican government to confiscate property."

"The sole question involved was whether these laws were in fact confiscatory, a judicial question to be settled either by courts or arbitral tribunals. Mexico never took the position at any time that she would, or had a right to, confiscate. The effect of her position was that if the laws were found confiscatory she would abandon them, which she is now doing."

Not Acting in Bad Faith.
"It should not be taken for granted that Mexico was acting in bad faith because her congress passed a law which was unconstitutional. Laws passed by the congress of the United States have been found to be unconstitutional and so declared by our Supreme court."

"The Supreme court in Mexico has proceeded in an orderly way to declare an act of the Mexican congress unconstitutional—a decision which does not establish the bad faith of the Mexican congress any more than decisions of our Supreme court establish the bad faith of our congress or our state legislatures."

"Mexico had the absolute right to adopt her constitution and change her land laws. It was her sovereign right which no one may challenge. But in so far and to the extent that this change affected the vested right of our nationals, it presented a judicial question to be determined through the courts or arbitration."

CALLS MEETING TO AID CITIZEN TRAINING CAMP

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Orders for a conference in Washington on Jan. 4 of the officers in charge of citizens military training camp activities in the nine corps areas have been issued by Secretary of War Davis. The conference will last three days and will be addressed by Maj. Gen. Lutz Wahl, adjutant general, and Dr. George F. James, executive secretary of the military training camps association.

Methods of recruiting candidates for the various camps, war department finance methods, the general purpose of training camps and the value of distinctive uniforms for morale purposes are among subjects scheduled for discussion. Commencing in 1925 as an experiment, the conferences have been so successful that they will be made an annual event.

The 1929 budget does not carry as large an appropriation for C. M. T. C. activities as approved by congress last year. Backers of the movement hope, however, that when hearings are held in congress increased funds will be made available for this purpose.

SWITCHMAN KILLED BY ENGINE.
Evansville, Ind., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—John O. E. Klaus, 25, Evansville, switchman for the Illinois Central railway, was killed here last night under the wheels of a switch engine. He is survived by his widow and an infant son.

$5,000 Bracelet Found in Elevator at Hotel

Harry C. Moir, manager and owner of the Morrison hotel, yesterday gave notice that a $5,000 bracelet was found after the New Year's eve celebration in one of the elevators in the hotel. He would not give its description, but stated that he is holding it for the owner "to come and identify it."

JARDINE ADDS TO QUARANTINE AGAINST BORER

Revised Regulations Are Sent Out.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—(Special.)—Extensive additions to the quarantined areas in eastern and central states to prevent the spread of the corn borer became effective today with revised regulations issued by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine.

Illinois has thus far escaped the pest, which is now known to exist in thirteen states—Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, and Indiana. The newly quarantined territory consists of 781 townships in the states named.

The borer, according to the agriculture department, has moved south in Ohio until more than one-half of the state is infested. The front line of advance now describes a semi-circle through the state from Mercer county on the west to Belmont county on the east, going as far south as Pickaway county.

In Indiana the infested area has practically trebled in the last year, but is still confined to the northeastern corner of the state, the line extending diagonally to take in parts of St. Joseph, Marshall, Wabash, and Jay counties.

The quarantined area in Michigan includes parts of St. Joseph, Midland, and Kalamazoo counties; all of Barry, Eaton, Clinton, and Saginaw counties, and all the territory east of these counties, as well as parts of all other counties bordering on Lake Huron.

MEN FROM FLOP HOUSES GIVEN A NEW YEAR TREAT

Word was passed along the flop house districts of the near west side early yesterday that free hot dogs and steaming hot coffee were being served at 28 North Franklin street.

Then started the lines of down and outers from the 10, 25, and 50 cents a night lodging houses to the Franklin street address.

Last night Anton J. Cermak, head of the county board, announced that during the day approximately 8,000 red hot sandwiches were handed out to hungry men, while they drank about 11,000 cups of coffee. The expense of giving the flop house dwellers a bite was defrayed by Cermak's All-Chicago Christmas fund. Mr. Cermak said hot coffee and red dogs will be served again today at the same place.

WED 65 YEARS, THEY ENJOY LIFE AS THEY FIND IT

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Vosburgh observed their 65th wedding anniversary in their home in Aurora yesterday. Mr. Vosburgh is 87 and will be 88 June 4. His wife is 84 and looks to be no more than 60. She will be 85 Oct. 4.

Mr. Vosburgh is a cyclist and may be seen almost any day pedaling his way about, but the snows and the chill of winter have prevented him from "biking" much these days.

"We go to bed early, get up early, never quarrel and enjoy life as we find it," was Mrs. Vosburgh's explanation of their long and happy wedded life.

"Mr. Vosburgh used to smoke some, took an occasional glass of wine and chewed tobacco, but all in moderation. We live tolerantly and moderately and that is why we are so fit."

DIES OF HIP FRACTURE.

Andrew Pearson, 85, of 7549 Kingston avenue, died yesterday at his home as a result of a fall Dec. 16, when his hip was fractured.

GREEN CALLS ON EMPLOYERS FOR INDUSTRIAL PEACE

A. F. L. Head Says Accept Labor's Co-operation.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—American labor's new year greeting to employers and the public, voiced tonight by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, was a challenge to the owners and management of industry to co-operate with labor "in the establishment and maintenance of sound economic standards and industrial peace."

Organized labor, Mr. Green said, is convinced that the present living standards and national prosperity can be sustained "only through the maintenance of a high industrial productivity level and a high and still higher mass purchasing power."

"The real problem of the new year," declared Mr. Green, "will be that of increasing commodity consumption. Not only must the consuming mass of people be encouraged to buy but they must be financed to the point where they can buy freely."

"How will the owners of industrial enterprises meet this challenge? Will they accept organized labor's offer of co-operation? Will they assist in the giving of new forces and meaning to collective bargaining, so that all concerned may think in terms of industrial peace and of the peaceful solution of industrial problems which affect the relationship of employers and employees?"

"Opposition to the American Federation of Labor and its constituent parts through the organization of company unions, the use of court injunctions, and the forced denial of the exercise of the right of employees to join the labor union of their choice tends to fan the flame of industrial hate. Will those employers who have been pursuing such an opposition policy during the past continue to do so in the future?"

Prince of Wales' Skill as Skater Thrills Britons

LONDON, Jan. 1.—[AP.]—Westminster's Gazette, in a dispatch from Melton Mowbray, says the prince of Wales showed his democratic spirit yesterday when he bought a pair of skates from a local shop and joined the crowd of skaters on the Stapleford park lake. His excellent skating attracted attention a long time before the crowd recognized him.

Senator Hale Announces His Candidacy in Maine

Portland, Me., Jan. 1.—[AP.]—Formal announcement of his candidacy for re-nomination as United States senator in the Republican primaries next June was made today by Senator Frederick Hale of this city. Gov. Ralph O. Brewster announced last Wednesday that he would be a candidate for Senator Hale's seat.

Real Estate Dealer Charges His Wife Deserted Him

Joseph Pyrzyński, real estate dealer with offices at 1832 West Division street and 1325 North Ashland avenue, Saturday denied charges of cruelty made against him in a separate maintenance suit brought by Mrs. Stella Mix Pyrzyński, 1433 North Ashland avenue, before Superior Judge John J. Sullivan. He alleges that she left him last March, a year after their marriage, because she did not want to care for his two children by a former marriage. Her principal witness is her sister, Miss Regina M. Mix, senior at DePaul university and a leader in the school's social activities.

CLAUDEL GIVEN KELLOGG DRAFT OF PEACE PACT

Intends to "Banish War" Between Nations.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—The proposed Franco-American treaty to outlaw war between the two nations this week assumed most significant and definite form when Secretary of State Kellogg presented to Ambassador Claudel a new and more comprehensive draft of the pact for submission to the French government. It was learned from most reliable sources tonight.

The treaty's outline, as shaped by the secretary of state in conjunction with members of the senate foreign relations committee, is prefaced by a preamble which declares that France and the United States desire to enlarge the former Root arbitration treaty "to banish forever war between the two nations," and also to utilize the methods of arbitration for the settlement of any and all difficulties which may arise between the two republics.

The Kellogg draft, it is understood, then specifies the following main provisions for the proposed treaty:

1. That the French and United States governments engage to submit all of their differences to arbitration by means of an international commission of arbitration.
2. That differences of a juridical nature which do not concern the treaty will be submitted to the permanent court of international justice at The Hague for arbitration or to other tribunals on which the disputants may agree, under the reservation that the United States senate approves this arrangement and that it is compatible with the constitutional laws of France.

3. That this treaty of arbitration will not be applicable in the instances:

- (a) To questions concerning the interior politics of both signatory nations.
- (b) To any international complications involving a third power.

DAVIS' ADVICE TO YOUTH A STUDY IN COMPARISONS

Fraternities vs. Reds;
Lindy vs. Hickman.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 1.—(AP)—A defense of the young people of today—a caution to the college student on the threshold of graduation to take things slowly and by hard work make their success in the world—and a condemnation of "brotherhood" as it is conceived in "bohemian" Russia, were contained in an address delivered by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis.

The secretary, addressing the closing session of the Delta Sigma Phi college fraternity convention, told the delegates that, most important of all, they must not seek an easy and quick path to success, but must take the slow and sure way of hard work.

As an example he pointed to California's recent murder sensation, saying that the youth involved—an honor pupil in school—sought the "easy" way and now, "when his mind should be filled with the brightest hopes and aspirations, there dangles before him the hangman's noose."

As an example of the success coming to the hard worker he pointed to Col. Lindbergh, America's ambassador of the air. He told of the hard struggle of the young aviator to gain education, of his constant application to his study of aeronautics—the slow and arduous work in the air mail service; and his untiring preparation for a trans-Atlantic flight. "Many a young fellow would have cried out against the hard grind," he said. "But not Lindbergh. The truth is, his rise has been swift because he took it slowly and was prepared."

The secretary had much praise for college fraternities and the brand of brotherhood they teach—a brotherhood unlike that of "bohemian" Russia. The fraternity brotherhood he termed a brotherhood of love, equality, charity, and generosity.

The Russian brotherhood he termed "nothing but an attempt of a band to stab the brain." A million men, under control of half a dozen leaders, dictating to the remaining 140,000,000 what they shall do—how many hours they shall work—what they can read—what

BANK OF ITALY EARNS $20,125,371 PROFITS, OR 50 PER CENT, IN '27

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Earnings of $20,125,371 for the year 1927, or more than $2,000,000 in excess of the estimate of $18,000,000 made at the December meeting of the board of directors, were reported in the annual statement of the Bank of Italy, published today. Included in this amount is the sum of $1,581,684, which will be distributed to employees under the profit sharing plan.

Aggregate resources of $765,123,376 are shown in the statement, an increase of $300,000,000 since the first of 1927. Deposits have grown from $416,656,111 to $645,002,133 during the same period, and the number of depositors now stands at 1,290,315, as compared with the 628,046 last January, a gain of approximately 665,000. During 1927 the combined average paid in capital was $10,000,000, with an average of 1,174,000 shares outstanding. On March 15, the capital was increased from $28,000,000 to $42,000,000, and on Oct. 25 to $52,500,000 by the payment of a 25 per cent stock dividend. On the basis of the current statement the earnings for the year were in excess of 50 per cent.

They are to think—and they call that brotherhood.

College fraternities are criticized today, he added, mostly because "when men get to be so old that they no longer are able to get a bad example to youth they are apt to get lost for a spurious variety of righteousness."

"The young people of today are as good as their fathers were at the same age," he said, "and I think they will compare favorably with their fathers even if their respective ages are not taken into consideration."

Woman, Shot in Battle of Husband and Rival, Dies

Mrs. Mildred Havill, 52, of 5623 Cottage Grove avenue, died yesterday at the Illinois Central hospital from a bullet wound received Dec. 21 when caught in a cross fire between her husband, Fred, and a city fireman.

Learning that his attentions to Mrs. Havill had been resented by the husband, Charles Mathisen, a member of engine company No. 88, went to the Havill home with a revolver and started shooting; the police were informed. Mathisen is in custody.

"LOST TRIBE" TO INSTALL THEIR NEW CHIEF TODAY

Livingston, Tex., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Members of a great white chief and of many unfulfilled hopes stirred the Alabama Indians, "Lost Tribe" of Texas, as they prepared to elect a chief and an assistant chief tomorrow.

Isolated in their village in the Big Thicket, a woods fifteen miles east of Livingston, Polk county, the strange tribesmen were reported brushing up on their ancient ceremonies for the installation of a successor to Chief John Scott, their last leader, who died in 1912.

Whether the election of a new chief after fifteen years without a leader has any connection with the bill now before congress to provide funds for the tribe could not be learned, as they seldom make known their intentions to the white people. Congress has been asked to buy them additional land and make some arrangements for their support.

In Same Village for Century. The tribe, now numbering only about 550, has lived for almost a century in one village. They have little or no connection with the outside world, never have married outside the tribe, speak their own language, a tongue which but one white man has mastered, and never permit their women to speak to white men.

Their history has a tinge of mystery and romance about it. Their fathers and grandfathers acted as scouts for Andrew Jackson, for Lee in the civil war and for Sam Houston when Texas won her independence from Mexico. It was Houston, whom they are said to have regarded as a great white chief, who induced the Texas legislature to give them two sections of land and advised them never to leave it or sell it. To this advice they have steadfastly adhered.

Pushed West by White Men. They came from east of the Mississippi before the Louisiana purchase in 1815, were friends of the French in Louisiana, and moved westward as the white men pushed them along until they finally settled in Texas. Poverty has been their lot in later days. Their homes are huts and their beds moss and straw. Their food is chiefly corn. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Chambers, Presbyterian missionaries, have lived with the tribe twenty-eight years.

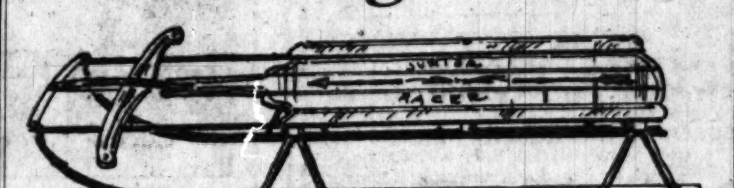

Shoes half soled, stitched or nailed. All materials and workmanship guaranteed. Work done by experts; while you wait or delivered. Any size shoe, 73c.

Smiles 'n' Laughter Chase Away Those Aging Wrinkles

The order in which wrinkles appear is first around the eyes, then around the mouth corners from the nostrils down, and then on the neck. With some women the order may be reversed and the neck may be the first to show the telltale lines. But, generally speaking, it is eyes first, mouth second, and neck third.

When the neck does wrinkle early posture more often than not is to blame. Letting the chin sag forward on the neck starts wrinkles.

But today I would call attention to those lines around the mouth corners and those that are commonly called "parenthesis" lines, which run from nostrils to mouth corners.

You don't often find these where an optimistic nature resides. They just don't grow on a face that has the habit of looking on the sunny side of things. And the same is more or less true about the lines closer to the mouth, although little breaks in the skin sometimes appear on the laughing mouth. But these are never unpleasant to look upon as the other lines are.

It is obvious, then, that in order to prevent these wrinkles the mental attitude may have to be done over. To cure them it must be trained to take disappointments easily and to let cynicism etch its lines upon a face other than yours. Whatever you let pull your spirits down, take it for granted, will pull the mouth down and wrinkles with it. While we can't avoid occasions of depression entirely, still we can save ourselves with a bit of will exertion from chronic "blues" and looking the part.

Then having resolved to save the face from these aging wrinkles by taking life a bit more lightly, we should concentrate certain massage

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Well Worth While.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have a girl who is two years younger than I. We have had a close friendship for four months."

"Lately we had an argument and broke up. It was her fault. The next day I got a letter from her acknowledging her mistake and asking me back, saying she liked me. Please advise if she is the right kind of girl."

On thinking matters over she realized she was in the wrong and willing to admit it, for which she deserves credit, don't you think? It takes courage to do a thing like that, and makes one feel she is quite worth while.

Movements about the mouth where the lines are becoming set. Dabbing your cream on the parts, pat with your finger tips, working in an upward movement and bestirring the circulation with the patting.

Always finish off with an astringent—alcohol or witch hazel, cold water, or ice.

Whistling and blowing are good exercises to practice for these mouth lines. But the real hope of rejuvenating the face or of preventing the need of strenuous measures to correct these wrinkles is in cultivating a sunnier attitude. The habit of smiling must be cultivated deliberately if it doesn't come naturally. For you can't be envious, or mean, catty, or grouchy, or given to indulging in moods, without ruining a pretty mouth.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

ESTHER C.: TOEING OUT strains the arches. It may be corrected by toeing in. If you turn on your ankles easily, it indicates weak ankles. The foot muscles may be strengthened by rising on the toes from twenty to forty times every morning and night. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for other exercises.

Satin Back Crepe Is Still Daytime Choice

by Corinne Lewis

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Fashion is speaking these days with a twisted utterance so far as girdles are concerned. One of the numerous minor touches that go so far to make the major value of a costume is found, in fact, in those numerous versions of the twisted girdle which Louiseboulanger has exploited so enthusiastically this year.

We find this detail forming one of the factors in the success of today's frock—a charming black satin back crepe cut on most original lines. And before we go any further let us remind you once more that black satin back crepe remains in the face of all competing materials the approved winter choice of the fashionable Parisienne. It is used nearly always on the lustrous side, with only incidental exploitation of the crepe surface.

In today's model we find the satin side used exclusively with the exception of inset bands of crepe upon the bodice. All of these bands are treated to fine hand tucking, and their contours are what you might expect from an age which prefers to look at a picture of an hysterical trombone than at one of a beautiful young woman. In other words, it is decidedly modernistic.

The cut of the skirt is exceptionally interesting. Indeed, in no other model have we encountered anything similar to that new type of overskirt cut at the left side and dipping way down on the other side. The twisted girdle is executed in the satin side of the material.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Three year old Lewis called mother after being in bed only a half hour. He said, "I'm done sleeping. I slept awfully fast."

L. F. H.

June, aged 5, had been corrected for using the pronoun "her" instead of "she."

After seeing the picture, "Ben Hur," she kept talking about "Ben She" being so strong, and we finally discovered that it was Ben Hur she was talking about. She was so careful to use "she" instead of "her" [Hur].

Cloth Coats for Misses
With Very Fine Furs

$95 $110 $145 $165

UNUSUAL price reductions may be the first-emphasized feature of this selling, but in every respect this sale presents a collection of all that is smart in the fashion of coats. Deep, shaggy furs on slender coats—black caracul on black broadcloth—beaver on brown or black, or even deep, rich-color fabrics.

In the $95 group—wolf is smart trimming, also skunk. The coat sketched at the left is representative of the youthful styling.

In the $145 group—beaver, caracul on many styles of coats. Sketched at the right.

In the $110 group—fitch, fox or wolf are some of the furs in this group. They are lavishly applied. Sketched at center, left.

At $165—beaver, caracul, fitch, badger are complemented in new fabrics. Center, right.

YOU AND YOUR CHILDREN

MacGladys Huntington
Average Child Needs Liberty, but Not License

Those of us who are interested in human relations—and how it is possible to live and ignore them—are repeatedly confronted with the matter of the practicability of utter freedom for children.

It is a word which has a fine ringing sound—freedom—and it's something we want for ourselves and our children, too. We realize it is impossible for us as grown-ups to be absolutely free, yet there are people who think they can bestow absolute freedom on their children. They figure that if their children can grow up free from restraint of any kind, free from the necessity to conform, they will go far physically and mentally, and develop an immense individuality.

A child who has been allowed to grow up in perfect freedom is not prepared to mix with his fellows, and that is the ultimate destiny of every baby that is born. Life, happy, useful life, is based on adjustment.

As an example, there is a boy who has been allowed his freedom for most of his life. He's a perfectly normal, well coordinated youngster but for three or four years he hasn't been to school. This school he didn't like the principal of; in another he didn't like the way the school was run and so on. Each school he has been allowed to leave. Then he intended to study at home, but no one urged it, so he doesn't. He has perfect freedom of hours and pursuits. But it is obvious to those interested in him that he is not being fitted for life.

Another boy for the first seven years of his life grew up in the country, utterly unrestrained in every way. Brought to the city and to school, he hadn't apparently the faintest inkling of how to live and play and study with other boys. He is a disorganizing influence to them. He brings them nothing and gets little himself because he is not adjusted to the world of his own contemporaries—physically or mentally.

Everything points to this—that the earlier we begin, wisely and with moderation, to train our children so that they are adjusted to living with people, the happier and healthier and more successful, in the true sense of the word, they will be.

Men Who 'Know All About Women Usually Know the Wrong Kind

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A current alibi among bachelors of a kind is: "I wouldn't marry any woman. They're all alike." Meaning, of course, that their level of decency is anything but inspirational.

When a man says that about women he's not doing the set any harm. He's simply revealing the nature of the company he seeks. And the old adage about man being known by the company he keeps holds perfectly true in his case, too.

Within a short time that remark has been passed by two male acquaintances—one a bachelor nearing 40, the other a man divorced for infidelity and non-support. The last named changed the statement slightly to read: "He wouldn't marry again."

Generalizations usually indicate a limited observation. Including all women in a single category indicates not only limited observation, but, as I say, the limited and faulty taste in friends of the speaker. If a psychologist were to analyze the speaker further he'd undoubtedly find that debased human weakness that would reduce to its own level all other individuals.

Such verdicts in women as being of a single type as always accompanied by a sweeping "I know them all" gesture. In the ordinary course of events, how many women does an average man get to know intimately, and well? In rare instances are any one's friends legion. One hundred women, we'll say, is a pretty generous allotment of friends or acquaintances of close enough intimacy to be studied first hand. In the sufficient number to damn a whole sex by, even though every one of the hundred were "all alike"?

It's a stupid statement and anything but the bright remark the smug expression that it is delivered with implies. It's more than stupid. It's a reflection of a man's mother, his sisters and all his woman kin.

There really isn't any point in becoming excited about it, because it emanates from one type of man only. We have already indicated that type. An old French Canadian cure used to ask of the young women about to wed: "What is your fiancé's attitude toward women in general?"

"If it is respectful," he'd say, "the man has a clean life."

The Woman in the Case

BY LOUIS TRACY

SYNOPSIS.
John Arden, returning to his rooms at the Palace hotel, London, in the early hours of morning, breaks his key in the lock and is given a room in a luxurious suite by the night watchman, who assures him that the rooms are unoccupied. He is about to retire when two women enter the apartment. One is addressed as Emme and the other as Mrs. Arden. Arden, who is the husband of the woman who has just been killed, is shocked to find that the woman who has just been killed is the woman who has just been killed.

INSTANT XXXVIII.
THE LETTER.
The three warriors in Arden's flat were indulging in a rubber of cut-throat auction as a sedative after the day's vicissitudes when Andy was called to the phone. He was grinning joyously when the others saw him again.

"A meeting of the committee in full quorum is convened here within minutes," he announced. "Not only is Furneaux coming, but he is bringing the chief. It seems that Mr. Winter wants to make the acquaintance of our noble selves, and he has a few hours now."

Arden said nothing. He had not described the chief, so his two friends were not prepared for the size of the man with whom they shook hands for the first time a little later. Mrs. O'Callaghan was out. She had gone to see daughter in North London, so Andy opened the door.

"I happened to see you, sir, about three hours ago in the Park Palace," he began.

"O. I knew," smiled the chief, genially. "I admired your strategy when you entered the smoking room, so took care to speak with syllabic exactness De Braganza and I passed. You deserved that, at any rate."

"Did you actually recognize me?" said the surprised Arden.

"Well, Furneaux is pretty good at a verbal description, but what made me certain was your first venomous glance at my companion. Then, again, you slightly overdid the stage business with the newspaper. But I must give you full marks for retrieving the cablegram. Of course you all imagine it referred to the bogus marriage certificate. It did not. De Braganza has that in a dispatch case. It has been photographed, and we shall have prints in the morning. The certificate he is in need of now is that which records the marriage of the Hon. William Denison Bernice and Elizabeth Maynard, British subjects, both of Buenos Aires. The lady gives her birthplace as Ayton Parva in the county of Yorkshire. Ayton Parva is a hamlet about a mile away from Higher Yanton."

Arden's eyes sparkled. He felt that a new vista was opening up rapidly.

"Great Scott!" he cried. "The butler, Eshman, may have known her."

"If he knew what the butler knows the Farndale mystery would be an open book," said Furneaux.

"All in good time," commented the chief. "The man who conducts the intelligence branch of the Buenos Aires police is on his job. He has cabled us for more information than we expected, and there is a lot more to come. Meanwhile, Mr. Arden, are you aware that I give a sort of grudging permission to De Braganza to fly to Paris tomorrow? Has he ever seen you?"

Arden explained the lift incident after his visit to Mrs. Sinclair.

"De Braganza has engaged a seat in a plane leaving the Croydon aerodrome at 11 tomorrow morning. I have provisionally reserved a place for you in a faster machine which starts half an hour later. If you go, you will be in Paris at least fifteen minutes before him. Do you care to try your hand at a piece of real detective work? See what he's up to, in fact? Of course, we can get it done professionally, but you know much about this case that will be peculiarly useful if you are able to recognize some of his French or Argentine associates should they turn up here. Will you do it?"

"Why, of course. I only hope I shall not fail you."

"Never mind that. We all have our failures."

"Some more than others," put in Furneaux.

"The truth is," went on the big man, looking at Furneaux, but looking at him with three pairs of watchful eyes. "Miss Arden may be in a position of some danger, and the best way to safeguard her is to keep in touch with her possible enemies. I have selected you, Mr. Arden, for this Paris trip because you are personally unknown to De Braganza. Your friends may stand fast, in case the young lady appears for the sort of dramatic which we of the 'Yard' can render officially. If you have assistance in Paris apply first to our consulate. It will be warned of your presence, but we can clear it up unless you find some absolutely necessary. If by Braganza flies back the day after tomorrow you can travel by the afternoon train, wiring your movements to Mr. Burke. You have a passport, I suppose?"

"Yes, and it has a French visa, too."

"Then the matter arranges itself perfectly."

"That sounds far better in French, chief," put in Furneaux.

SKEEZIX, YOU LOOK ALL MUSSLED UP. HAVE YOU BEEN FIGHTING AGAIN?

I HAD TO, UNCA WALT.

THAT IS NO WAY TO DO. YOU MUST TRY TO GET ALONG WITH THE BOYS YOU PLAY WITH.

I GET ALONG BUT MICKEY DON'T GET ALONG WITH ME.

HAVEN'T I TOLD YOU TO COUNT TEN BEFORE YOU STRIKE ANYBODY?

THAT'S HOW I GOT THIS BLACK EYE—COUNTIN' TEN.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

THE QUESTION.

Should Hickman's punishment be life imprisonment or death?

WHERE ASKED.

Federal building.

THE ANSWERS.

Nathan Ransley, 1049 Catalpa avenue, clothing salesman.

Life at hard labor of some kind, with long hours. That would be a long, tough punishment. Death would be too easy. If it's death, I would like to be the executioner, except that I might treat him too rough. One thing sure, he wouldn't have a chance later to go free.

Mrs. Alice Tugel, Forest Park, Ill., stenographer—Death.

What they should do is to treat him in the same manner that he treated his poor little victim. He should be made to suffer. Make of him an example which would not be forgotten.

Hanging is too easy, altogether too good for him.

John Shukis, 6718 Chapel avenue, bookkeeper.

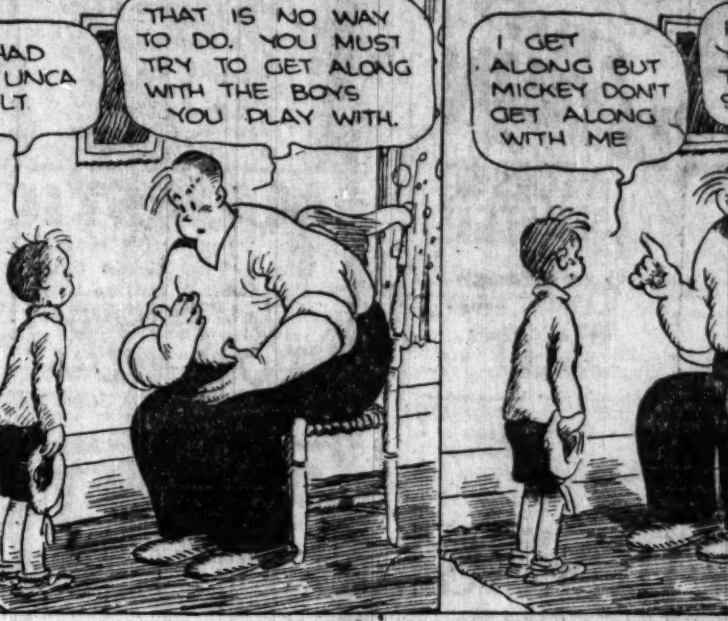

Bookkeeper. I would sooner have him put to death. Loeb and Leopold got off too easy. If they continue to give these fellows life sentences the younger generation will take advantage of it. I believe prohibition is partly responsible for these crimes. The poison they drink poisons their minds.

Miss Marjorie Glass, 8034 Prairie avenue, clerk—Death.

All criminals ought to be gathered on some uninhabited island and shot themselves out of guns. Things have gotten to such a state that the old laws of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth are no longer sufficient. The punishment handed out to them.

Leonard F. Haas, 6185 South Fairfield avenue, automobile adjuster—The young man is too good for that bird. Give him a slow death. In stead of working honestly to go through college as many others do he wanted to get easy money regardless of consequences to the other fellow. The other fellow's victim should now have their revenge.

OUR SECRET AMBITION

He saw no reason why he should not hail her as "Dearest One."

"Well, Furneaux is pretty good at a verbal description, but what made me certain was your first venomous glance at my companion. Then, again, you slightly overdid the stage business with the newspaper. But I must give you full marks for retrieving the cablegram. Of course you all imagine it referred to the bogus marriage certificate. It did not. De Braganza has that in a dispatch case. It has been photographed, and we shall have prints in the morning. The certificate he is in need of now is that which records the marriage of the Hon. William Denison Bernice and Elizabeth Maynard, British subjects, both of Buenos Aires. The lady gives her birthplace as Ayton Parva in the county of Yorkshire. Ayton Parva is a hamlet about a mile away from Higher Yanton."

Arden's eyes sparkled. He felt that a new vista was opening up rapidly.

"Great Scott!" he cried. "The butler, Eshman, may have known her."

"If he knew what the butler knows the Farndale mystery would be an open book," said Furneaux.

"All in good time," commented the chief. "The man who conducts the intelligence branch of the Buenos Aires police is on his job. He has cabled us for more information than we expected, and there is a lot more to come. Meanwhile, Mr. Arden, are you aware that I give a sort of grudging permission to De Braganza to fly to Paris tomorrow? Has he ever seen you?"

Arden explained the lift incident after his visit to Mrs. Sinclair.

"De Braganza has engaged a seat in a plane leaving the Croydon aerodrome at 11 tomorrow morning. I have provisionally reserved a place for you in a faster machine which starts half an hour later. If you go, you will be in Paris at least fifteen minutes before him. Do you care to try your hand at a piece of real detective work? See what he's up to, in fact? Of course, we can get it done professionally, but you know much about this case that will be peculiarly useful if you are able to recognize some of his French or Argentine associates should they turn up here. Will you do it?"

"Why, of course. I only hope I shall not fail you."

"Never mind that. We all have our failures."

"Some more than others," put in Furneaux.

"The truth is," went on the big man, looking at Furneaux, but looking at him with three pairs of watchful eyes. "Miss Arden may be in a position of some danger, and the best way to safeguard her is to keep in touch with her possible enemies. I have selected you, Mr. Arden, for this Paris trip because you are personally unknown to De Braganza. Your friends may stand fast, in case the young lady appears for the sort of dramatic which we of the 'Yard' can render officially. If you have assistance in Paris apply first to our consulate. It will be warned of your presence, but we can clear it up unless you find some absolutely necessary. Proving Death May in Fact Be the Beginning

"Opening Night" Strange, Simple, Tragic Tale.

THE OPENING NIGHT.

Produced by Columbia. Directed by E. H. Griffith. Presented at the Biolo theater.

Robert Chandler.....E. Alyn Warren
Carol Chandler.....Claire Windsor
Jimmy Kane.....John Bowers
Gertrude Ames.....Grace Goodall
Aaron Hinkle.....Bobby Mack Fisherman.....William Welch

By Mae Tinee.
Good morning!

This is a picture that deals with F.A.T.E. A strange, and story simply told and excellently acted. Especially excellently acted by the man on whom the blighting hand of the fickle dame is laid.

The idea of the tale, which is Albert Payson Terhune's, was, got no doubt, from the sinking of the Lusitania and Charles Frohman's reported last words about death being "the great adventure," for the hero is a theatrical producer, and during a catastrophe at sea in which he is believed to be lost, he says, "Death is not the end—it is the beginning."

He, Robert Chandler, is married to a beautiful actress and the two have a darling little girl. The wife's leading man is the devoted friend of the family.

It becomes necessary for the able, homely little producer to go to London to supervise an opening. Accompanied by the authors of the play, who must also be present, he starts. Disaster attends the ship and when the storm is over the gallant chap who had been so fond of it is no more. It is an entirely different human who is cast up on the shores of Sable island and who, in time, returns to New York.

It is unusual to see just such a man as Mr. Warren in a starring role. Unusual, and in the present instance gratifying, for he does some splendid work and makes the yarn ring true. John Bowers is nice as the friend and John Windsor, qualified as the wife. Supporting parts are all well handled and the film has been thoughtfully staged and directed.

His visit to England was made for the opening of the church's eastern hemisphere headquarters in London.

"French Dressing" Is a Smart, Smooth Comedy

Produced by Paramount. Directed by Allan Dwan. Presented at the Oriental theater.

Philip Gray.....H. B. Warner
Ombria.....Lila Wilson
Bert de Witte.....Clive Brook
Peggy Nash.....Lilyan Tashman

A bright, sophisticated, gorgeously dressed comedy drama is the story of a man who is a Parisian and who is a Frenchman.

You're a good old fellow," a gay friend says to her, prim friend. "but you need some French dressing."

(Which explains the title.)
You find Lila Wilson as one of those wives whose agonizedly perfect house-keeping makes home a cold and cheerless place for husbands. Husband in the present instance being rather clamorously impersonated by H. B. Warner, who may have "H," but I can't see it.

Along comes Peggy Nash (Lilyan Tashman) to visit, and her advent has all the consequences of a cyclone. Cynthia (Lila) leaves her husband and flies to Paris to get a divorce.

To be promptly followed by Peggy, who loves her old school chum and had meant a thing in the world by the impulsive kiss that had been the start of the storm.

She says the "French Dressing" line and proceeds to make Cynthia the sort of wife she knows Philip would never consider being divorced from. AND succeeds—assisted efficiently by a Henri de Brac who, in the person of Clive Brook, enters interestingly into the scheme of things.

The picture is smartly put over by the able cast. Lila Wilson as Cynthia, when she comes to, never looked prettier and Lilyan Tashman has the sort of role she knows how to deliver with a wallop.

You'll be pleasantly entertained by "French Dressing." See you tomorrow!

Tribune Gives Annual Party for Employees

1,200 Attend Reception in Newspaper Plant.

Twelve hundred Tribune employees, members of their families and friends, gathered at the Tribune newspaper plant for the annual New Year's reception to their workers. This year the reception was held in the auditorium of the Tribune plant, where the employees of the newspaper were gathered for the reception.

The Tribune employees, on entering the lobby of the Tribune tower, were greeted by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor, and Mrs. McCormick. Assisting the editor and his wife were Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Beck, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Macfarlane, W. Holmes O'Conor, Mr. and Mrs. William Donaghey, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Antrim, and Mr. and Mrs. John Park.

A five piece orchestra furnished music for employees dancing on an impromptu floor built in the center of the reception room.

During the afternoon the entire plant was thrown open to the inspection of those attending and hundreds looked over the mechanical units used in the production of the 135,850 Tribunes sent daily to readers.

Informal receptions in their own departments were held by the heads of the editorial, auditing, circulation, business, advertising, press, engraving, composing, stereotyping, and photographic departments.

The Eastern brothers, radio stars from W-G-N, were introduced by Bill Hay, the announcer, and they did an act for the entertainment of the guests.

"All classes of Tribune employees become better acquainted at the annual New Year's reception," asserted William Whalen, secretary of the Employees' Association. "In this way the reception becomes sort of family reunion."

Leonard F. Haas, 6185 South Fairfield avenue, automobile adjuster—The young man is too good for that bird. Give him a slow death. In stead of working honestly to go through college as many others do he wanted to get easy money regardless of consequences to the other fellow. The other fellow's victim should now have their revenge.

'The Bat,' Sung in English, Is Lively Opera

Amusing Situations Put Over in Amusing Way.

BY EDWARD MOORE.
By ushering in this year of grace with a performance of "The Bat" in English, the Ciovia Opera company did two things of value. It greatly diversified a capacity audience, and it demonstrated a whole group of points that will have bearing on future operations of a like kind.

The first demonstration was that a half century or so ago Johann Strauss wrote an amazingly good light opera score that still has the charm of youth. Another is that Melinae and Halevy did not have the same luck with their book. Here sprightliness is beginning to get a bit stiff around the joints, dimples are starting to disappear into wrinkles.

But the most important part was that amusing situations can be translated and projected in an amusing way, though several of the projects are more used to singing in a foreign language than speaking English here. The translation was not always a faithful reproduction of the original, but it kept the logic of being amusing. This was the triumph of the evening.

It was not surprising that when Rosa Raisa, Irene Pavioka, Charles Hackett, Forrest Lainton, Jose Melicia, Giacomo Rimini, Chase Baromeo, and the rest sang the Strauss tunes, their voices put an extra and grand opera luster thereon. One of the great hits of the evening, however, was made by Virgilio Lazzari, who did not sing at all. As Froeh, the turnkey, he was a stupendous giant of low comedy. Not only did he transcend his lines, he was immensely funny, no matter what his lines.

It was also worth the price of admission to hear Miss Raisa avow her passion for tenor, or to watch Miss Pavioka's expert dealings with the soprano part of Adele. And for extra glamour, there was interpolations. Toti Dal Monte stopped the show by singing Benedetti's "Carnival of Venice" variations, and the ballet favored with a scene danced to the "Blue Danube" waltz.

The whole piece needs speeding up. In spite of Conductor Henry G. Weber's best efforts the orchestra reined in a state of innocence as to the rhythmic accent of Viennese dance music, and he himself hardly came up to its inspiring pace. Miss Pavioka and Mr. Lazzari maintained a correct speed on the dialogue, as did Mr. Lainton; the others were likely to be somewhat too leisurely for comic tempo.

But it was as good looking a cast as ever appeared in this opera; one took joy in the manner with which they were evening clothes. Subject to the ease of a few more performances and a little quickening of pace "The Bat" was a cheery and stimulating experience. This department hopes to see it and others of the same kind many times repeated.

"Sisters," "Venus," "L'Allegro," "Los Angeles," "The Banishes," and "The Centuries" were all thrown into the Hudson late Saturday night after brief exhibitions in New York.

"The Centuries" was merely something put on by an up-an-alley "group," although it had Otto Kahn's financial encouragement; but the others were on the level—artists at guessing right by seasoned men of the theater.

Penn State Chemistry Dean Goes to Battelle Institute

State College, Pa., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Dr. Gerald Wendt, dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics at Pennsylvania State college since 1924, announced today that he had accepted the post as director of the newly organized Battelle Memorial Institute for scientific and industrial research at Columbus, O. He will remain here until June 30.

Dr. Wendt is known for his researches on the chemical action of radium rays.

Youthful love that touched the heights and hit the depths

WE ARE PROUD OF THIS ACHIEVEMENT!

Over 700,000 people, almost one-fourth the population of Chicago, attended the Balaban & Katz Theaters last week.

Over 700,000 men, women and children, an attendance greater than the population of San Francisco, Buffalo, Washington, D. C., or Milwaukee attested by their presence the undisputed supremacy of Balaban & Katz entertainment and the pre-eminence of Balaban & Katz Theaters.

We are sincerely proud of this overwhelming appreciation of our efforts. We also accept this as a vote of confidence—a trust which we can hold only by continuing to give Chicago entertainment that is progressively the best.

1928 is fraught with promising things. Our many years of experience as well as our national affiliation with Publix Theatres enables us to assure our vast army of friends a character of entertainment that will lead the world in the future as unmistakably as it has in the past and which will surpass even our own record of 1927.

We appreciate with profound gratitude Chicago's confidence and generous co-operation, and it will be our aim at all times to continue to merit this approval.

Cook County made Millions HEALTHIER and HAPPIER in 1927

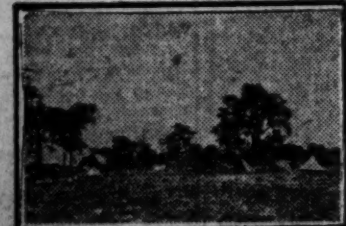

Oak Forest Infirmary, which cares for 4,500 aged, infirm and tubercular patients.

The Cook County Agents' office, which administers to 5,000 families or 50,000 persons annually.

County Highway Police Station, where highway cases are tried.

One of the camping sites in the Forest Preserves, where 15,000,000 visit annually.

One of the Beauty Spots in the Forest Preserves.

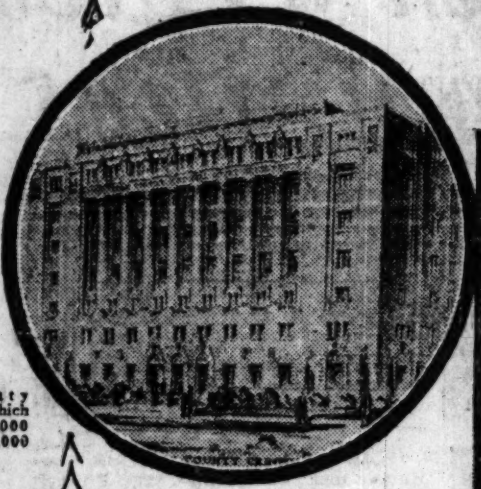

Manual Training Department, Cook County School for Boys.

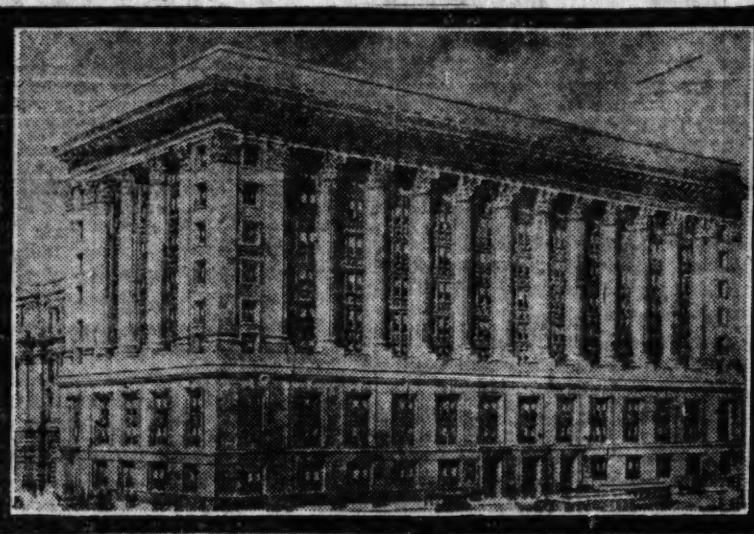

Kiddie's School Room at Juvenile Detention Home.

What the County Board Administers

The Cook County Hospital—the greatest charitable hospital in the world.
The Oak Forest Institutions, an infirmary and tuberculosis hospital that has gained American and European recognition.
The Juvenile Court and Detention Home—the most modern institution of its kind in America, where the delinquent and dependent child is cared for. The County Agent's Department—the charitable department of the county through which the needs of the poor and the unfortunate are administered to, to the extent of $50,000 annually.
The County Building, which houses the courts, county records, and the law library of the county.
The Chicago and Cook County School for Boys, where boys are sent by the courts.
The County Highway Department, which directs the building of all county highways.

New $7,500,000 Criminal Courts and County Jail buildings nearing completion.

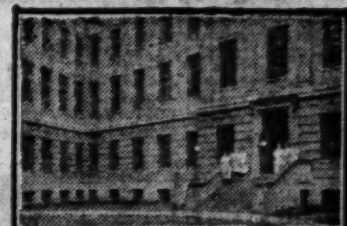

Juvenile Courts building with which 20,000 youngsters come in contact annually.

The Cook County Hospital, where 117,000 apply annually for medical aid.

The Juvenile Detention Home, where delinquent and dependent children are held pending disposition of their cases.

Camp Reinberg, where pension mothers and children are given summer outings by county.

The Cook County Highway Department working on a $15,000,000 highway program.

Drug Store at County Hospital, where drugs are supplied free of charge.

Cook County Hospital, Children's School Room, where education continues during illness.

Visiting Nurses of the Cook County Health Department visit rural communities.

THE work done by the Cook County Board of Commissioners in 1927 has been directed toward every community in the county and it has been possible to continue the fine record of achievement which this board has maintained in recent years.

Inauguration of many innovations, in the matters of highway building, medical treatment, dental care of rural children, visiting-nurse observation of rural schools, cattle testing, water testing, extension of the Mothers' Pension list, extension of service to disabled veterans, and improvements in the County Hospital, Oak Forest Institutions, Juvenile Detention Home, Chicago and Cook County School for Boys and the County Welfare Department, has made 1927 a banner year in County operations.

The new Civic Auditorium, which will cost $15,000,000, is an outstanding achievement in County operation; the $15,000,000 wider highway program authorized by the voters will enable the board to make Cook County a mecca for automobile drivers. The new $7,500,000 County Jail and Criminal Courts building is nearing completion; the new additions to the County Hospital are about complete and the improvement of the Forest Preserve District, including the proposed 600-foot "Forest Way" drive which will connect all Forest Preserves, is an outstanding achievement.

While this work was being done in 1927, more than 117,000 persons applied for aid at the County Hospital, 4,500 were cared for at the Oak Forest Institutions daily; 50,000 were given food, fuel, housing and wearing apparel by the County Agent's office; 20,000 boys and girls passed through the Juvenile Court and Detention Home, a large number of boys were cared for at the Chicago and Cook County School for Boys and thousands of dependent children were placed in private homes at the expense of the county. The waiting list of Mother Pension cases was practically eliminated by additional revenue.

Unofficial records show that 15,000,000 persons visited the Forest Preserves in 1927.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS

In an effort to save money for you and the Forest Preserve District of Cook County, we respectfully urge that if your property is in the line of extension of the District, that you submit same to the real estate department of the Forest Preserve District at once, thus saving the expense and inconvenience which attends condemnation proceedings.

The Forest Preserve Commission of Cook County
ANTON J. CERMAK, Pres.

What the Cook County Board Is Doing

Increased Mothers' pensions $200,000 a year.
Established Dental Clinic for Cook Co. children.
Working on new $15,000,000 Civic Auditorium.
Working on $15,000,000 highway bond program.
Working on new Zoological Gardens.
Extending service of County Hospital, Oak Forest Institutions, Cook County Health Department, County Nursing Service, thereby increasing health conditions throughout county. Constructing new Children's Hospital—an addition to County Hospital.
Constructing new County Jail and Criminal Court building.
Appropriated $150,000 to place dependent children in private homes rather than orphanages.
Dissolved deficit of $2,020,000 and put Cook County on a paid-up basis for 1927.

McCormick Drive, the last word in traffic demands. A contract has been let for 600 lights of 1,000 candle power, which will make this drive one of the most beautifully lighted drives in America.

Aerial view Northside Sewage Treatment Plant. When completed will serve 800,000 from Fullerton Avenue North to County Line and will have cost approximately $29,000,000.

Calumet Sewage Treatment Works. This pumping station and Power Plant services all sewage originating north of Eighty-seventh Street.

The Des Plaines Sewage Treatment Plant which serves Riverside, Lynde, Stickney, La Grange, La Grange Park, Brookfield, North Riverside, Broadview, Western Springs and the Des Plaines Valley.

Typical Intercepting Sewer, miles of which have been built to convey sewage to treatment plants. This particular sewer is part of North Side project. The tubes are as large as the proposed subway tubes.

Site of the West Side Sewage Treatment Plant which will service 1,000,000 population. One of the links in the promised program of the Sanitary District.

The war on Mosquitoes has brought commodities from thousands upon thousands. This health fight is being won by the Sanitary District.

Removing mosquito breeding places along Des Plaines River. Clearing the channel and keeping the water of the river in motion, relieves thousands.

Another view of the Mosquito Abatement Trust.

Main Channel at Willow Springs showing barges hauling stone for commercial use. The thirty mile drainage canal stands as the main link in the Lake to the Gulf Deep Waterway.

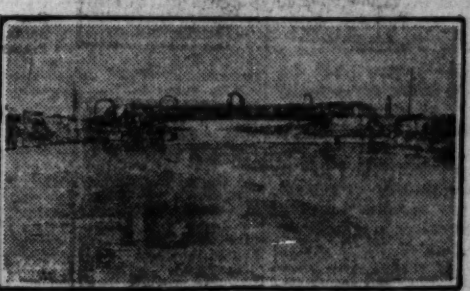

Aerial View of Drainage Canal locks, controlling dam and Power House at Lockport, Ill. This is an important cog in the Deep Waterway Wheel. Power generated here is furnished Chicago's park and street systems at cost.

Northside Sewage Treatment Works, with pumping unit and blower house, which has a capacity of 400,000,000 gallons of raw sewage daily.

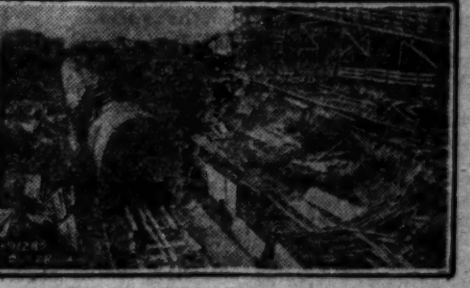

Sprinkling Filter unit of Calumet Treatment Plant. This plant serves as a trial ground for the evolution of improved methods of sewage treatment.

The Cicero Avenue Bridge opening up new industrial centers and making connections between west and south-west sides of the city. Part of the Road and Bridge Program.

Huge Pumps of the Calumet Pumping Station. They lift sewage from intercepting system and forward it on its way to Calumet Treatment Plant.

"BUBBLING CREEK" is only a casual remedy, due to service rendered southwest citizens by construction of $3,000,000 sewer conduit at Thirty-Ninth Street.

THE people of Illinois in recent years have come to know more thoroughly the work of the great Sanitary District of Chicago. Particularly so, because of the tremendous legal battle that has been waged by this body of elected officials, who found those whom they represented face to face with a curtailment of water flow through the Sanitary District Canal.

The reduction in flow of the water through the Sanitary District was a threatened tragedy to Chicago, its suburbs and other communities along the canal, because at times it would cause the backing up of the Chicago River into Lake Michigan, causing sewage to be mixed with the drinking water supply and thus causing irreparable damage by disease and sickness.

It was a vital situation for Illinois when a Supreme Court decree determined upon 4,167 cubic feet of water a second as the maximum flow of the canal when from 8,500 cubic feet to 10,000 cubic feet are necessary to protect the 3,500,000 persons affected.

Outside states opposed this district in this great battle, declaring that the flow of water through the canal was causing a lowering of lake levels in the Great Lakes and impairing navigation.

There was only one way, that the lives and health of this great number of persons could be protected—the accomplishment of what the government called an impossible task, that of constructing an artificial system of sewage treatment which would serve a human population of 1,200,000 by 1920.

TODAY THE SANITARY DISTRICT IS COMFORTABLY IN ADVANCE OF THE PERMIT SPECIFICATIONS ON WHICH THE GOVERNMENT PREDICATED ITS PERMIT OF 8,500 cubic feet per second.

The Sanitary District was a pioneer in artificial sewage disposal. It had foreseen the possibility of Chicago outgrowing the Sanitary canal.

It had spent $50,000,000 in practical application of its foresight and had two major units completed when the crisis came: THE CALUMET PLANT, handling all sewage originating south of 87th Street.

THE DES PLAINES PLANT, serving all the Des Plaines River Valley from the Speedway Hospital at Roosevelt Road to Mahoning Park. It plunged into a $116,000,000 program. It rushed operations on the North Side plant, the largest of its kind in the world, costing $29,000,000. This project will be completed in 1928, and will serve an area of 62 square miles.

A site purchased for the West Side Plant at Stickney, Illinois, was the next action and contracts have been awarded amounting to $13,000,000. When this $41,000,000 project is completed it will serve an area of 87 square miles in the central section of the Sanitary District.

UNDERGROUND CONSTRUCTION

The invisible construction of the Sanitary District is perhaps its most important construction—it consists of miles and miles of costly sewers which form an underground network and is essential to the Sanitary District System.

While residents within the boundaries of the Sanitary District go about their daily duties, many are unaware that an army of geologists and engineers are working underground building tunnels through which two ordinary railway coaches could easily move abreast.

It is through these tunnels that the waste of this great metropolitan area is carried to disposal plants, thus protecting the health of 3,500,000 citizens.

The cost of this great health operation runs into immense figures. The North Side construction of sewers amounts to $14,000,000. The proposed West Side Unit will cost approximately $22,000,000.

SALT CREEK SEWER

In November, 1927, the Sanitary District inaugurated construction on the Salt Creek Intercepting Sewer, which will remove sewage pollution from Salt Creek and the Des Plaines

ITS RECORD

It has fought foreign propaganda to maintain the flow through the Drainage Canal to prevent pestilence and disease which would threaten 3,500,000 persons.

It has replaced disease-spreading compounds with sanitary sewers.

It has waged a relentless war on disease-spreading mosquitoes in the Des Plaines and Salt Creek Valleys and in the Valley of the Shobe.

It has aided navigation in the streams of Illinois.

It has created the most important link in the Lakes to the Gulf Deep Waterway.

It distributes electrical energy at cost to Chicago park systems and streets in the area of the district.

It has pledged itself and is ahead of its program to meet the government's demand for sewage disposal by artificial means for the Chicago Metropolitan Area.

It handles the sewage disposal of Chicago and vicinity.

It aids neighboring communities and industrial centers by its road and bridge building program.

River and permanently solve the drainage questions of LaGrange, LaGrange Park, Brookfield, North Riverside, Riverside, Lyons, Stickney, Broadview and Western Springs.

BUBBLY CREEK GONE FOREVER!

One of the outstanding sewer construction projects on record in the United States has removed the famous and infamous "Bubbling Creek," a cesspool which annoyed Southwest Siders for many years.

The construction of the Thirty-Ninth Street Conduit extension between Halsted street and Racine Avenue has added materially in removing the obnoxious slip which carried the waste of the packing houses down its course and often imperiled lives and property when its surface took fire. This sewer and its filling will serve eventually for the extension of the Parkland Road project.

To complete its contemplated program the Sanitary District proposes an artificial treatment plant—the Southwest Side plant to serve a population of 1,323,000. Much of the $37,000,000 cost of this project will go for sewers.

MCCORMICK ROAD

McCormick Road, built and maintained by the Sanitary District, will shortly be one of the best lighted boulevards in the country. It provides traffic connections with Chicago's northern suburbs and recently a contract was let for the installation of an ornamental lighting system, consisting of 600 lamps of 1,000 candle power each, which will glow on McCormick Drive from Devon Avenue to Railroad Avenue, Evanston.

BRIDGE PROGRAM

Two of four modern type bridges spanning the Drainage Canal have been completed. They provided greatly needed street traffic relief and have opened up new Chicago territory. The two bridges that have been completed are:

CICERO AVENUE BRIDGE

CALIFORNIA AVENUE BRIDGE

Another bridge well under way in construction is

CRAWFORD AVENUE BRIDGE

On this project the trustees averted a year's delay by voting to advance funds to property owners in condemnation suits involving the approaches to the bridge.

NEW PUMPING STATION

Contracts have been awarded for the new North Branch Sewage Pumping Station, at Lawrence Avenue and the North Shore channel. It will cost approximately $2,000,000. It will replace the present antiquated Lawrence Avenue steam unit and release valuable business property, remove a smoke nuisance and materially relieve flood conditions throughout Chicago's northern residential district adjacent to Lake Michigan.

MOSQUITO ABATEMENT

Residents of the suburban towns around the City of Chicago have felt a relief from the mosquito pest due to the relentless war which has been carried on by the Sanitary District against this winged pest, which carries disease from place to place.

Thousands of citizens have written the district thanking it for its interest in them and their homes, which in many cases had to be forsaken at certain times of the year because of mosquito pests in the past.

During the last year villages along the Des Plaines River found less annoyance than did the city of Chicago, which at no time is regarded as mosquito territory. This was due to the mosquito abatement policy adopted by the Sanitary District in 1927, backed up by appropriations to fight them with an expert force in the field. All breeding places were thoroughly treated with oil, while the Des Plaines River and Salt Creek were cleaned up. A regular inspection program was maintained and special aid given to communities where the situation was acute.

PLEDGE WILL BE KEPT

The pledge made by the Sanitary District to the Federal Government and backed up with a $1,000,000 bond is being kept and will be kept. Best evidence of this is that it is ahead of its program.

Each of the Sanitary District of Chicago is created by law is a body of nine trustees, selected by the people, who administer its affairs, with the good of every community in the district at heart, with the health of each of the 3,500,000 citizens a paramount issue, and with the idea ever uppermost in mind to do all possible to benefit those who make Chicago and this section the center of the world.

TRADE ENTERS 1928 DIVIDED OVER OUTLOOK

Favorable and Less Rosy Views Outlined.

The New York Times
BY ALEXANDER DANA NOYES

New York, Jan. 1.—[Special.]—At three successive year ends all recognized signs have pointed to unabated industrial expansion. The New Year forecast was warranted in assuming continuance of the movement, unless something definite was in sight to stop it. Favorable argument for the coming year was therefore based on facts, unfavorable argument on surmise and hypothesis. On this occasion the position is curiously reversed. Visible facts of the year and trend in trade are admittedly not favorable; consequently arguments for resumed expansion and activity on the recent scale must be grounded on supposition as to what will arrest the reactionary trend.

This has not prevented the predominance of hopeful forecasts for 1928, but it has developed an underlying cleavage of opinion, even in business circles. It lends itself particularly to summary of the opposing arguments.

The Favorable View.

Taking first the favorable view, there are its grounds of belief:
1. Abundant credit, easy money and prospect for continuance of both. Overriding gold reserves; increasing accumulation of capital, plainly reflected in the western market; unmistakable public confidence. Such a background has never failed to stimulate trade prosperity.
2. Undiminished consuming power of the American people. High wages and great efficiency of labor. Application of a scale never witnessed in history. Of improvements, inventions, cost saving and value enhancing processes. The smaller output of certain industries in the last half of 1927 is described in most reports as only a "moderate recession"; it is explainable by temporary influences.
3. Good harvests, whose money value in December was estimated by the department of agriculture at $655,000,000 greater than the value of the 1926 crops. The farming northwest for seven years a sore spot and the national organism, favored with a wheat crop never equaled since the war and only three times surpassed in history, is a crop which was actually marketed last autumn for double the money value of the crop of 1926.

Confidence in Stock Market.

4. A stock market which has expressed unbounded confidence. Decreased production and increased trade activity found no reflection on the stock exchange. Increasing dividends and bonuses to shareholders were considered as testifying to the real prosperity of production companies. Apprehension of a presidential election year has not been a topic of discussion.
5. Financial revival in Europe. British trade recovering rapidly from the disastrous labor struggle of 1926; good resumption in Italy; Germany's markets moving as confidently as her own. A wholly unexpected and wholly unprecedented display of financial and economic strength in France, where sale of foreign credits to the bank of France by captured French capital returning to its native country has equipped the bank with $1,000,000,000 foreign balances.

Other Side of Picture.

To this formidable array of influences on the one side, an equally striking, and under the circumstances even more particularly list of equally disturbing influences may be submitted:
1. Superabundant credit may be itself a danger. A matter of record, it has preceded every serious financial and industrial reversal of our history. Easy money does not of itself create prosperous trade. If it did, the reactionary trade conditions of 1927 would not have arisen. Overriding credit operated in last year's markets by increase of $20,000,000 in New York brokers' loans, while commercial and general loans of all private banks in the reserve system actually decreased during the year.
2. Whether American consuming power is undiminished or not, actual consumption certainly decreased in 1927. Whether the existing trade phenomena are or are not a "moderate recession" is a matter of terminology. Shrinkage of 13 per cent in railway traffic, to the smallest for the autumn season in six years, and a 16 per cent decrease in steel production, to the smallest in a similar stretch of time, would have been called severe reaction just long ago.

Point to Crop Values.

3. If the estimated money value of last year's crops was $635,000,000 above 1926 it was $520,000,000 below 1925 and $100,000,000 under 1924. Prices for wheat were not high last autumn, and the cotton planter complained that values for his crop were not enhanced in due proportion to the meanness of his crop; yet the sale of cotton in the country's exports heavily and caused curtailment of output at home mills.
4. The stock market of 1927 was in a state where it had ceased to foretell the future—which was proved by the fact that it continued to rise enthusiastically while the autumn trade reaction of 1927 was approaching. But the stock market has pointed wrong at other times when a far more serious reversal of trade prosperity was at hand. It advanced with the greatest violence in the early months of 1926 and in the late months of 1926. On both of these occasions it was moving under the influence of inflated credit and of financial liberalism. As for the presidential year, its deterrent effect on trade has traditionally begun to operate only when the actual campaign had started, but it has not often failed to influence the situation.

Europe's financial betterment is undeniable, but the assumption that immediate increasing activity in American trade is a necessary consequence is not warranted by recent experience.

If it were, then Europe's financial and industrial crisis of 1926 ought to have caused a setback in that year's American industry, and the European recovery in 1927 ought to have caused American trade expansion.

FARM AND GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGWAY

Vineyardists in the northern section of the lake grape belt who have trouble with the old standbys will be interested in the three new early grapes that have shown promise near Grand Rapids, Mich. They are known as the Ontario, Portland and Oregon. In a search for early maturing short growing season grapes many new varieties have been tested at the Grand Rapids Horticultural Experiment Station. The three varieties that have shown up the best were originated at the New York station. The Ontario grape produces attractive bunches and the vines are apparently hardy. The large, light green grapes are tinged with amber where they are exposed to the sun. The Portland grapes are also green in color, the vines are hardy, bunches are medium and above medium in size. While the Portland are even and of good quality, Wells does not rank them as high as the Ontario. They ripen along with the Ontario, from four to six weeks ahead of the Concord. The Oregon is also hardy. The bunches are rather small, but compact and attractive. The grapes are medium sized, black, covered with a heavy blue bloom, and the juice is sweet and of good quality. They mature a month before Concord.

not ripen satisfactorily far north of Grand Rapids, unless the season of the locality is particularly favorable. Some years the quality is not what it should be. Moore Early, Campbell Variety, and Diamond, all early maturing varieties, Wells finds may be grown a little farther north than Concord, but if the maturing season is cool the fruit is mediocre in quality. World's Largest Commodity Exchange

Back in 1856 the ugly little town of Chicago was just beginning to dig itself out of the mud. Big remote enterprises were going forward bravely. Remote settlements on the lakes and on the Mississippi awaited only the shriek of the locomotive to stir them to life and draw them into the Chicago trade.

Emigrants were pouring into the railroad lands, and wheat, corn and live stock were pouring into Chicago.

That year merchants rejoiced over the enormous grain receipts in Chicago—twenty-three million bushels.

Grain receipts in recent years have totaled approximately four hundred million bushels annually.

Organized in 1848 by a group of eighty-two leading merchants, the Board of Trade helped to transform Chicago from a retail to a wholesale town, the trade center between factories of the east and the farms of the northwest.

Gradually Chicago became the gateway to a garden sprawling out over a vast area, and a garden that produces a large portion of the world's foodstuffs.

And the Chicago Board of Trade, by reason of its ever-widening facilities, its economies in marketing, its fair and inflexible trade practices, became the international center of grain trade.

Today it is by far the largest commodity market in the world. Wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, cotton and provisions are traded in under a single roof. Prices represent the composite world opinion as to value, in a free, open, competitive market.

In this international exchange, a great artery through which the life blood of grain commerce is continually throbbing, foreign nations anticipate their future bread requirements months in advance. Millers, exporters, country elevator men and merchants insure their holdings by hedging in the broad, liquid futures market.

Three years ago the Board of Trade added cotton to its list of commodities in response to the needs of the southwest. Success of the cotton market is best shown by its growth, the volume of business this year being six times larger than last. Most of the year Chicago cotton prices have been higher than those of other exchanges because of Chicago's superior contract. This cotton market has forged a new commercial link between Chicago and the southwest.

Now comes the new Board of Trade building, a ten million dollar structure on a ten million dollar plot, a fitting home for the premier commodity market.

The Chicago Board of Trade, an international exchange, is first of all a Chicago institution.

Instruct your broker or agent to place orders for grain, cotton, and provisions on the Chicago Board of Trade where the markets are broad and liquid and where prices are determined by world supply and demand.

A NEW YEAR

WITH the close of our 75th year of business on December 31, 1927, we wish to thank you, our Merchant Customers, for your confidence and support through these many years.

Entering the New Year, our step is more brightly. Our lines of spring merchandise are ready. As manufacturers, importers and converters, we can assure the Merchants of this country that we are equipped to meet all requirements.

The lines shown by our representatives—and on display in Chicago, New York, and our other offices throughout the United States—comprise all the new ideas, all the latest styles, and the most attractive patterns. We solicit your patronage for the coming year.

We wish you a very happy and prosperous New Year.

RAWSON RATES 1927 UNEVEN, BUT "SATISFACTORY"

Justifies Optimism in 1928 Outlook.

BY FREDERICK H. RAWSON.

(Chairman, Union Trust Company.)

The year 1927 will be remembered by those who study the trends of business as a year of somewhat uneven, but nevertheless satisfactory, trade.

There has been a relatively large volume of business, an abundant supply of credit, more favorable agricultural conditions, greater efficiency in transportation, and low inventories.

The year was also characterized by large amounts of new construction, high prices, a high level of purchasing power, decreased production of steel and automobiles, overproduction of oil, and fair profits obtained with difficulty.

With such a preponderance of favorable factors business prospects in 1928 offer ample justification for optimism.

For the first six months of 1928, which is as far as I should care to predict, we have every reason to expect a continuance of the prosperity which this country has experienced in recent years. Business in 1927, although not at such high levels as those reached in 1926, was very satisfactory. The year might be summed up as a good year for the farmers, a fair year for the railroads, and a somewhat uneven year for industry and trade.

We are fortunate in having an extremely able administration, which is doing much to promote prosperity and well-being. Although 1928 will be a election year, I doubt that it will affect business to any great extent.

We may look for an efficiency in transportation during 1928 which will speed the turnover of all these great sums of capital which are constantly tied up in materials and goods in transit and in reserve stocks. Here is a factor of the most far-reaching importance, as in nearly every line it means more business on less investment, reduced overhead, smaller inventories, and a new standard of liquidity.

A year ago the greatest single source of business uncertainty was the plight of agriculture. Today it is evident that the constructive forces in the farming situation are in the ascendancy. Actual farm income is estimated at a billion dollars ahead of the previous year. Farmers and business men alike are gratified at the progress that has been made. Prices for agricultural products have increased materially in relation to the price level for nonagricultural products. The result is an approach to a basis making for fair exchange and broadened trade.

The year 1927 will go down as an economic annals as one of the most prosperous in our history. It did not end up to 1926, which was a year of national well-being, but it was a year of industrial completion in the way of industrial production.

But while the course of the year was somewhat uneven during the latter part, there was a year of agricultural production. Agriculture was a year to a plane of equilibrium with industry than in any other year in the history of the nation. Good crops and good prices, coupled with the fact that the price of manufactured goods had fallen to a level almost equal to the price of the farmer and the worker.

More Capital Available

Both at home and abroad, the year 1927 was a year of economic development. Government and large business organizations at lower rates of interest than in previous years paved the way for a new era of industrial expansion. The smaller demand on the income of people will be felt in the year ahead.

LEADERS OF INDUSTRY LOOK FOR CONTINUING PROSPERITY IN 1928

BUSINESS HAILS ANOTHER YEAR OF PROSPERITY

1927 Record Good, Review Shows.

BY O. A. MATHER.
(Finance Editor of The Tribune.)

The year 1927 will go down in American economic annals as one of general prosperity. It did not quite make up to 1926, which marked the flood tide of national well-being following completion of industrial readjustment from the drastic post-war deflation.

But while the course of trade and industry was somewhat uneven, particularly during the latter part of the year, there was one significant compensation. Agriculture attained more parity to a phase of equal prosperity with industry than in any year since the deflation period or since the world war. Good crops and good prices, in its main, compensated for the loss in price of manufactured commodities, almost equalled the purchasing power of the farmer and the industrial worker.

More Capital Available.
Both at home and abroad economic and political developments made progress last year. Economies in federal government and large refunding of war obligations at lower interest rates paved the way for a further reduction in federal taxes. The full force of the smaller demands of government on the income of the American people will be felt in the new year. There will be more capital available for productive effort, as well as for speculation.

The calm that has attended our relations with the rest of the world is attested by our prosperous foreign trade. The great volume of our export trade is evidence of the excellence of American manufactures and the appreciation of them in other lands. At the same time, vast exports of capital in the way of loans to foreign government divisions and private corporations and industries has enabled us to carry further its economic and financial recovery.

Prosperity With Prudence.
The year 1928 opens with the general prospect that last year's prosperity will be maintained. The consensus of opinion and business men might be interpreted concisely as follows: "Prosperity, with prudence." For the first half of the year trade bids fair to be better than during the last half of 1927. The second half of this year will depend considerably on the harvest and to a lesser extent on developments in national politics.

The nomination and election of a president to succeed Calvin Coolidge may cause some hesitancy in business. But generally there is the expectation of a safe and sane new administration in Washington, with continued government economy, reduction of taxes or public debt, and few proposals for disturbing and radical legislation. In fact, most financiers believe this "presidential year" will have less effect than usual.

Farm Aids Pressure Eases.
The pressure for economic relief for agriculture through legislation is less than that of a year or two ago, due to the improved situation of the farmer and cotton grower. There will be legislative proposals probably again running the range of cooperative marketing and regulation of crops by voluntary organizations to government price fixing by purchases of surpluses. Proposals to aid agriculture may figure in the platform of presidential candidates and party platforms, but these are not likely to be as disturbing as measures offered in congress a year or two ago. Furthermore, granted continuation of the present situation of the farmer, with the possibility that it may further improve, radical proposals are not expected to exert as much political influence in the selection of a new administration.

There are many reasons for expecting prosperity to continue. While there has been industrial slackening in the last few months, it has been little more than seasonal and there is no serious unemployment problem. The country is virtually free from labor disputes, and living costs are virtually stabilized. About the only prospect for a labor dispute appears in the coal mining industry in the middle west.

Buying Power High.
The purchasing power of the whole American people continues high. There is likely to be little change in the situation of the industrial worker and increased buying by the farmer. The large income received by agriculture last year enabled the liquidation of old debt incurred during the period of inflated land values and speculation. Therefore the farmer will have more free income. He also will be more willing to spend in view of the better relation of price of his products to those of the commodities he wishes to buy.

But with the satisfaction over last year's business and confidence in the new future, there is no disposition to depart from conservatism. Even with good business, inflation is being guarded against. Neither manufacturers nor merchants are expanding inventories unduly. Efficient manufacturing and transportation have made it unnecessary for merchants to anticipate more than reasonable future needs. Both production and forward sales are being held closely to actual needs.

Prices and Competition.
There is small prospect for any inflation in commodity prices. Keen competition in manufacturing and merchandising will tend to keep prices down, while at the same time profits will depend even more on greater efficiency in production and distribution. There is money rates, which was one of the features of last year's record, should continue and should aid productive effort by affording a low charge on capital. It was notable last year that abnormally low money rates produced no inflation, unless it was in security prices, which is a debatable point.

The forerunners of business depression—falling prices, increasing costs,

George M. Reynolds, Banker, Sees Business on Sound Basis

BY GEORGE M. REYNOLDS.
(Chairman, Continental National Bank and Trust Company.)

A favorable indication as to the immediate future of business is to be found in numerous reports of a comparatively small stock of goods in the hands of the dealers. Manufacturers say they do not have burdensome accumulations of raw or finished products.

According to information coming from reliable sources, trade has, for some months, been slightly less than last year. There are, however, exceptions, as in the mail order houses and chain stores. The great steel and iron industry has been operating on reduced schedules and the automobile output has been curtailed. Both steel and automobile makers express the belief that improvement is indicated.

Construction Going Ahead.
Farmers have not been heavy buyers of machinery or machinery during the last several years. Their crops did not warrant much more than the most frugal expenditures. Now it is different. The yields have not been particularly large, but prices for agricultural products are good. The dollar return will be very satisfactory. There is no complaint about the labor efficiency, excessive inventories, a marked decrease in the number of business failures, credit stringency, and a tight money market—these are conspicuously absent on the present horizon and until such signs appear there need be no fear of a severe depression.

Auto Trade Prospects.
It should not be overlooked that in one important division American industry faces the new year with a better prospect than last year. This fact is the return to production of the Ford Motor company, which until last year was the largest individual producer of automobiles. The great Ford organization was virtually idle for the greater part of 1927 while a new car was being planned. Although other motor car concerns partly made up the shortage for what would have been normal Ford production, it is certain that many prospective buyers withheld purchasing pending announcement of the new Ford car.

This backed-up demand is expected to give decided impetus to the automobile industry this year. Such activity would speed up the pace of business in general, for motor car output ranks first in wholesale value among American industries. It consumes 15 per cent of finished rolled steel, 50 per cent of all plate glass produced, 63 per cent of upholstery leather, 34 per cent of rubber, 25 per cent of aluminum, 28 per cent of nickel, and also vast quantities of lumber, upholstery fabrics, paint and varnish, and other materials.

Living Standard High.
Returning to a retrospect of 1927, the indices of trade show that the American people maintained a high plane of living. Relatively low commodity prices and maintenance of high wages kept purchasing power high. Commodity prices continued to decline during the first half of the year and then recovered. But the average for the whole year was below 1926.

Industrial production last year was only slightly lower, perhaps not more than 2 per cent below 1926. The movement of commodities by the railroads, measured by car loadings, declined 2 or 3 per cent below 1926, but bank clearings for the country were 4 or 5 per cent higher. Wholesale and retail trade also show some discrepancies. Reports on retail trade indicate a volume last year that ran almost level with 1926. But wholesale trade was less active, declining about 2 1/2 per cent. The discrepancy probably was accounted for by the greatly expanding business of the big chain store systems and mail order houses.

The latter part of 1927 brought a considerable slackening in the iron and steel industry. Pig iron production ran about 7 per cent below 1926 and finished steel production declined commensurably. The last month, however, has brought signs of a revival in steel production and larger bookings for delivery in the early part of this year.

Building construction held up remarkably well to the high mark of 1926. Our international commerce was excellent last year. Exports were the greatest in value in seven years, or since the end of inflated price levels in 1920. Imports were smaller than in 1926 but even then were the largest since 1920. Our favorable balance of trade last year was nearly twice as large as for 1926.

Improvement in conditions in Europe was the chief cause of our better foreign commerce. In addition to a trade revival, most of the European countries have stabilized their currencies on a gold standard basis, which has promoted international trade to a better standing than at any time since the world war.

American security markets have had the most active period in their history. The turnover of stocks on the New York stock exchange set a new record for volume and the average of prices advanced almost steadily to a new high level. In fact, the only suggestion of inflation that has been made has been in connection with speculation in securities and the greatly increased amount of credit being absorbed in speculation.

On the other hand, the position of our federal reserve system remains strong and denotes absolute soundness of the country's economic and financial situation. Aside from the debatable question of whether loans on securities are unduly high, there is no evidence of credit or currency inflation and the banking system has ample ability to care for all demands that the future may impose.

BUSINESS CHIEFS OPTIMISTIC OVER 1928 PROSPERITY

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

Executive heads of leading corporations throughout the United States are practically unanimous in the belief that 1928 will be a year of increased prosperity. This is revealed in a symposium, assembled by The Chicago Tribune survey, which includes the remarks of bankers, business leaders, statesmen and economists on the outlook for the current year.

To date, 200 leaders in the many branches of business and industry have expressed themselves and of this total 150 voice optimism about 1928, while 20 are not so confident. Some of their views follow:

H. T. PARSON, president of F. W. Woolworth & Co.—Only an upsetting influence on account of politics will deter the advance of prosperity.

Basic Conditions Sound.
HAILE HOLDEN, president, Chicago Burlington and Quincy railroad.—For business in general my opinion is that basic conditions are sound and despite the reaction of the last few months there is no reason to fear the development of any serious recession.

GERALD SPOPE, president, General Electric company.—The outlook for 1928 is favorable. Economic conditions are sound and the satisfaction of the demands of 120,000,000 people should provide ample business activity with the usual attendant improvement in the art.

JOHN J. O'BRIEN, president H. M. Byllesby & Co.—The public utilities as at present organized will continue to serve a constant and a rate proportionate to further national development.

Good Tire Industry Year.
J. P. PATTERSON, manager Firestone Tire and Rubber company.—We feel that this will be the best year for the tire industry has ever experienced and feel sure that the general business conditions will be a very sound basis.

W. B. STOREY, president Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe railway.—The outlook for 1928 is quite satisfactory in every direction.

A. R. ERSKINE, president Studebaker corporation.—Studebaker expects great national prosperity in 1928 and is planning its operations accordingly.

Hope for Railroads.
C. R. GRAY, president, Union Pacific railroad.—In the territory served by our lines there will be a somewhat better business during the first half of 1928 than for the same period of 1927.

S. W. STRAUSS, president, S. W. Strauss & Co.—Favorable building material prices and adequate available capital for necessary enterprises stand by to help the year step forward.

JOHN R. THOMPSON JR., president, John R. Thompson company.—We are looking forward to the next twelve months with so much confidence that we are embarking upon an expansion program unprecedented in our history.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER, president of the Chrysler corporation.—American business should gain satisfaction out of the fact that it can look back upon a year of good business and can look ahead with confidence. I look for a very good year in 1928.

Increasing Prosperity.
WALTER J. GREENEBAUM, vice president Greenbaum Soaps Investment company.—Innumerable signs indicate that the year 1928 will be marked by consistently increasing prosperity.

A. E. DICKENSON, president Indiana Limestone company.—Conditions are sound and genuine confidence in the future makes a continued large volume of new building.

F. A. MERRICK, vice president Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.—Taking into account the large investment in agricultural products and their values now coming into evidence and the stiffening in demand for the products of steel and other metals, it is reasonable to see encouragement in prospect for the year to come.

ROY A. FORBES, sales manager Victor Talking Machine company.—There is every evidence that 1928 should be generally better than 1927, if not quite as good as 1926.

F. C. RAND, president International Shoe company.—The situation points to a successful year during 1928, particularly for the business that is operated along lines of sound economy, without undue expansion.

L. A. DOWNS, president, Illinois Central railroad.—There is a marked predominance of favorable over unfavorable factors in the general business situation.

A. W. SULLIVAN, Tide Water Oil Sales corporation.—With the exception of a certain few surpluses, they seem to be many indications of a prosperous and sound year.

1927 Exceeded Expectations, 1928 Looks Bright; Simpson

BY JAMES SIMPSON.
(President, Marshall Field & Co.)

The business experience of the year just closed has been more gratifying than the signs by which we have been accustomed to estimate business had led us to expect. This is not a new experience in recent years. It leads to the conclusion that this country has developed a consuming power beyond our estimates.

The fundamentals of business are sound. Credit is abundant for commercial enterprise. Stocks of goods are low and well managed in the hands of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers. One of the most favorable factors in the situation is the almost universal conservatism of business.

Some apprehension may be felt because of the unprecedented expansion of bank credits resulting from stock market operations. Stock market loans of this sort and the security speculation that grows out of them should be reduced as far as possible without harmful depreciation of security and commodity values.

Tendency Toward Economy.
Very creditable showings have been made by many of the country's leading businesses in the direction of economy of overhead expenses. There is a gratifying tendency toward greater efficiency in management.

There is less fear of the presidential election as a detriment to business than is usual at the beginning of a campaign. Business men are confident that whoever is elected among the candidates who now seem to have a chance of success could be expected to administer the office conservatively. Presidential elections have been directly harmful to business only when great economic questions were national issues. If the present congress disposes of the problems of farm relief and flood control there would seem to be no presidential issue left that could have any important bearing on the course of business.

Foreign Situation Improves.
There is steady improvement in the foreign situation. Every major country of Europe has made distinct progress in the last year. We should consume more of foreign goods and sell more of our goods abroad in 1928 than in the year just passed.

The domestic situation is encouraging. There is plenty of money for commerce and industry at reasonable rates. There are indications of industrial acceleration, increased employment, and improvement in business earnings. Prospects look better for the automobile business. The building industry promises to continue to make for general prosperity. While building permits have declined somewhat, engineering projects and public improvements of many kinds have increased proportionately. Public improvement during 1928 probably will set a new high record.

I see no reason why we are not justified in looking forward to a business in 1928 fairly comparable to that which we have enjoyed in 1927.

business is done by the packers, who ship products abroad and trust to their distributing agents there to dispose of them at the best possible prices.

Supplies of live stock were ample, especially of hogs, which largely exceeded the previous year, and products were relatively cheap. Lard in Chicago had a range of $11.50 to $12.35, while in 1926 the range was $11.75 to $12.10. Bellies at the low point were nearly 30 per cent cheaper than in the previous year, while the top figures were only about 10 per cent above 1926.

Supplies of both pork and beef were ample for all demands, despite the reduced marketing of live cattle.

LEECH SURVEYS TRADE OUTLOOK; CALLS IT GOOD

BY HARPER LEECH.

In this season of business prophecy a glance at the history of business forecasting in recent years is rather reassuring.

Bankers and bank circulars are on the whole unusually optimistic now. Business statistics have not been so favorable. This condition obtained at the beginning of 1925. The optimists were vindicated by the year's results.

Disturbed by the Florida boom and stock speculation at the beginning of 1926, the bank circulars were more cautious. Herbert Hoover's prediction Jan. 1, 1926, was rather more optimistic. Hoover was vindicated by 1926, the big best business year to date.

Comparing Hoover's summary of conditions at the beginning of 1926 with known conditions today inclines one to the feeling that prospects are very good indeed. Some conditions now are more favorable than then, some less so. They balance each other fairly well.

Here are some of the things that we do not have to worry about in 1928:

1. Europe—the recovery there belies all the calamity howling of 1922 and 1923 to the effect that no genuine prosperity could come to America until pre-war trade and price relationships were restored. Under this head place all the debt cancellations, league of nations, and free trade stuff.

2. Immigration restriction, denounced as late as 1923 as a brake on production, now generally conceded to be a misapprehension of prosperity, with surplus labor available today the only serious cloud on our business horizon.

3. Florida—forget it—we have.

4. Too much gold—all predictions of inflation and commodity speculation have been belied by events.

5. Installment buying—no longer a problem, much less a menace. We would be better off with more of it next year, in all probability, but we have probably passed the peak.

6. The farmer—regrettable and unjust as the distribution of the national income as between agriculture and the rest of us has been, it has not halted industrial prosperity and the balance of farm and factory prices is now improved a great deal. On that score we are better off today than at the beginning of 1927.

7. Foreign competition. We exported more this year. Europe exported more. Proving again there is plenty of world trade for everybody and that American industry can hold its own and make gains against European wage rates.

8. Foreign loans. We have steadily expanded them without pinching anybody at home for capital—proved by the downward course of money and yields.

Foot Bros. Preferred Stock Yielding Over 7%

The current activity in Foot Bros. Common stock (listed on the Chicago Exchange) shows inquiry concerning the investment position of the company's 7% Preferred stock, which may be purchased at a yield over seven per cent. The company has recently acquired the plant and business of the A. Thompson Manufacturing Co. It is in an exceptionally strong cash and current asset position. Total current assets, including cash of $22,219, amount to $1,257,478.21. Total assets, $3,379,666.64.

The company is reported to be earning about $49 per share on each share of Preferred stock outstanding, or seven times the dividend requirement. Stockholders behind each share of Preferred is over $250. The market value of the company's Common stock which follows the Preferred is approximately $2,280,000.00. Believing that Foot Bros. 7% Preferred stock is an investment of exceptional merit, we have prepared a prospectus circular describing in detail all of the important facts relative to the company. BRITAIN GREET A ROSIER YEAR FOR INDUSTRIES

Unemployment Drops; Big Loans Taken.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Great Britain enters this new year more hopefully than any since the war. While some "heavy" trades, such as iron, steel, and coal, still are depressed, they are improving, and many others, especially the automobile and artificial silk industries, have been booming during the last year.

Disturbances have settled down and there is a prospect that the forthcoming meeting of the trade union leaders with the great industrialists may lead to a definite peace treaty covering several years.

One of the best tests of prosperity is the money available for investment. During the last year the British public supplied $35,000,000 ($1,715,000,000) new capital, of which only $5,000,000 ($245,000,000) was for government loans. The rest went for industry.

This compared favorably with 1926, $30,000,000 ($1,100,000,000) in 1926, and about $200,000,000 ($1,000,000,000) in the years before the war. Excluding the government loans, 49 per cent of the total was for home investment, the rest going to foreign countries, the dominions and the colonies.

Unemployment has been steadily decreasing, which means more than it seems, as it is not generally appreciated that industry is taking up the natural growth in population, which used to emigrate, as well as reducing the postwar surplus.

'27 CONSUMPTION OF COTTON HITS NEW HIGH LEVEL

BY SAMUEL P. ARNOT.

Chairman Cotton Committee, Chicago Board of Trade.

If the year 1926 be remembered as the year of the bumper cotton crop, with a total yield of 17,770,000 running bales, the year 1927 should be recorded as the one of maximum consumption of American cotton. The total, as estimated by the department of agriculture, is 15,777,000 bales. It was estimated by Col. Hester, secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, at around 16,885,000 bales, exclusive of 400,000.

Such a consumption record exceeds that of any previous year by 1,500,000 bales. It demonstrates what the world's spinners can use when supplies are abundant and the price is low. Thus 1927 has revolutionized previous notions as to the world's annual requirements of American cotton of last year's carryover.

Trading in cotton at Chicago made rapid progress during 1927, the volume of business being six times as great as a year ago. The fifty bale trading unit, with deliveries at Houston and Galveston, staple premiums, and low handling costs are the outstanding features of the contract. Cotton orders placed at Chicago find a liquid market and may be executed without undue fluctuations in quotations.

Arrangements were completed during the year to supply cable quotations for distribution in France and Germany.

BETTER PRICES HELP FARMERS IN YEAR OF 1927

Corn Outlook for 1928 Is Declared Good.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Better crops and good prices featured the agricultural situation in 1927 while the prosperity was not shared by all, especially the grain trade, the large yields of wheat and corn in the northwest and in Nebraska, and corn in Kansas removed the last serious spots in the general business situation in the country.

In the aggregate trading in grain futures sales for the year with the last four days estimated was 16,993,254,000 bushels against 18,570,275,000 bu in 1926.

From present indications there will be no recession in the upward trend toward the elimination of the abnormal spread which has prevailed between agricultural commodities and manufactured products.

Wheat, Corn Change Places.

The year started off with a fairly remunerative price for wheat to farmers, and a low price for corn, the latter declining steadily despite a relatively small crop in 1926, the depressing influences being abnormally large visible stocks and poor shipping demand. This situation was reversed in the spring when one of the worst seasons for corn planting in many years developed.

Cash corn which sold as low as 50c per bu in April advanced rapidly to a high of $1.15 per bu in August, and farmers who held back their grain sold millions of bushels at 90c per bu and over at country loading points. This, with the fact that farmers sold more wheat at much better prices than prevailed at the end of 1927, with high prices for cattle and hogs in the summer and fall, were factors in bringing about a material enlargement in general business in agricultural communities.

There was little in the wheat situation, except at seedling time in the northwest, to induce speculation to operate freely in that market, values having a range of only 35 cents for the year, the smallest under normal conditions in over ten years. With the exception of the month of May speculative trading was smaller than in 1926 and was probably the lightest in years. There has been a material change in the wheat market since the war and the average speculator has been trained to speculate in stocks rather than in grain. The decrease in outside interest in the grain markets has been pronounced in the last two years.

Poor Spring Wheat Weather.

Weather conditions for spring wheat seeding were very poor on both sides of the international line, but the crops matured ahead of black rust, and a yield of 219,000 bushels was secured in this country, the best in some years, compared with 204,000 bushels in 1926. Canada secured 435,000 bushels, or 25,000,000 bushels more than in the previous year. Winter wheat crop in this country was disappointing, due to drought in the northwest, and was 552,000,000 bushels, against 627,000,000 bushels in 1926.

A world's wheat crop of around 3,400,000,000 bushels apparently has been secured, or 100,000,000 bushels more than last year, but the increase in production was largely offset by the poor quality of the European and Canadian grain. Estimates as to the quantity required by importing countries shows requirements only 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels less than surplus countries probably can ship.

During the last three months of the year the price of wheat here held mainly within a range of 10 cents per bushel, a most astonishing showing considering the heavy after harvest movement in Canada and the favorable conditions for the new crop in Argentina.

Explains Corn's Advance.

The 1927 corn crop finally was estimated at 2,785,000,000 bushels, compared with around 2,275,000,000 bushels suggested in July, and fully explains why the price of cash corn advanced 67 cents from the low point of the year, only to decline 32 cents from

CORN PRICES UP, WHEAT LOWER IN 1927 MARKET

Higher prices for corn and a lower range for wheat, combined with an advance in cattle to the highest in seven years, were striking features of the year in grains and live stock markets. Oats, barley, and rye had a good advance, while meats averaged lower. Hay declined owing to the large crop and hogs, sheep, and lambs brought less money to producers. the top late. In 1926 the crop was 2,692,000 bushels, according to the revised figures. Not in many years were weather conditions in the spring so unfavorable for planting, and more grain went into the ground after June 15 than is known to the present generation of traders.

Conditions changed for the better late in the season and with little or no frost and hot forcing weather the crop came through with a rush, and visions of a yield materially below domestic requirements vanished.

March and May corn sold up to $1.22 in the middle of August on prospects of a small crop, but broke to 84 cents for March and 87 1/2 cents for May by the last week in December, following the issuance of the final crop estimate.

Export Demand Helps Prices.

Oats crop was disappointing, being 1,195,000,000 bushels, against 1,247,000,000 bushels in 1926, and actual supplies for the 1927-28 season are about 34,000,000 bushels less than actually disappeared during the previous year. Rye crop aggregated 69,000,000 bushels, or 18,000,000 bushels above 1926, but the price was high, due to a good export demand, and the same applies to barley. The latter crop was 266,000,000 bushels, against 188,000,000 bushels the previous year.

With the supply and demand apparently closely balanced in wheat no material decline in the price is anticipated early in 1928, although some easing would not be surprising in January and February when the new Argentine crop starts to be pressed for sale. Trend of domestic values late in the year will be determined to a large extent by the outcome of the winter wheat crop. Acreage of the latter for 1928 is 47,789,000 acres, or 10.2 per cent in excess of 1926.

Low prices for corn in 1928 seem almost out of the question. Not only are aggregate available supplies only 25,000,000 bu in excess of the previous season, but values now on a world's parity for the first time in many years, and indications are that a liberal export business will be put through.

PACKING PLANTS SHOW GAIN IN TOTAL FOR 1927

Chicago packers slaughtered 11,512,000 head of live stock during the year 1927, compared with 11,245,450 in 1926, an increase of 167,550. Killing of cattle decreased 272,700, calves, 32,000 and sheep, 169,800, while hogs increased 638,070, more than offsetting losses in other animals. Profits of packers, it is said, were smaller than the previous year, despite the increased volume in hogs handled. Detailed comparisons follow:

	1927	1926	Decrease
Cattle	1,971,000	2,244,000	273,000
Calves	675,000	707,000	32,000
Hogs	6,073,800	5,435,771	638,029
Sheep	2,791,700	2,961,503	169,803
Totals	11,512,000	11,348,480	163,520

*Including 400,000 hogs in 1927 and 481,982 in 1926 slaughtered by downtown packers.

ALMOST RECORD LIVE STOCK YEAR FOR PEACE TIMES

Producers of live stock during 1927 experienced about the most profitable year in history of peace times. With the exception of hogs, prices for all classes averaged higher per head than in 1926.

Cattle showed the sensational gain of $13 per head over the preceding year, averaging $90 per head. Calves sold at 44 cents per head more than in 1926, and sheep 38 cents per head more than a year ago. Hogs, however, sold $5.67 per head less than in 1926, averaging $23.73 per head. In all, $499,798,200 was paid out for live stock during the twelve months, a decrease of $20,246,150 from 1926.

Combined receipts of all live stock for the year, of 15,158,800 head, were the smallest since 1917, with only five years when the twelve months aggregate was smaller during the last twenty-five years. The record of 18,653,539 head was established in 1924, when hog receipts alone were nearly 10,500,000.

Highest Cattle Price Since 1920.

Cattle in 1927 averaged $11.70 per 100 pounds, or $2 above 1926, and the highest since 1920. The record yearly average at $15.50 was established in 1919. Reports show fewer cattle on feed in the country and indicate that there will be a continued shortage for possibly two years. As an indication of the small supply on hand, shipments of stockers and feeders from Chicago during the year were the smallest in over a quarter of a century, barring the quarantine in 1915. Hogs averaged $10.05, against $12.40 in 1926, but were above the five year average. Prices touched the lowest level since 1924 during the short period in the year, but the tendency was higher at the extreme close, with prospects of higher prices at least during the first half of 1928.

About the only bearish factor in the LIVE STOCK VALUES DROP 20 MILLION FROM 1926 TOTAL

Live stock interests had a year of higher prices for cattle, and a lower range for hogs and sheep, which brought the total valuation of receipts at the Chicago stockyards for the year down to $499,798,200, as compared with $520,044,350 in 1926, a decrease of $20,246,150. The valuation the last year was the lowest since 1923, when it was $502,151,375.

Cattle valuation increased $8,217,420 over that of 1926, while hogs decreased $23,225,160. This was more than offset by losses in sheep, calves, and horses. Details for the two years:

	1927	1926	Decrease
Cattle	$58,651,000	$50,433,580	$8,217,420
Calves	11,400,000	11,905,425	505,425

trade at the end of the year was the Dec. 1 survey issued by the United States department of agriculture showing an increase of 5,000,000 hogs for 1928.

Sheep receipts were far from excessive, but, with a fairly liberal supply of weighty Colorado and Nebraska lambs in sight, prices finished the year on a downturn. Prices in 1927 averaged $13.90, or the same as in 1926.

Small Supply of Range Cattle.

Unusual conditions existed in the market for range cattle. Receipts during the year totaled 170,000, the smallest since 1921, with prices averaging $10.70, the highest since 1919 for range steers. Only three other years on record are credited with a higher average, the best being 1918 at $14.50, when 2,373 cars, an increase of 50, Tomatoes were handled in large volume, with 3,483 cars, compared with 2,569 last year. There were 2,397 carloads of watermelons against 2,517 in 1926. Where fruits and vegetables had to be shipped long distances from pro-

PRODUCE MARKET REFLECTS CITY'S GROWTH IN 1927

Chicago's food bill was $593,310,800 in 1926, or 30 per cent of the city's total business, as given by the census department's returns. With an increase in population, consumption in 1927 was considerably larger than in 1926, but it is difficult to estimate the actual increase.

The distribution of butter, eggs and cheese is a most important item, according to produce traders, who say Chicago affords one of the best markets in the country for provisions. Supplies are drawn from all over the United States, Europe and South American countries, the latter sending fruits and vegetables in liberal quantities at times.

Figures Show Business Done.

An indication of the business in fruits and vegetables alone that are handled in carloads and unloaded for distribution here, taking eighteen units, is given by E. C. Conklin, in charge of the bureau of agricultural economics, with headquarters in Chicago. The aggregate for 1927 was 66,875 carloads, compared with 63,146 carloads in 1926, an increase for the year of 3,729 carloads.

There were increases in eleven kinds of fruits and vegetables over 1926. The apple trade aggregated 7,162 cars, compared with 7,634 the previous year. Of oranges, there were 7,269 cars against 5,821 in 1926. Grapefruit, which has become popular, totaled 1,751 carloads, a gain of 32 over 1926. Lemon receipts were 906 cars, while in the previous year there were 874.

Potatoes Important Factor.

Potatoes and onions formed an important factor, there being 15,624 cars of the former against 14,858 in the preceding year. Of onions there were 2,373 cars, an increase of 50. Tomatoes were handled in large volume, with 3,483 cars, compared with 2,569 last year. There were 2,397 carloads of watermelons against 2,517 in 1926.
